JAMES JENSEN LOSES ARM FROM ANTHRAX

James Jensen, a former resident of O'Neill, suffered the amputation of his left arm because of anthrax, in the Lynch hospital Tuesday evening. Mr. Jensen contracted the disease last Saturday while doctoring one of his cows that was sick, not knowing what the ailment was; some pimples appeared on his left hand, causing him much pain; he consulted a physician at Fairfax who treated the arm and hand until Tuesday when he informed Mr. Jensen that he could do nothing for him; pimples had appeared on the forearm and the arm was turning black; he was removed to the hospital at Lynch, where the operation was performed at once.

Martinus Jensen, father of the sick man, is in O'Neill today; he just came from the bedside of his son and says that James is feeling fine today. He says that when the pimples first appeared they resembled ivy poison in appearance but caused intense pain.

James Jensen was a resident of O'Neill a few years ago; he was associated with Harry Starlin in the garage business for a time. He now resides on a farm fifteen miles northeast of Fairfax; he has a wife and five children.

OLD MICHIGAN MAP QUITE INTERESTING

Bert Gunn brought an old map of Michigan to The Frontier office a few days ago. The map was issued by John Farmer, Detroit, in 1864; this was the 23rd edition of the map, the first edition was published September 29, 1838; the map shows the section lines, townships and county lines, Indian villages, railroads, mills, prairies, swamps and marshes, canals, plank roads and Indian reserves. The map was printed on parchment paper and is well preserved. On the inside cover of the map the name of J. J. Adams, July 22, 1867 is written. Bert says the map was among some papers belonging to his father, A. W. Gunn, who passed away a few years ago.

A number of O'Neill people are attending the Burwell races and rodeo today.

TAXPAYERS LEAGUE HELD MEETING WEDNESDAY

A meeting of the Tax Payers League of Holt county was held at the court house in O'Neill Wednesday. Tax payers from all parts of the county were present and were in consultation with the members of the county board of supervisors in an endeavor to have the levy reduced; they asked the Board to use every fair means to keep the expenses of the county down to the minimum and to see that the taxes of the county were collected.

YOUNG MAN HURT WHEN HORSE FALLS

Jack Lyntt, 17, son of Mrs. M. O. Benson living on a farm near Page, was injured at the William Krechman farm seven miles southeast of Atkinson when a horse he was riding fell on him while young Lyntt was driving horses and cattle in from the pasture about 6 o'clock Saturday morning.

He was taken to Atkinson by Mr. Krechman, where it was found his hip was cracked in two places. He laid in the pasture for nearly an hour after the fall before he was found. John Andrus, 16, of Atkinson, another workman on the farm, came to see why Lyntt was not bringing the cows in. Lyntt waved his hat, attracting the attention of Andrus, who rushed out to the pasture with three other hired men, who brought him to the house.

He is recovering at the home of Mrs. Matilda Olson, in Atkinson. He had been working on the Krechman farm prior to the accident.

HOGS KILLED AS BOLT LIGHTNING HITS SHED

Atkinson Graphic) When lightning struck a hog shed on his farm two miles east of Atkinson during the rain Tuesday night Earl Baker lost 15 head of hogs. The shed had been covered with straw recently and it was set afire by the lightning and collapsed on the animals that occupied it.

Quite an electrical storm accompanied the rain that night and many straw and hay stacks in the country were struck and destroyed by fire. Mr. Baker's is the most serious loss reported.

CATTLE DIE AFTER EATING SUDAN AND CANE

We understand that a number of head of cattle in the northeastern part of the county have died recently after eating sudan grass or cane; we are informed that one farmer lost nine head and another farmer lost two head after the cattle had eaten only a few bites of cane. The Frontier carried an article on this subject a few weeks ago telling about cattle that had died in the vicinity of Gregory, South Dakota.

Farmers should watch their herds and see that they do not get into the cane or sudan grass.

Mrs. James Moore and sons Bob and James Jr., went to Grand Island last Monday to visit an aged uncle who is quite seriously ill.

THIEVES ENTER THREE STORES AT STUART

(Stuart Advocate)

Saturday morning it was discovered that thieves had broken into three Stuart business houses during the night and a number of small articles had been taken. The places entered were the Peterson market on west Main street, the Wm. Krotter Co. implement shed at the south end of west Main street and the Kopp Lumber Co., facing the highway southeast of the general business section.

At the Peterson market the thieves took two revolvers, some canned goods, cigars, and a pair of field glasses and some small tools. At Kopp's some tools were taken. Nothing was missed at Krotter's, the thieves apparently not having found anything to interest them. Entrance to all three places was effected by breaking in the back way.

At about 11 o'clock the night of the robbery an Advocate reporter and other parties saw Dana Davis, former Stuart boy, together with a stranger of about the same size and age, in Stuart. Dana was once convicted of auto stealing and was paroled to Harold Beck, a farmer who lived northeast of Stuart and later moved away. He is a son of Mrs. Hazel Davis, formerly of Stuart. Sheriff Peter W. Duffy started attempts to locate the pair Saturday but they had disappeared.

Tracks of the robbers were found and measured for identification purposes, should any suspects be arrested.

It was rumored Tuesday that Dana Davis had been located at Norfolk, but there was no confirmation.

Mrs. O. A. Kilpatrick and daughter Mrs. Glenn Tomlinson, are visiting relatives at Atlantic, Iowa.

FLANNIGAN'S FACE NEW CHARGES AT BASSETT

(Rock County Leader) John M., and James C. Flannigan of Stuart and A. E. Flannigan, of Bassett face five complaints at Bassett charging them with violation of state banking laws, while they were officers of the Bassett State Bank. Five complaints containing a total of 19 counts were filed in the county court of Rock county Tuesday by L. G. Nelson, county attorney. The three defendants appeared before G. A. Hillburg, county judge, Wednesday, pleaded not guilty and their preliminary hearing set for September 14. Bond was placed at $1,000 each. H. D. Curtiss appeared as attorney for the defendants and L. G. Nelson appeared as attorney for the county and state.

One of the complaints carries 12 counts and charges each of the defendants with making false reports to the Department of Trade and Commerce, publishing false reports, and subscribing to false reports.

Two complaints of two counts each charge A. E. Flannigan with subscribing to false bank statements. One complaint of two counts charges the three brothers with subscribing to false bank statements.

One complaint of one count charges each of the three defendants with making use of a bank with intent to injure and defraud.

The Bassett State Bank is now in charge of a receiver, for the Department of Trade and Commerce, and at the time the alleged false reports were made John M. Flannigan was president, James C. Flannigan was vice-president and A. E. Flannigan was cashier.

The state had previously filed six complaints against John M. and James C. Flannigan as officers of the Citizens Bank of Stuart and the hearing on these complaints will be held in the Holt county district court in November.
