The democratic presidential candidate has finally been smoked out on the bonus payment bill. He finally announces that he is against the immediate payment of the bonus.

Former Governor S. R. McKelvie will address the voters of the western part of the county at Atkinson next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. He should be greeted by a large crowd.

Ezra Cook, of Chambers, is the republican candidate for representative in the state legislature from this district. Mr. Cook has been a resident of the south country for several years and is well posted upon the needs of the district and the voters will make no mistake in supporting Mr. Cook for the office.

Dwight Griswold is making such an aggressive campaign for governor of Nebraska that the vast army of Bryan's state employees are getting scared and fear that they will be among the list of unemployed after January 5th. Hence they are hustling extra hard during the last two weeks of the campaign.

Ross Amspoker, of Keya Paha county, republican candidate for the office of state senator, has filled this position in previous sessions of the senate and made a good officer. He is well posted on the needs of the district and can always be found working for the interest of the taxpayers of this district and state.

President Hoover has finally turned the tide and the political current is now running rapidly his way. His Des Moines, Cleveland and Detroit speeches has convinced the electorate that the quickest and safest way to a speedy recovery economically is by his election for another term. So the band wagon march has started and will continue until the polls close on November 8th.

L. E. Skidmore, of Ewing, is the republican candidate for reelection as supervisor from the Fourth district. He has been a member of the county board for years and is probably the best posted man on the board as to the condition of the county's financial affairs. He can be of much more value to the people of that district during the coming four years than a new and untried man, who must put in a couple of years in acquiring the information that Skid has at his finger tips. He should be reelected.

The long expected speech of Al Smith on behalf of the democratic national ticket was delivered last Monday night in New Jersey. The greater part of his time was spent assailing the democrats who refused to support him at the election four years ago, because he ran on a wet plank, and were now supporting the wet plank in the democratic platform, as well as the candidate. He stressed the necessity of electing the democratic candidates for the senate and house so that the eighteenth amendment could be repealed. Near the end of his address he urged the election of the democratic candidates as the panacea for all our ills.

If we had ten or twelve billion dollars more in this country times would be much better than they are now; that is conceded. Then remember that the last democratic national administration loaned this amount of money to European nations, and most of it after the war was over, and that it has never been repaid. Many of the democratic national leaders believe this debt should be cancelled. President Hoover and most of the republican leaders are firm in the belief that the debt should not be cancelled. If this country insists strongly enough it might be possible that this debt would be repaid, but it never will be if cancellationists are in control of the government at Washington.

A man who for years has been a resident of this county and formerly resided in the Second Supervisor district informed us the other day that he firmly believed that John Carson would make as efficient and able a member of the county board, as ever had filled the position in the county. "I have known John since he was a little shaver," he said, "and know him to be careful, conservative and able and that he will be as cautious in spending the money of the taxpayers of the county as he would be of his own, and he has always been noted for his conservativeness as a spender. He is the kind of a man needed on the county board at the present time and I sincerely wish that I was again a resident of that district so that I could support him at the polls."

Residents of the Sixth Supervisor district will have an opportunity to support a true and tried representative at the polls on November 8th. For the past four years John Steinhauser has been a member of the county board from that district and he has made a splendid official. A man who has been successful in his own business he uses the same care and economy in the conduct of the business of the county. He is the kind of a man that is needed on the county board and the electors of the Second district will best serve their own interests and the interests of the taxpayers of other portions of the county by reelecting John Steinhauser. The experience he has gained during his past term in office will be a valuable asset; he now knows the needs of the county and can tell where savings can be effected and his influence will always be used for a reduction in the expense of government.

Statements, in the nature of paid political advertising over the signatures of the Depositors' Committee of the Nebraska State Bank, relative to Judge Dickson's lawsuit, have been appearing in the papers. Circulars are being distributed throughout the district. These advertisements and circulars and their distribution are costing someone a lot of money. Is it being paid by the committee? Who is paying the bill? There is nothing in the lawsuit that warrants this attack. No fault is found or complaint made of Judge Dickson's record as Judge and none can be found or made. His record is open for all to see and read. In all of the many cases he has tried he has been careful to guard the rights of all parties and to administer equal justice to all alike. He has been fearless in enforcing the law. Wrong doing has not been passed over in high or low places. He has been firm in punishing offenders and bringing them to justice. Everyone knows of the jury bribing scandal recently disposed of in his Court. Everyone knows that as long as he remains judge that will not be tried again. The persons involved, either disclosed or undisclosed, are still smarting under the lashing they received. Do you suppose that the wrong doers who have been punished, or who fear punishment, are behind this effort to defeat him? Do you suppose these circulars and advertisements are being written by the Depositors' Committee? Do you suppose the Committee is paying the money that is being freely spent in their publication and distribution? Do not be deceived. If you want a Judge free from all corruption and corrupt influences; if you want a judge who will be fair and impartial; if you want your court conducted honestly, fearlessly and impartially, vote for Judge Robert R. Dickson.

What About It?

There can be little doubt that some of the more conservative Democrats

WHICH BOY GREW UP KNOWING THE FARMER'S PROBLEMS?

Reprinted from Los Angeles Times are not exactly satisfied with the conduct of their campaign to date. The principal cause for dissatisfaction is the failure of their candidate to commit himself definitely on some of the great problems before the country. Governor Roosevelt started off in the campaign like a conservative. Then when he started West he shed his conservatism and commenced to be all things to all men. He embraced Senator Norris and other radicals during his tour West and gave the opinion that Senator Norris and himself were not at all out of line in their respective views about government.

Democrats are now consoling themselves by repeating to one another that if Governor Roosevelt is elected President he will surround himself with sound advisors. But those who remember the convention deal between Roosevelt, Garner and McAdoo, and the later joining hands with Senator Norris, are not so sure on this point. As the New York Journal of Commerce well says:

"Governor Roosevelt, in the event of his election, may surround himself with conservative advisers who will act as 'watchdogs of the Treasury' at a time when demands upon it may well reach unwieldy and dangerous proportions. He may urge Congress to new and adequate efforts to balance the budget, and to avoid pre-empting the capital market with continuous issues of new government securities. He may veto the soldiers' bonus, or at worse pass some innocuous legislation to cash the bonus certificates for disabled or really needy veterans, involving a relatively small burden on federal finances at this time.

"All these things Governor Roosevelt may do, but assurances are lacking that he will. Now and then he has indicated that he favors one or the other of these policies, but such indications have come as incidents or after-thought in his addresses rather than as fundamental tenets that he would battle for vigorously if necessary."

It may be that Governor Roosevelt's tactics constitute good political strategy. He is hoping to be carried on to victory by the depression. But what business would like to know, is just what Governor Roosevelt proposes to do, in case he is elected, about the solution of a number of problems now before the country. Will he continue to follow the safe and sane policy of reconstruction being followed by the present administration, or will he try something new? The country is entitled to know now.
