INMAN NEWS

C. P. Hancock and sons, Charles and Marlin Dean, of O'Neill, were in Inman Monday afternoon visiting at the home of his mother Mrs. Mary Hancock.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Lewis and family, of Pierson, Iowa, have moved here and will live on the George Davis farm. They were accompanied by Mr. Davis who lives with them.

Miss Jensen arrived here from Madison, Nebr. Friday, to take up her duties as instructor in the Inman schools. Miss Jensen and Miss Gifford are the only new teachers in the school this year.

Miss Dorothy Wilcox left Monday for Lincoln to resume her duties as instructor in the schools of that city.

Joe Flange and Al Collier, both of Randolph, were here Thursday visiting their old friends and neighbor J. A. Gifford.

John Gorden and son, Waldren Gorden, of Omaha, are here visiting at the home of Charles Fowler and other friends. The Gordens were former residents of Inman, John Gorden being section foreman here about forty years ago.

Lawrence Jones, of Chambers, and Dorlin Lockman, of Stuart, arrived here Friday to take up their work as instructors in the schools here.

Miss Mildred Keyes went to Stuart Sunday, where she has contracted to teach near that place this year. Her school opened Monday.

Mr. Fred Waller, of Atlanta, Ga., arrived here Sunday night for a visit among old friends. Mr. Waller, with his parents and brother and sister left Inman thirty-nine years ago and this is his first trip back. Mr. Waller says while things have changed considerably, he is locating a number of the old land marks and meeting many old time friends.

Mrs. E. J. Enders and her niece, Miss Mildred Riley, left Friday for Kansas City, Mo., where they will spend a week visiting relatives.

Judge and Mrs. C. J. Malone and daughters, Miss Florence, of Omaha, and Mrs. Elmer Spann, of Atkinson, were in Inman Monday visiting at the Mary M. Hancock home.

Some one helped themselves to a truck load of wood which Guy Beckwith had sawed ready to haul home for winter fuel. The wood was on his rented land southeast of Emmet.

Pleasant Dale school opened Monday with all pupils present. Miss Minnie Segar is the teacher. This is her third term here.

Friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ernest gave them a surprise party and shower Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lorenz entertained a crowd of young folks at their home Friday evening. A treasure hunt furnished plenty of excitement and entertainment. At 10:30 the treasure hunters joined a crowd of neighbors and relatives and helped charivari the newly weds. The gang were unable to arouse them so proceeded to find a way into the house and gained entrance through a window. Then Mr. and Mrs. Ernest opened the door and welcomed the crowd. After the charivari the treasure hunters returned to the Lorenz place where Mrs. Lorenz and Miss Velma Stahley served a delicious lunch of sandwiches, cake and coffee.

John Nabor, a well known farmer living about six miles north of Emmet, underwent an operation for a cancer at the Stuart hospital Monday morning.

O. E. Eldredge and George Savidge, for many years engaged in the creamery business in this city, with a bunch of Norfolk people, have purchased the Gold Star Creamery of Norfolk and reorganized the same and opened up for business. Mr. Eldredge has been elected vice president and general manager of the company and Mr. Savidge has been elected secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Homer Mullen, who had been employed under Mr. Eldredge and Mr. Savidge in the Hanford Creamery here for several years, left yesterday morning for Norfolk, having accepted a position with the new company.

Their O'Neill friends wish them success in their new location.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Boyle, of Omaha, and Mr. and Mrs. John Boyle, of Darlington, Wis., came up last Saturday night to attend the funeral of the late Thomas J. Birmingham. John Boyle was a former resident of this city, leaving here something like a quarter of a century ago and returning to Wisconsin where he has been engaged in the practice of law. At the last primary election Mr. Boyle was nominated by the democrats of his Congressional district as their candidate for Congress. While the district is strongly republican there is a bitter fight between the LaFollette partisans and the old line republicans and it is said that Mr. Boyle stands a good chance of winning the race in the November election.

