A slow-pay customer sent the following note to his garage mechanic: "Please send car; if O. K., will send check."

The mechanic, however, was not doing any business on such risky terms, so he wrote back: "Send check, if O. K., will send car."

Patient: "The size of your bills makes my blood boil."

Doctor: "That will be twenty dollars more for sterilizing your system."

"Our farm customers often telephone us for groceries. We put up their orders and have them ready when they reach town. This saves their time," a proprietor of a general store told us.

"Farmers also call us for prices and to find out whether we have certain articles on hand. This saves trips to town," he said.

"Personally, I don't see how anyone would try to farm without a telephone."

Joe Winkler's saw two coyotes south of their place Tuesday morning and called Crumleys to come from O'Neill with their hounds. Of course Crumleys were not expecting the call and had just fed the hounds so they were not able to run their best. Mut, one of the smaller ones threw the coyote several times but it would escape before the larger one that did the killing could catch up. The men couldn't keep up on account of fences, and other things. But when they lost sight of it, Mut was giving the coyote plenty of competition. When the men met the hounds next they were standing by the road waiting for them. They refused to show the men where the coyote was if they had killed it.

Lyndley Crumley remained during the day and watched for the other coyote and about six o'clock in the evening, he and Mr. Winkler drove through a large pasture east of Cal Tenborg's and scared a coyote, probably the mate to the one they had chased during the morning.

Three rabbits also jumped up near by. Two of the hounds pursued the rabbits while the other two, Mut and Queen gave chase to the coyote and soon conquered it. The coyote was medium size, its fur was almost white with a ting of grey.

Lyndley kept the hounds up Tuesday night and was ready for another chase should the opportunity arise, but none did, so he and the dogs re-

OIL Gone...

He Drove from Banner to Sheridan on the GERM PROCESSED "Hidden Quart"

The driver for the Sheridan Motor Bus Company was ready to leave Banner, Wyoming, for Sheridan with his big Reo bus loaded with passengers.

Then he made a discovery. The oil line had been accidentally broken, allowing the Conoco Germ Processed Oil to drain out, and the crankcase was empty. With all Banner closed for Thanksgiving, he could not get oil and had to drive the 16 miles to Sheridan without oil. At Sheridan, inspection showed that the "Hidden Quart" of Conoco Germ Processed Oil had saved the motor from damage!

If Conoco Germ Processed Oil can protect a heavy bus with the crankcase empty, it will certainly give you sure, safe lubrication in everyday driving. It is the only oil that actually penetrates and combines with metal surfaces. That's why a "Hidden Quart" stays up in your motor and never drains away. It cuts down wear in the starting period, when other oils drain away and leave parts unprotected. It gives your motor longer life, with fewer repair bills.

Have this extra protection. Change to Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil at the sign of the Conoco Red Triangle.

We neither encourage "dry crankcase" experiments nor guarantee success under all conditions. But untold letters from motorists, now in our files, tell of this and hundreds of other runs with empty crankcases but without damage.
