

EARL TREPPISH IS ARRAIGNED IN DIST. COURT

Last Monday Earl Treppish, who is being held in the county jail charged with the murder of Clarence Coy on or about April 1, 1932, was arraigned before Judge Dickson in district court last Monday afternoon and entered a plea of not guilty.

Treppish informed the court that he did not have any money or property and that he was unable to employ an attorney to defend him and asked the court to appoint an attorney. The Judge appointed attorney D.R. Mounts, of Atkinson, to defend him at the coming trial.

The date of the trial was not set Monday, but it will probably be one of the first cases tried at the coming term of district court next November.

IMPROVEMENTS IN THE CITY

Dr. F. J. Kubicek has had a new roof placed upon his residence.

Charles Bausch is building a nice little bungalow home in the south-eastern part of the city, on lots that he purchased last spring from Bert Gunn.

A case that was the outgrowth of the divorce case of Thomas Englehaupt vs. Effie Englehaupt heard in the district court last Monday. When Mr. Englehaupt was granted a divorce on August 29, 1931, the mother was given the custody of the baby, then two months old, born after the divorce action was started and Mr. Englehaupt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Englehaupt were given the custody of the two eldest children. On September 2nd they filed an application in court asking that the decree be modified and the children given to some one else as they alleged that the condition of their health was such that they could not properly take care of the children. The case came on for hearing Monday. Since the divorce action Mr. Englehaupt has remarried as has also his former wife. In court Judge Dickson examined all the parties interested, including the father and mother of the children. He asked the father if he did not want to take the children and take care of them and he said he was willing, but that his wife objected. He then asked his former wife, now Mrs. Green, if she would take the children and she said that she always wanted them and could take care of them. The judge then called her husband, Mr. Green, and he said that he and his wife had talked the matter over and that they wanted the children and could take care of them. So the former decree entered in this case, as far as the custody of the children were concerned, was modified and the mother was given the custody of the children. The question as to the amount of support money to be paid by the father, for the support of the children, was continued until the first day of the next term of district court.

The South Fork Fair is on at Chambers this week and hundreds of our citizens have been in attendance. They say that they have a splendid exhibit and that there have been good crowds in attendance each day.

John Harrington is building a nice new bungalow home, just north of the Academy. The building will be one story, twenty-four by thirty-six feet, and when completed will be one of the prettiest homes in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harper, of Shelbyville, Illinois, were in the city the first of the week. As a young man Mr. Harper was a resident of this county and worked on the old Potter ranch, southwest of this city as well as for Mr. McDonough, north of town, and for Tim Dwyer northeast of the city. He was also very well acquainted with the late John Harmon and took a homestead in the south county, adjoining Harmon's in the early eighties, proving up on it the latter part of 1887. Mr. Harper left here shortly after the big blizzard of January 12, 1888, and has not been back since that time. He had a very vivid recollection of the pioneer days in this section and remembered all the old pioneers, all of whom have passed to the great beyond, but he met some of the children of these old pioneers and enjoyed visiting with them.

500 STUDENTS ARE FROM RURAL SCHOOLS

During the school year ending June 30, 1932, 476 pupils had applied for free High School tuition, under the County High school Tuition act. Under this law the county treasurer paid to the various High Schools in the state, which were attended by high school pupils from this county, the sum of $41,118.00.

For the school year, commencing July 1, 1932 and ending June 30, 1933, 502 pupils have applied for free high school tuition, an increase of twenty-four over the number of pupils applying one year ago. If all those who applied attend school this year the county will pay for their tuition the sum of $54,216.00.

Under the County High School act school districts that do not maintain a high school are taxed for the tuition of the high school students of that district that attended high school in other districts in the state. While the money is paid by the county to the various school districts it is collected by the County Treasurer from the property in the several districts that have students in the various high schools. School districts that maintain a high school do not have to pay any of this tax. The levy last year, on the several school districts for this high school fund was one and eight tenths mills. This year the levy is three and three tenths mills.

Although they arrived over an hour behind scheduled time, there was a good-sized delegation on the streets to greet them on their arrival. The delegation started at 8 o'clock Friday morning and took in all the towns in the west end of Boyd county, coming here from Spencer.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Keyes, who are among Inman's earliest settlers, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage at their home in Inman, Tuesday, September 13th. At noon a dinner was served to the relatives and a number of old and intimate friends. The rooms were beautifully decorated with yellow and white streamers and white wedding bells and flowers. The long table was also artistically decorated for the occasion. The main feature of which was a huge wedding cake bearing the dates 1882-1932, near which stood a bride and groom. The flowers on the table were white frost flowers and wild callyopsis, both of which were gathered from the meadows and which were the same kind of flowers that were used as decorations at their wedding fifty years ago.

Dinner guests were; Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Keyes, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Keyes and family, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rouse and family, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Keyes and family, Miss Mildred Keyes, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Moor, Mrs. Mary Hancock, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Riley, Mrs. Elias Brombaugh, Mr. and Mrs. George Geary, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Carpenter and Rev. Mertie E. Clute, all of Inman. An interesting program was carried out during the noon hour. Karl Keyes acted as master of ceremonies. Talks were given by G. E. Moor and Judge Malone. Letters of greeting were read by Mrs. Herbert Rouse. A beautiful electric radio was then presented by F. E. Keyes from their children and other relatives. They also received a number of lovely gifts from the other dinner guests.