D. P. Wetzel has filed suit in the district court against Dan Campbell, et al., to foreclose a tax lien on lot 5, section 6, township 32, west of the Sixth p. m. in Holt county, Nebraska. In his petition he alleges that on November 11, 1927, the treasurer of Holt county sold to J. B. Gibson, at treasurers tax sale, for the taxes then delinquent on the land in question. That he subsequently paid the taxes thereon for the years 1927 and 1928. In May, 1930, the tax sale certificate was assigned to the plaintiff in this action. He asks that an order of sale be issued to the sheriff to sell said land as upon execution and that a writ of assistance be issued to place the plaintiff in immediate possession of the real estate named and for such other relief as may be just and equitable.

ATKINSON HOLDS FREE DAY

The people of our enterprising little city on the west, Atkinson, are to be congratulated upon the success of their Free Day, which they celebrated yesterday. Hundreds from this city and vicinity were in attendance and they say that Atkinson entertained the largest crowd in the history of the city. It is stated that no one was expecting such an enormous crowd and that although they had provided four large barbecue beeves and thousands of delicious sandwiches, the supply ran out early, but the enterprising citizens kept the bakery running over time and the meat markets were called upon for an extra supply, so that the hunger of all could be appeased. The members of the O'Neill Beret Club, who will conduct O'Neill Free Day on October 12th, will have to spread themselves if they can provide as good a crowd as Atkinson entertained yesterday.

K. C. Opera House

It has been several years since the Chase-Lister Company visited O'Neill, but the theatergoers will no doubt be glad to see a flesh and blood show again. This company has always been a popular one here, and this year is better than ever. They will be here for a full week starting next Monday, September 12th, with a change of play and vaudeville every night. Monday night one lady is admitted free if accompanied by one paid ticket. See their advertisement in another column. The opening play is "The Unwanted Child," Monday night.

Methodist Church Notes

Benj. Kuhler, Pastor
All regular services next Sunday morning and evening. This will close the Conference year. Annual Conference in Lincoln beginning Tuesday, the 13th. If every institution could report the gains the church in O'Neill has made, there would be no need of depression talk. And the church is the institution that must lead the way to prosperity, as it has always done in the past.

The evening service was well attended last Sunday and many favorable comments were made about the sermon preached by Eldon Wood. This was his second service this summer. We will miss our other young minister, Ted Boyer, who has gone to school.

Choir will have two specials Sunday morning.

We have prayer and Bible study service Thursday nights. Any are welcome to all services of the church.

Services at the First Presbyterian Church

Sunday School 10:00—Mr. Geo. C. Robertson, Superintendent.

Morning Worship 11:00—"A Good Name," will be the subject.

Young People's C. E. 7:15.

Evening Service 8:00—"The Master is Passing By."

Our two choirs are preparing music for the above services. Plan to attend. A cordial welcome is extended to strangers.

H. D. Johnson, Pastor.

New Idea About Trench Silos

Trench silos are common enough over Nebraska so that farmers who think of building one can drive a few miles to see what some other farmer has done and talk to the man with experience about the advantages and disadvantages of the trench type of silo. It is estimated by men at the Agricultural college that 2,500 to 3,000 silos were in use last season.

Most of the spoilage in the trench silo has occurred in the past near the logs which were placed long the edge of the silo to keep the loose dirt from rolling into the trench. The new plan suggested in Nebraska Extension Circular 713 calls for the setting of posts along the edge of the silo. The posts are anchored to a dead man placed in the ground several feet back from the edge of the trench. This arrangement makes a perfectly smooth wall which should prevent spoilage near the edge of the pile of silage.

Experience has also shown that the covering of the silage with three to four inches of dirt will keep the silage as well if not better than any other covering that has yet been used. Coverings of wet straw over which two or three feet of alfalfa hay was stacked gave good results in the past two or three years tests.
