MASS IN ROOFLESS CHURCH

Kneeling worshippers fill the roofless ruin of St. George's Catholic cathedral in Southwark, England, during the pontifical high mass marking the coming of age of the diocese of the Knights of Columbus. This is one of Great Britain's many churches which were heavily damaged by German bombs and rocket shells which rained destruction on the London area during the war.

LIBRARY CHATTER

By Miss Bernadette Brennan
 Have you visited your public library lately? Do you know that among the 3,500 books on hand there are many which will answer your questions, many more to give you that pleasant, out-of-this-world feeling which comes from a thoroughly interesting story?

From the "paybook" section of the adult books you may select from most of the "best sellers" the best in fiction. Read from these the current books at the very low cost of two cents a day. From the regular adult section two books may be taken on one card and kept two weeks.

Through the cooperation of our two schools, the young moderns have been introduced to that very enjoyable habit of becoming lost in an entrancing story with the knowledge that it will make a perfect book report for English class. To this end the junior section has been thoughtfully built. Dickens, London and Tarkington vie with Newberry prize-winners, top writers of today, who prove to teenagers that their lives can be worthwhile, full of adventure and pleasure.

Youngest Not Slighted
 The youngest groups of readers have not been slighted. Books for children from pre-school age up to and including those grown-up eighth graders. Books overflowing with true and imaginative stories, beautifully illustrated by talented artists. While the author carries the young mind on journeys to far-off lands—through thrilling mysteries, through animal and career stories, the artist is at work helping develop an appreciation of good art in the mind at its most receptive and retentive stage.

The Grattan township public library is open for book circulation on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons from 2 to 5:30 p.m.; on Thursday and Friday evenings from 7 to 9.

Card fee for residents of Grattan township and children attending local schools is 10 cents — cards to be renewed the first of each year. Nonresident card fee is $1 per year.

Two books may be checked out on each card and kept for two weeks.
 You are very welcome. Do stop in before too long.

Miss Mary Jean Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Murphy, returned last Thursday from a five-weeks' visit in the J. E. Ballew home at Sioux City.

Out of Old Nebraska — Spanish Bid for Territory Ends in Massacre at Columbus

By James C. Olcer
 One of the almost legendary figures in the story of old Nebraska is Lt. Col. Don Pedro de Villazur, the doughty Spanish soldier who in the summer of 1720 led an ill-fated expedition from Santa Fe to the River Jesus San Maria, the river which we know more poetically as the Platte.

The Spaniards, by virtue of Coronado's expedition into the Nebraska country almost two centuries earlier, claimed all of the upper great plains for their own. This claim, however, was actively disputed by the French — who, moreover, were doing something about it. Adventurous and cunning French furtraders were pushing up the far reaches of the Missouri, the Platte, and other western streams to trade with and arduous journey included farming implements, construction tools, domestic animals, and goods to be traded for furs. During the first week in August, the expedition arrived at the valley of the Platte. The exact location is not known, but it may have been in the vicinity of the present city of Columbus. They made first one attempt and then another to council with the Pawnees. The Pawnees, however, probably under impetus from the French, were hostile and determined on war. Col. Villazur then exercised what appears to have been very unsound military judgment. Failing to get a council with the Pawnees, he moved his command and camped in the tall grass of the Platte valley near the river's edge. Here the Indians, in a pre-dawn attack, wiped out the entire company, except four or five who were able to escape, and who ultimately found their weary way back to Santa Fe.
