A LETTER TO THE MEMBERS OF THE JOY SUNDAY SCHOOL

Prescott, Arizona, Dec. 9, 1932.

Dear Friends:

I will now endeavor to make my word good and write to you folks. I think of you and miss seeing and talking with you.

I had a fine trip out here. I stayed over twenty-four hours and visited with friends at Woodriver, Nebr., and from there on came straight through to Prescott, with the exception of a stop of about seven hours at Denver, and also at Flagstaff.

In Colorado they were irrigating the soil. I saw large piles of sugar beets and sugar beet factories. Most of the country we came through was deserted looking, poor buildings, and ranches were so far apart. It was almost dark when we left Denver so missed seeing "Raton Pass."

We ate breakfast at Las Vegas, New Mexico, where most of the people were native Mexicans. Most all of the buildings in New Mexico were built from soil (called Adobe) and plastered over with either soil or cement. We went through Santa Fe, the capital of New Mexico, it was a typical Mexican city.

We all were in hopes we'd get to Holbrook before dark to see the Petrified Forest and The Painted Desert, but it was too late. We were permitted to go into a curio shop where we saw colored bottled sands and vases, petrified wood, etc.

The drive from Flagstaff to Prescott was through Oak Creek Canyon. The scenery there was beautiful, but those winding roads in the canyon almost gave me the shivers to look at. Some of the mountains were covered with pine and fir trees, some with sage brush and some with various kinds of cactus. The mountains were as varied in color as the pictures show.

We came over Mt. Mingus, 7,028 feet in altitude, through Jerome, a copper mining city and then through Granite Dells—called the Playground of Prescott—and arrived at Prescott at noon, November 26th. The elevation here at Prescott is over 5,280 feet, and we are surrounded by mountains.

Tuesday, December 6th, we drove to Phoenix, the capital of Arizona. I think Phoenix is a very beautiful city. We left here at six o'clock in the morning and it was chilly riding through the mountains so early in the morning. We arrived at Phoenix, a 116 mile trip, at 9 o'clock and by noon it was so warm we were glad to remove our coats.

The roses were in bloom and the lawns were green. There were oranges on the trees. The palm trees were very pretty. There were large fields of cotton near Phoenix.

I think I'd better discontinue this mix-up or you'll think I'm writing a book.

Hope this finds you all fine and I'll appreciate hearing from you.

With best wishes to you all,
ELNORA THORSON.

Miss Thorson is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Thorson, living north of this city.

The large barn on the old Harry Page place, seven miles northeast of this city, burned last Sunday afternoon. This was one of the largest barns in this section of the county; it was about 32x48 with 16 foot posts. The place has been unoccupied for the past two or three years and no one knows just how the fire started, as there was nothing in the barn.

The members of the county board, accompanied by County Clerk Gallagher, left this morning for Norfolk,

WINTER PLOTS A WICKED CRIME

THE VICTIMS: Those Motors Using Ordinary Oil that Drains Away from Heated Working Surfaces.

THE TIME: Those Cold Starting Minutes While Precious Motor Parts Must Run Dry at Warming Speed Until Oil is Pumped from Below.

GET THE "Hidden quart" in time

THE QUART THAT STAYS UP IN YOUR MOTOR AND NEVER DRAINS AWAY

The Germ Process (exclusive Conoco patent) imparts to this motor oil that peculiar ability to penetrate and combine with metal surfaces. Of the first filling about one quart will "hide" itself up in your motor's precious working parts. This hidden quart never drains away. It becomes a part of the motor itself; worth its weight in gold.

The One Oil that Gives You Perfect Protection for Winter's Worst Days Ahead

Drip! trickle! drip! through long night hours, ordinary oil drains away. When the pump quits, ordinary oil quits, leaving the motor's parts high and dry. You touch the starter. The motor roars. The pump strains at the sluggish oil. It is only a few minutes till circulation is completed. But, in the meantime, working surfaces only partly lubricated are in contact, while the motor makes three to five thousand revolutions. This causes 50% of all motor wear.

Prevent this loss. Choose not merely a quick oil, but an oil that never leaves. Choose the oil with the "hidden quart" that penetrates and combines with the metal surfaces of the motor itself. In the emergency of an empty crankcase, users have driven many miles, without damage, on this "hidden quart" alone. This proves that your motor need never suffer while waiting upon the pump. Don't remain in doubt. Drain and refill with the "hidden quart oil today.
