

When You and I Were Young — Joy Correspondent Complains About Poor Mail Service

60 YEARS AGO
March 8, 1888

A number of citizens gathered at the law office of M. F. Harrington Friday to organize a board of trade. P. Hagerty was elected president; J. H. Riggs and G. M. Cleveland, vice-presidents; C. H. Gardiner, secretary, and A. U. Morris, treasurer.

Joy News: Our mail facilities at this post office are not good. We get but one mail a week and seldom get The Frontier till one week Saturday after its publication. Our school house is closed for want of fuel. Whose fault is this?

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Cress gave a very unique card party at their cheerful fireside on Tuesday evening, which was attended by quite a number of young people. As accommodating and hospitable entertainers Mr. and Mrs. Cress have few equals. They served a elegant repast in the latter part of the evening, to which all did full justice, especially Mr. Evans and Mr. Bostwick.

That this is "God's country" the following from the pen of a Nebraska editor is proof: "When the rollcall is sounded on the judgement day, and the heavens have rolled together as a scroll, at the reverberations of wrecked and ruined worlds peal forth the flat of eternal rest, I want to hang my weary bones on the gallery-rack of immortality and register in 4-line pica as a man from Nebraska."

Mrs. S. A. Adams is in Chicago purchasing a stock of millinery and fancy articles to place in the building next to the postoffice. The opening will occur about April 1.

A chimney sweep wearing the usual "fool's cap," was in town Monday and received several jobs of work, which he performed. About noon he appeared on the street and became very noisy and Marshal Marlow went to take him in charge.

The singing boy objected and the marshal brought his billy club into play and let him have a little tap on the cranium. He was taken to the cooler and locked up for the night and the next morning given 15 minutes to leave town. He obeyed the order and started east along the Short Line.

Pete Grutch was in a runaway Tuesday. While coming up from the slaughter house driving Gatz's team, they became frightened and ran away. While crossing the walk near Pfund's corner, Pete was thrown out, landing on his head and shoulders. He received a cut on the chin and a severe shaking up.

Fred Richter, who formerly resided near Scottville, but who left there 3 years ago and settled in Platte county, returned to this city last week and will again settle on his farm. He is only one of the many who left this county a few years ago and who are now returning. Stay with the farms, boys, there is money in them.

Negotiations are under way for a county crow hunt to be held some time during the latter part of the month. All the townships of the county are expected and urged to take part. Get your hunting license and oil up the gun.

A radio concert was given at the Beha hotel Monday evening. A large crowd enjoyed the evening's entertainment. The country home of James Connolly in Shields township is becoming a regular radio center. The entire countryside gather there and listen to the outside world.

Jim says there are more radio "bugs" to the square inch in his neighborhood than in any other part of the country. Art Wyant is demonstrating his radio at the Connolly home tonight.

Emmett correspondence: Mrs.

Guy Cole taught the primary grades Monday, the regular teacher, Miss Helen Biglin, being confined to her home in O'Neill with the mumps.

Mock Trial Features of Postnuptial Shower

AMELIA—Mrs. Gerald Tesch was guest-of-honor at a post-nuptial shower last Saturday. There were about 40 guests present.

Games were sponsored by Mrs. Blake Ott and Mrs. Ralph Rees. The program consisted of a court "trial," each guest being found "guilty" and had to furnish some sort of entertainment.

The bride was charged with "larceny," stealing the heart of Jerry Tesch sometime in 1947. She was sentenced to life "imprisonment" and as a consolation was awarded a great number of gifts. Sandwiches, cake, jello and coffee were served.
