 There were 10 tables playing progressive pitch with high score going to Herman Janzing and to Mrs. John Cleary and Nick Casper Winkler, and low scores Ramold.

Contributing to Better Government

The brewing industry takes the same active interest as the public and public officials in seeing that provisions of Nebraska's excellent liquor control laws are properly observed wherever beer is sold.

The Nebraska Committee, with its program of self-regulation, aims at better licenses and better taverns. Tavern operators are reminded of laws and regulations. Frequent observations of retail outlets are made. Warnings are issued when improper conduct or conditions are found.

These efforts—which ease the work of enforcement officials, relieve the need for penalties, and help protect the best interests of the public—represent a contribution to good government.

WHEN YOU AND I WERE YOUNG — 'Sioux City Can Have a Road to the Coast'—M'Lean

60 Years Ago
 A company of Milwaukee surveyors was in O'Neill Sunday and went south Monday. From Will Kellar, who pulled them out of a mud hole, we learned that they were from Bismark, Dak., enroute to Ord; that they were Milwaukee surveyors intending to run several preliminary lines through the county and that a road would be built on one of them. Connections with Bismark would be immense.

Perhaps in all the history of O'Neill there was never an occasion or a day spent with so much genuine pleasure and participated in by so many people as was the celebration of the 69th anniversary of the founding of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of America on April 26, 1897.
 The tower of the Catholic church will be erected and the new bell placed in position. We understand that steps will be taken to erect a building and establish a Catholic school of some kind in O'Neill this year.

Weekes & Beebe have received a new lot of horses from the East and are prepared to furnish those who desire good horses at reasonable prices.
 Don't fail to hear Joe Critchfield on Sunday evening. He is better-known as the "rough diamond" of the West.
 W. B. Smith is building a new home in the southeastern part of town.

 From the Sioux City Times: Parlor suite 201-202 at the Mondamin hotel, occupied by Donald McLean, builder of the Pacific Short Line and the projector of the Sioux City & Western railway, was a busy place April 28. All day long there was a stream of visitors. Among the important callers were F. C. Hills, receiver of the Sioux City, O'Neill & Western; John Hornick, and John Pierce. Mr. McLean and Mr. Pierce have buried the hatchet and are again working hand-in-hand. It was arranged for Mr. McLean to go to O'Neill, where he will be accompanied by Mr. Hills, Chief Engineer Wakefield. Chief along and several matters in regard to surveys will be adjusted. "Everything is coming our way again," Mr. McLean said. "Thomas will soon be convinced that Sioux City can have a railway to the coast."

James M. Merriman died at his home last Thursday after an illness of about a year and a half. He was born in York state on July 10, 1836.
 The Morning Side, Ia., college club rendered a very successful program at the college chapel last Saturday evening. The Sioux City Journal has the following words of praise for Walter Lavoilette, of O'Neill: "Walter Lavoilette sang 'The Church Across the Way,' and responded with an encore, 'All for the Life of a Girl.' Master Walter has a charming voice which not only exhibits natural talent, but also much careful training."

Last Thursday evening a tragedy was enacted three miles west of town. The victim is a young man about 23-years-of age, said to be Frank Cole, of Greely Center. The parties responsible for his death are said to be six farmers from Keya Paha county.

 The Holt county crowd extermination association will hold a crowd hunt at the L. W. Arnold ranch, 20 miles north of the O'Neill cemetery and two miles east of the Liddy bridge, next Sunday. If the weather is suitable a picnic will be held in the grove at the ranch.
 It will not be necessary for O'Neill people to go to Holywood to get into the movies. The management of the Royal theater has made arrangements with the Chenoweth Film company, of Omaha, which will be here for the purpose of making a home talent picture entitled, "Why Pat O'Brien Will Live in O'Neill." The picture will be constructed with an entire O'Neill cast.
 A. R. Boehme has completed plans and has the contract to build a modern home for Mrs. A. V. Virgin. The excavation for the basement is now underway.
 Fire destroyed the Methodist church, parsonage, a large hay barn, owned by the Emmet Hay company, and the J. J. Shorhill barn Saturday night at Emmet. A call for help was sent to O'Neill and Atkinson, and both cities responded with assistance. The fire was discovered, seemingly, under the Methodist church. The Emmet Hay company barn contained 600 tons of hay.

 Nebraska was emeshed in freakish weather last week. It started blowing Thursday night and kept up until Sunday. At times the wind velocity reached 40-miles-per-hour. Electric service and transportation facilities were disrupted. Rotary snowplows were used to clear the highway from Randolph to Sioux City.

Arbor Day
 April 10 was originally the day set aside for the traditional planting of the tree. Arbor Day, now celebrated on Morton's birthday, April 22, was proclaimed a legal holiday by the Nebraska Legislature in 1885 and is now officially recognized by a majority of states. This year, Arbor Day's diamond anniversary received national recognition by presidential proclamation.

Editor of "The Conservative," a paper of general thought and opinion which had considerable national following, J. Sterling Morton, founder of Arbor Day, claimed Nebraska as his home from 1854 to 1892. He was secretary of Nebraska territory from 1858 to 1861 and, because of his great interest in forestation as a means of soil conservation and beautification, he served as Secretary of Agriculture in the President's cabinet from 1893 to 1897.

Another NEBRASKA CONTRIBUTION to the People
 Morton's dream of greater productivity for Nebraska's soil through conservation has a modern counterpart. Consumers Public Power District, Nebraska's own public utility, has steadily contributed to the development of the state by bringing the benefits of low-cost, efficient electricity within the reach of all. Equally important is Consumers statewide distribution system which has directly helped bring the benefits of vital irrigation to thousands of thirsty Nebraska acres. Nebraska's electric rates have steadily declined until Nebraska electric users enjoy, on the average, the lowest rates in the Middle West. Through this progressive system Nebraskans enjoy maximum benefits of the State's water and power resources. Like Arbor Day, Consumers Public Power District, a creation of Nebraskans, is a basic contribution to Nebraska's progressive development.
