The main thing we have against a quiet spring evening is the smell of burning rubbish.

Life in Germany seems to be just one election after another. No wonder they are depressed.

Isn't it too bad that they don't base such things as taxes and rent on the theory of the "capacity to pay."

One of the operations of arithmetic which they certainly do teach in the schools in Europe is cancellation.

War is threatened between Bolivia and Paraguay. We didn't know there was anything left worth fighting over.

Edouard Harriott, the French radical leader, calls on the United States to "let Europe alone." With which advice we are in hearty accord and we hope that Uncle Sam will accept it.

The dear old free trader longs for a time when everything is cheap but always forgets that when things get cheap the people don't have the money to buy with.

It takes all kinds of people to make a world. Some worry over whether United States Steel will ever come back and others worry over whether or not Jack Dempsey will be able to do it.

The so called savage tribes that have been replaced on the American continent got along without "federal aid" and tax problems. "Civilized man" seems unable to manage without imposing a multitude of burdens on himself.

Preachers are often accused of keeping silent for fear of offending the rich and powerful. A speaker at the national conference of the Methodist Episcopal church made some vigorous comment on the great steel corporations announcement of another wage cut. He said: "The kind of a pagan world we live in is clearly pictured in the movement of stock exchange quotations Friday of last week. The headlines on the front page tell the brutal and inhuman story 'steel pay cut again; stocks raise rapidly.'"

"That is what we call a Christian civilization, a civilization which imagines that prosperity can be increased as human misery increases, a civilization in which thousands of men, women and children are pushed close to the dizzy edge of starvation, investors send up three cheers and press forward to profit on human misery."

The international debt situation was well summed up in a terse sentence by John Hays Hammond, internationally known mining engineer, when he said in an interview recently with newspapermen in San Francisco: "It is not fair to the American taxpayers to expect them to assume the burden of the European war."

That sums up the case in a nutshell. After all cancellation of the war debt which European nations owe the United States is not cancellation. It is merely a means for shifting the remaining unpaid burden of the war on to the shoulders of Uncle Sam.

Germany says she can pay no reparations, and the allied nations say that unless Germany pays reparations they cannot pay what they owe the United States. A cancellation all around would leave Uncle Sam holding the bag and give to his citizens the task of liquidating the remaining cost of the war.

THE COUNTY PRESS

Stuart Advocate: A barrel of oil was stolen from in front of the Wm. Krotter Co. implement department late last week. The shortage was discovered late Friday night.

Chambers Sun: The Earl Medcalf farm home five miles east of Chambers, was entirely consumed by fire Friday noon. It was caused by a coal oil explosion starting a fire. Mr. Medcalf escaped in a most marvelous way. He jumped into a bed and his wife wrapped him with the bedding, smothering the fire that had caught in his clothing. While they were saving his life, the whole house, which stood with open windows and doors, made an easy suction for the spread of the flames. Mr. Medcalf was badly burned about the hand and has sore lungs from the inhalation of the fumes. Mrs. Medcalf received no burns and the children were at school.

Inman Leader: Barney Corrigan, a bachelor living a few miles northeast of Inman, was found in the barn yard at his place Wednesday forenoon in an unconscious condition. How long he had laid there no one knows, but the examination of the wounds and bruises on his face and arms, Dr. French says were two days old. He was discovered by Mr. Retke, who was passing the Corrigan place on a load of hay. He noticed a man's body lying in the barn yard and went over to investigate. The supposition is that he suffered a stroke while attending his team in the barn and that the horses trampled on him causing the bruises on his body. He was taken to Page and is now under the care of Dr. French. Mr. Corrigan is about 70 years old and was never married. He has always lived alone on the farm.

Now Is the Time

The tendency of human nature seems to be to put off until a more opportune time, the spiritual and Christian development. We think we can look ahead to a place where we won't be so crowded with work, to where we won't be so worried with financial difficulties, and what-not, and before we know it ten years have slipped by and with them ten golden opportunities to have helped ourselves by helping our boys and girls and our youth to the better ways of living. To look back over a period of ten years seems like so short a time, while to look ahead it seems like a very long time. The reason must be that the things we have actually accomplished in the last ten years seem so small in comparison with the things we expect to accomplish in the next ten. If the next ten years roll around as quickly as the last, a lot of the boys and girls will have been charivariated before we get around to set that good example that we have planned so long. Besides we have no definite assurance that we will be here the next ten years. If we are going to do anything now is the time.

If I would die tonight I could leave my children but very little besides memories of home life while with them. And that fact in itself, does not make me feel lonesome because so many others are in the same fix. Any way, farms and bonds while they are desirable, can easily pass into other hands but memories of a home and church life that will inspire our youth to the higher and nobler ways of living are the things that will last.

Help the church and Sunday school of your choice, to help you to help our boys and girls to their worth while things.

Our Sunday school convention will be held in Atkinson, May 26, at the Methodist church. They are making great plans for it. Watch for further announcements in next weeks paper.

You will have to come early if you want to be sure of a back seat in the church.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES

We have received a request from the State Department that the Honorable William John Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, recommends that all schools celebrate Morser's discovery of the telegraph on May 13th. May 14th will mark the one hundredth anniversary of this remarkable invention.

The following letter accompanied by the bulletin below has been received by this office:

Dear Mrs. Parker:

Will you aid us in locating every crippled or physically handicapped child in your county so that they may be invited to attend a free Orthopedic Clinic which will be held at the Elks Club in Norfolk, Thursday, June 9th, 1932?

The enclosed Bulletin will explain the nature of the work, what has been done, and what it is possible to accomplish. All information furnished by yourself and teachers will be received in confidence. We must depend for information upon the reports of public spirited persons and your co-operation will be appreciated.

