MOTHER'S HELPER

Because she expects a blessed event in the near future, "Gretchen," intelligent dachshund owned by Mrs. Karl Kaesmeier, Leetsdale, Pa., is rushing the job of preparing tiny garments. "Gretchen" can't handle the needles very well, but she does a swell job of holding the skein.

PRAIRIELAND ... TALK

By ROMAINE SAUNDERS ATKINSON Route 5

LINCOLN—In rapid succession the Death Angel has played the final period to life's fitful dreams of three sturdy pioneers of the O'Neill community whom I had known for more than a half-century.

Her husband had been editor both in Ewing and O'Neill, revenue collector and county judge. The county judge the Selah family came into possession of the home in the north part of O'Neill originally built by my father for my brother.

These four have now joined them in the silent abode on the hill six feet under ground.

I had not learned of John Paul Sullivan's death until I went to O'Neill for a final feeble tribute to the memory of D. H. Cronin.

They both were among that group known as the "Michigan settlement." And then Joe Yantzi, another of that caravan of pioneers who constituted the salt of the earth, was brought in for burial.

Time writes the wrinkles on aging brows, but there lingers the hope that out beyond the dim unknown there blooms eternal youth for friends that we have known.

A dapper young gent picked up a couple of thousand in Lincoln to add to his total of $50,000 secured through the medium of forged checks the past 10 months and now in police custody looks out on his victims with cynical contempt.

The first man was an outlaw. The next one was a murderer. The race got off to such a start that within 2,000 years only eight people survived. The next multiplied thousands shook the earth under the tread of armies and tribal hate has drawn the plowshare of destruction across the fair earth throughout the centuries.

Prophets and preachers, priests and rabbis have proclaimed the gospel of goodwill, not unmixed with arrogance and bigotry. And what have we? Look out across the far horizons and catch your breath as your flesh creeps.

Unspeakable horrors of the world's greatest war and mountains of treasure sunk with nothing determined; nothing more than that the "One World" social philosophy fades to an illusive dream. Education, culture, science, mysteries opened to the noontide glare, spiritual refinement—and lurking behind it all is the black lust of a devouring beast.

She said her age was 83. A woman doesn't tell it until it is something to boast about. And with utter contempt for our public school "bellyache," she said she had made her living and acquired a competency teaching school when Nebraska teachers were getting $35 a month.

The day's generation of school kids are incorrigible in her venerable judgment and she has withdrawn to the sanctuary of a hotel apartment, admitting that she has money.

The verdict of an octogenarian on the times is always interesting if not important. The alibi now is living costs. Looking back across the span of four score years the oldtimer will sniff and say they always had to pay for what they got.

The Muscovite admits the insufficiency of communism by holding out his hand to a capitalistic country for a billion dollar credit.

Nervous, embarrassed and yet expectant, he stood waiting by the red brick wall of a country town store building as the bus rolled to a stop and passengers moved to get out.

A matron with greying hair among the disembarking ones caught his eye and glory-be illuminated his weather-marked face. A rush of the matron to his embrace, a kiss and away they went.

A homecoming scene on prairieland, and that couple undoubtedly were making a go of it amidst life's ups and downs.

For good or ill, 400,000 soft coal miners are subject to the whim of Mr. Lewis. That he ordered a six-day period of "mourning" to be observed by not working would have been of more practical value had the miners continued operations and turned the earnings for that period into channels for the benefit of the families of the victims of the Illinois mine disaster.

Some of the 130,000,000 citizens have been borrowing money to the startling total of 32 billion dollars, an all-time peak for bank loans. And it is recalled by the experts that this credit expansion is following the same pattern as that laid down following the World War I before the financial blowup.

Mr. Truman is no slouch as a politician. Maybe he got his training in Kansas City. Nothing goes over better in Yankee-land now than talking up to the Russian Reds.

Have you ever been asked to vote by one of those "institute polls" or seen anyone who has?

Mrs. Van Conett, James Wilcox Wed

PAGE—Relatives here have received the announcement of the marriage March 15 of Mrs. Cora Van Conett and James Wilcox at Bloomfield, where they will reside.

Mrs. Wilcox was the former Miss Cora Snell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Snell, pioneer settlers of this community.

SISTER DIES PAGE—H. F. Rakow has received word of the death of his sister, Mrs. Ben Rose, 84, who died late March 23 at Plainview.

Funeral services were held March 26 at Brunswick and burial was made there.

Brothers Meet in Germany—REDBIRD—Sgt. Jack Wilson, of Weiden, Germany, and Pfc. Junior Ray Wilson, of Furstenfeldbruck, Germany, frequently meet in the American zone of occupation in Germany, according to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wilson, of Redbird.

Sunday visitors at Ainsworth were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Eby and four boys, who visited Mr. Eby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Eby.

Mrs. Anton Nissen, mother of Mrs. Raymond Eby, arrived Sunday from Osmond where she took care of her mother, Mrs. Kate Fuelberth, for 10 days.

Numerous Outoftowners at Shoemaker Funeral

Numerous out-of-town relatives were here to attend the final rites for Miss Loucretia Shoemaker, 63, who was buried here March 20.

Among them were: Miss Clara Shoemaker, of Lynwood, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. William Burke, of Coleridge; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Corring, of Primrose; Miss Loucretia Burke, of Albion; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shoemaker, of Norfolk, and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Co-day and son, Edward, of Atkinson.

Marlene Kelly Honored on Birthday—PAGE—Miss Marlene Kelly was surprised on March 23 when eight of her girl friends came to help her celebrate her 12th birthday anniversary.

Those attending were Deana Fusselman, Maxine Park, Judith Trowbridge, Carol Knudtson, Audrey Braddock, Ruth Parks and Lorraine and Elaine Clasey. She received many gifts. Her mother, Mrs. Harold Kelly, baked the birthday cake and served a lovely lunch.

Live Wires in Demonstrations—AMELIA—The live wire 4-H club met March 23 with Zoe and Connie Gilman.

There were nine members present and also Jack and Dean Gilman who were visitors.

"Meat pie" was demonstrated by Zoe and Connie Gilman; "custard," by Sandra Gilman; "hard and soft boiled eggs," by Ardith Barnett; "how to set the table," by Jeanne Doolittle.

The next meeting will be held with Caroline Backaus on April 9.

Stage 3d Degree—PAGE—The Inman IOOF degree team staged the third degree for five new members of the Page lodge March 24. Nearly 60 were present.

WHICH WILL YOU HAVE?

Two factors determine whether you gather heaping baskets of eggs or get only about half what you should. First is the quality of chicks you buy. Second is the way you raise them. Both are controlled by you. This year, start chicks of only the best egg breeding. Get our top-grade, high egg-pedigree bloodline chicks—raise them right—feed and manage your pullets properly—and you'll gather full baskets of eggs from your laying flock.

Let us supply you with hardy, egg-bred chicks and help you with your poultry management problems!
