WHEN YOU AND I WERE YOUNG — O'Neill Retains Prestige As Celebrated Airship Visits

50 Years Ago About 8:30 o'clock last evening Wes Evans and R. E. Glass, while standing in front of the hotel, noticed a very bright light in the sky off to the northwest. Wes was confident it was the celebrated airship that he gazed upon. O'Neill is a great place. Whenever anything of great importance occurs it is bound to be connected with it some way. But it looked as if the airship was going to pass us up and not allow the citizens of one of the best towns of the state to gaze on its beauty. But it didn't. It is true that it visited several other communities before shedding its luminous light on O'Neill. Any citizen of O'Neill can now hold his head proudly erect and be happy, fully convinced of the fact that he resides in one of the favored sections. Prof. Hadley, of Morningside college, Sioux City, has been engaged by the musical union as musical instructor for a term of 10 weeks. He will meet with the union not less than four times a week and often if desired. He will also give private lessons in voice culture. Prof. Hadley is an accomplished musician and comes highly recommended, having been connected with the Morningside conservatory of music for several years. We predict that the union will progress rapidly under his direction. Anyone wishing to do so can join the union by payment of $1, which will entitle them to the 10-weeks' course without further cost. This is a good opportunity to get the rudimentary parts of music at a merely nominal cost, and the membership of the union will undoubtedly increase largely. The term will close with that well-known and deservedly popular cantata, "The Little Tycoon." A good hotel is needed in O'Neill and if a united effort is made by the businessmen we can probably secure one. Brace your feet and put your shoulder to the wheel! W. J. Dobbs and Ben DeYarman spent several days last week in the southern part of the county writing chitney contracts. They contracted for 50 acres, which will be delivered to the O'Neill factory. Wilhelm Siburer and Miss Dora Koster were granted a marriage license by Judge McCutchen last Thursday. If that Greco-Turkish war wants to attract any attention in this part of the country, it must get down to business before our baseball season opens. 25 Years Ago Holt county will have a county agent for the ensuing year at least. Few People Realize How Much More Electricity They Get For Their Money Today. HOW DO YOU RATE ON THIS? If you would ask most people how the cost of electricity today compares with a few years ago, you would, no doubt, get many mistaken answers. Perhaps, you are aware that electric rates have constantly been reduced since Consumers Public Power District has been in operation. But, do you know how much? Actually, Nebraska homes served by Consumers throughout Nebraska pay on an average, 36.2% less per kilowatt hour for electricity today than they did ten years ago. People in every community served by Consumers benefit by these savings. You might spend more for electricity now than you did before. But that is because you use more for so many more beneficial purposes. The truth is, you get far more electricity for your money today than ever before, as shown by the chart at left. Black line above shows trend of Consumers residential rates compared to the national average shown by broken line.