Cordially,
A. H. Mann, Field Representative, Rehabilitation of Crippled Children, 1010 State Capitol, Lincoln.

To the Teachers of Nebraska

Will you aid us in locating every crippled or physically handicapped child under twenty-one years of age in your county, so that they may be invited to attend a free orthopedic clinic which will be held at the Elks Club, Norfolk, Nebraska, Thursday, June 9, 1932, between the hours of 9:00 A. M. and 4:00 P. M.? You may do this by reporting to us or to your County Superintendent, the names and addresses of all crippled children in your school district.

This is the tenth in a series of clinics for crippled children conducted by county medical societies in Nebraska during the past year. Counties for which this clinic is intended are: Antelope, Boyd, Brown, Cedar, Cum- ing, Dakota, Dixon, Holt, Keya Paha, Knox, Madison, Pierce, Rock, Stanton, and Wayne. Through these clinics, free general and orthopedic examinations have been made available to over five hundred crippled children, many of whom are now on the road to recovery.

The Nebraska State Elks association and local Elks lodges, co-operating with the civilian rehabilitation division of the State Department of Vocational Education, are sponsoring a program for the physical restoration and education of all crippled children in Nebraska. The first step in the program is the clinical examination to determine what can be done to aid the child physically. Physicians, surgeons, and nurses, by the contribution of their services have made these clinics possible.

The need for this work was shown after a statewide survey revealed the fact that there are approximately five thousand persons under twenty-one years of age in Nebraska who have some type of physical handicap. Many of these children can be greatly improved, if not entirely corrected, by modern medical and surgical attention, braces or appliances.

Crippled children will become crippled adults if all possible correction is not made while they are young. Many of them will be confronted with the necessity of fighting their own way through life, handicapped both physically and educationally, in competition with able-bodied persons who have had every educational advantage. The crippled child does not want sympathy and a sheltered existence; it not only desires, but is entitled to, an even break with its more fortunate brothers and sisters. Through clinics of this kind, the parents of crippled children have been aided in preparing a definite program of physical restoration and education for their crippled child, which will enable them to become useful and independent citizens.

We are depending on your co-operation to assist us in reaching every crippled or physically handicapped child in your school district. All information will be received in confidence.

Eighth Grade examinations are being held over the county on Thursday and Friday of this week, May 12th and 13th.

County Superintendent, Luella A. Parker, has been visiting in the Rural schools of the county the past week.

I find that a large number of pupils who have taken the eighth Grade examinations and passed their grades have dropped from school. Having passed the examinations does not entitle the child to drop out of school until the school is closed since the State Law requires that in order to earn an Eighth Grade Diploma a pupil must have finished the Course of Study in addition to having earned his grades in the examinations.

Seventh graders, especially, cannot be excused from school at this time since it is only a privilege given to seventh graders to take part of the eighth grade examinations. All pupils should attend school until the end of the term in order to be eligible to a diploma.

Fertilizer for Lawns

Whoever works out a cheap and easy way to rid the lawns of dandelions will have his fortune made. So far the most common method is to dig the plant out with a large knife or special tool or to squirt a few drops of gasoline, sodium chlorate or sodium arsenate on the plants. Either of these methods is tedious.

Fertilizing the lawn and allowing the blue grass to grow will tend to crowd out the dandelions. Ammonium sulphate or some commercial fertilizer that is high in nitrogen content is most commonly used for Nebraska lawns. The best way to apply the ammonium sulphate is to dissolve it at the rate of one pound to three gallons of water and then sprinkle this mixture on about 200 square feet of lawn. The sprinkling should be done in the evening or on a rainy day rather than when the sun is shining on the grass.

Well rotted manure will add fertility to the lawn but it is unsightly and often full of weed seed. The ammonium sulphate can not be noticed and never contains any weed seed.

Use Poison Bran Mash For Cutworms

The planting of corn on land that was not in corn last year will do much to control the damage in some sections of the state in the last few years by corn root worms. If the stalks fell over badly last year the yield of corn was cut down considerably, and if the trouble seemed to be due to destruction of the corn roots by a worm, the field was probably infested with one of the four species of corn root worms. The only practical control measure is to plant the land to some other crop and grow the 1932 corn on land that was not in corn last year.

The corn root aphid, or louse, another insect that attacks the roots of corn, can be controlled by keeping down the weeds early in the spring and by thoro plowing and cultivation of the soil at that time to discourage the ants. The corn root aphid is helpless by itself and dependent upon ants for its food. Keeping the ants out of the corn field will control the aphid also.

A poison bran mash mixture composed of 100 pounds of bran, 5 pounds of white arsenic, 2 quarts of blackstrap molasses and enough water to make a crumbly mash is the most satisfactory control for cutworms in the cornfield. This mixture should be scattered very thinly along the corn rows after four o'clock in the afternoon or during a cool cloudy day. The hundred pound of bran and the poison will make enough to cover about 20 acres of corn if the mash is properly distributed.

Home Demonstration Project Clubs

The new project for home demonstration clubs is called the "Live-at-Home" project. The present period of lowered prices has meant a diminished amount of cash in almost every home. This project is designed to help the homemaker with savings which can be effected at home.

Any woman's group in the county may enroll in this project, or a group of six or more women may organize a woman's project club. The clubs send two project leaders to the central meetin gplace where a state Extension Specialist will present the lesson to the leaders. The project leaders will then present the lesson to their own club members. If fourteen clubs are organized in the county, a specialist will spend two days in the county. The meetings could be held at two different points in the county.

Problems to be taken up during the year will be: "Providing for the Winter Food Needs," "Aids in Home Nursing," "Making the Old Clothes New," "Spending the Holiday at Home," "The Summer Meat Supply," "Use of Dairy and Poultry Products," and "Home Baking."

Any group interested in the work can secure more information from the Farm Bureau Office.