At 7:30 in the evening a reception was held at which time 120 friends came to extend congratulations, among which were the court house officials from O'Neill, who presented them with a ten dollar gold piece. A beautiful occasional chair was also presented by their Inman friends as well as many other gifts. A program was then given by the children and grandchildren, which was greatly enjoyed. Following this program, ice cream and cake were served to the guests.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Keyes were born in eastern states, one in New York and the other in Pennsylvania.

In March, 1880, Mr. Keyes came to Nebraska, desiring of tilling its fertile soil, that had no rock to be removed as there was in his native state. His arrival at Stanton, Nebr., was made memorable by a blizzard the following day, causing a delay of ten days, after which he continued on to Cambridge by rail. From there he traveled by stage to Neligh. He then accompanied William Inman on a load of lumber to Inman, stopping at the Langy place. From there he walked to Yorktown, which is now Inman. For the first month he boarded with the Bert Smith family, making a total of ten people living in a shack twelve feet square.

Immediately after his arrival Mr. Keyes and Bert Smith walked south of town to look at the land, and Mr. Keyes found a desirable quarter just one mile from town and the next day filed papers on a homestead. Twice a week he received mail which was brought to the Hart postoffice north east of Inman.

In November of the same year, Matilda Clark, with her mother and brother, Merritt, came to Inman. Her father, Edmund Clark having arrived some months before.

The Clarks traveled by rail as far as Neligh. The journey was a long tedious one as they could not cross the Missouri river either at Blair or Missouri Valley, so were forced to come by the way of Omaha. From Neligh they traveled by stage until they reached the Hart postoffice. The barren appearance of the country, lack of trees, Indian scares, and other things caused Miss Clark to be very depressed. The Clarks were entertained their first night here at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Baldwin, and after a good supper and plenty of good western hospitality they felt better. The Clarks took up homesteading on the place now known as the Gifford place. It was on this place on September 13, 1882, at eight o'clock in the evening, that Chauncey D. Keyes and Matilda A. Clark were married in the presence of about a dozen friends and the family of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Sylvanus, pastor of the local Presbyterian church. A sumptuous wedding dinner followed.

As Mr. Keyes was then working for the railroad he was granted a pass, and the happy young couple went to Norfolk and Pierce on their honeymoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Keyes lived for several years on the homestead, where their eldest son, Floyd, was born. Three years later a daughter, Blanche, was added to the family. Later they lived for two years at Elgin, after which they returned to Inman and the old homestead, where three more children were born, Merwin, who died in infancy and Karl and Mildred. On this homestead the children grew to manhood and womanhood.

At the marriage of their son Karl, Mr. and Mrs. Keyes moved to town and left the management of the farm to him. In 1924 Mr. Keyes was elected County Assessor, which office he still holds.

Mrs. Keyes is prominent in the Ladies Aid and Methodist church at Inman.

Although living in town they are still active interested in the farm, and their four children and twelve grandchildren, all of whom reside within four miles of their parents home at Inman.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Keyes were the second couple to be married in Holt county.

The State Bank of Foster, in Pierce county, was held up and robbed of $361.00. The robbers abandoned the Burnett car about two miles west of Foster and made their escape in another car. The colored man furnished a good description of the men who took his car which should assist in their capture.

PIGS DO WELL WITHOUT FOOD, BUT ONE DIES

A. T. Crumley, living east of this city about ten miles, and one of the watermelon kings of the county, was in the city this morning. Mr. Crumley can now answer the question of how long a hog can live without food or water. On August 18th they put a stack of hay up against their barn, covering up a hole where the hogs had been in the habit of crawling under the barn on hot days. A few days later Mr. Crumley says that he missed two head of hogs and after thoroughly looking over the place and not finding them decided that some light-fingered gent had taken them to supply himself with a little fresh pork, so he gave them up as lost. On September 9th he noticed his dog digging down under the edge of the hay stack, trying to get under the barn. An investigation disclosed a dead hog and the other missing one was found alive under the barn, but not very active. He got the live one out, fed it and he says that it is now getting along fine. These hogs, or pigs as they weighed about eighty pounds each, were under this barn twenty-one days without food or water.

Mrs. James Moore Passes Away.

Mrs. James Moore died at her residence east of this city last Friday evening at 7 p. m. after an illness of about one year, of cancer of the breast, at the age of forty-eight years. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon from St. Patrick's church, interment in Calvary cemetery.

Julia Mandeville was born at Schaller, Iowa, on September 30, 1884, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luke L. Mandeville. The family resided in Iowa until the spring of 1901 when they came to this county and located about eight miles northeast of this city, where the family made their home for several years. On January 30, 1917, she was united in marriage to James Moore, and since her marriage had made her home on a farm just east of this city. To this union four children were born, three sons, William Francis, Robert Emmet and James Adrian, and one daughter, Reta Mary, who with a kind and loving husband, four brothers and one sister are left to mourn the death of a kind and loving wife, mother and sister.

Mrs. Moore had not been in good health for the past year, but she bore her suffering patiently and without complaint. Last May she was taken with a severe attack and she was taken to Omaha for treatment and kept in a hospital there for several weeks where she was treated by specialists. She seemed to gain strength for a time before and after her return, but the improvement did not last long and she kept gradually sinking until she passed away Friday evening.

Mrs. Moore was a lovable woman and had a host of friends in this city and vicinity. She was a member of the local lodge of the Degree of Honor in which order she carried $2,000 insurance. The many friends of the family join The Frontier in extending its heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family in their hour of sorrow.

The funeral was held last Sunday morning from the Catholic church, Monsignor M. F. Cassidy officiating, interment in Calvary cemetery. The funeral was very large, many friends coming from a distance to attend the last rites of their departed friend.
