

Home Agent Hears Food Tips Coming from Hubbys

By Catherine Kirwan
Holt County Home Agent

"Hm-mm, doesn't that look good!"
"Isn't that pretty?"
"Why didn't I think of that?"
These and other comments have been heard at Home Extension club meetings throughout Holt county during the past two months. These remarks accompanied the lessons at each meeting on "Breakfast." The lessons included new ways to serve pancakes, fruit and cereals and the proper way to prepare eggs.

And, if you think that only the women were making the comments, you are much mistaken, for many were the suggestions given your home agent by the little woman's better half on the way he wanted his grapefruit, or his pancakes, or his eggs.

From the information gathered, it seems that the male population in Holt county has high regard for his ability as a cook. All of which makes the women very happy, for the ladies can now take that well-earned vacation without fear of indigestion for husband and family.

Back to "Breakfast." This is only one of many topics related to homemaking on which some 400 home extension club members in Holt county receive information and suggestions during the year. During the next 2 months, club members will be applying basic principles of kitchen arrangements to kitchens they plan to remodel or rearrange. Later on, they will begin working on accessories that can be made, for instance, from old felt hats. These are the demonstrations given club members for the current year.

CLOTHING KITS TO NEEDY . . . Six clothing kits are shown being assembled by intermediate Girl Scouts here for overseas shipment to needy children. The group had a quota of 2 kits in the nationwide Girl Scout plan to assemble 100 thousand kits, but these girls trebled their quota.

The packages, which will cloth 6 children whose ages range from 1- to 14-years-old, were shipped March 10.

Part of the clothing was purchased from proceeds derived from a cookie sale.

In addition to the demonstrations given club members by leaders, each club has chosen a program of additional material for its meetings.

High on the discussion list are found plans for lessons on care of house plants and flowers, helping adolescents choose a vocation, UNESCO, highway safety, understanding the teen-ager, and guide to good eating. These are only a few of the many topics chosen for discussion.

Through a county council composed of the 23 club presidents, group and county chairmen, the past county chairman, and a representative of the past county chairman, a program to attain certain objectives is set up for the clubs for each year. This organization, too, promotes other extension activities such as 4-H clubs and Rural Youth organizations.

"Today's home builds tomorrow's world" is the theme of the homemakers who are members of the home extension clubs, and through the demonstrations and discussions in their clubs, they hope to make their homes better, happier places in which to live today, and to build for better, happier homes tomorrow.

Current officers of the Home Extension council in Holt county are: Mrs. Edgar Stauffer, of Page, chairman; Mrs. Robert Martens, of Atkinson vice-chairman; Mrs. Ora Yarges, of Stuart, secretary; Mrs. E. A. Bouska, of Stuart, past county chairman; Mrs. Vern Sageser, of Amella, representative of the past county chairman; Mrs. Levi Fuller, of O'Neill, health chairman; Mrs. M. L. Jensen, of Stuart, music chairman; Mrs. James Allyn of Stuart, 4-H club co-chairman.

Letters to the Editor

The Frontier
O'Neill, Nebraska
Dear Sirs:

I am enclosing an article about our school and some of our activities as you requested. I am sorry that I could not get it to you sooner. I hope it is not too late to use. I do not live on a mail route where I teach and it was impossible to get this sent sooner.

I certainly appreciate the interest that the Frontier has taken in school activities. I think the rural schools are the least talked about schools in the country and it is about time more people heard about them. Most town schools have facilities for printing a paper of their own but many rural schools have not. Thank you for your interest in us and what we do.

Sincerely yours,
CHARLOTTE CHAPIN.

Page Woman Finds First Ripe Tomato

Mrs. H. S. Harper of Page, is proudly displaying what she contends is the "first ripe tomato" of the 1948 season. In the late fall a tomato plant showed up among Mrs. Harper's house plants. Eventually it blossomed and during the past few days a large ripe tomato has clung blushing to the vine.
