County Superintendent

The new reading course of study for the state of Nebraska has instituted a beginners grade for five-year-old children.

Under this new regulation our rural children may be taken in school in September if they are six-years-old or six by November 1. Otherwise five-year-old children should wait until February 1. They can accomplish the beginners' material during the latter part of the school year.

HIGH PRICES, PRODUCE ROTS

Food is being dumped in hungry Britain. Tons of vegetables and fruits are being carted from London's Covent Garden markets to the country for dumping and plowing under because of a glutted market. Wholesalers charge retailers with refusing to buy large quantities in order to maintain "scarcity" prices. Retailers say wholesalers prefer to waste food rather than sell at low prices.

Band March Postponed Because of Weather

The march through the streets by the Municipal band and the public presentation of music awards, scheduled last Saturday, was postponed because of rain and threatening skies. However, the same program is planned this week, Director Ira George has announced.

The line of march for Saturday's program has been announced as follows:

From the O'Neill high school south on Fourth street to the city hall (playing one selection in each block); from Slat's cafe east on Douglas street to the Grattan township library corner (playing one selection in each block); thence west to the Golden hotel where the awards will be presented.

Among those who will be honored are Kathleen Flood, Wally Shelhamer, Paul Moseman, Ted Lindberg, Dolores DeBolt, Marjorie Hungerford, Richard Connell, Dolores Fredrickson, Charlotte Funk, Regina Mullen, Helen Urton, Joan Frenking, and Daniel DeBacker.

These represent both O'Neill high and St. Mary's pupils who were "highly superior" and "superior" winners in the midwest division of the national music contest held in May at St. Joseph, Mo.
