

WRITER TELLS OF ART IN COIFFURES

It's interesting to note in Stefan Zweig's "Marie Antoinette" how the coiffures of the day reflected the activities of the woman of the period...

...Zweig tells how the coiffures of the ill-fated queen's era were built. "The second great task of the queen's hair," we read...

"Just as Mansard, the far-architect, surmounted the houses built by him with the artificial roof which goes by his name...

The hairdressing operation itself is described by Zweig: "To begin with, by means of huge hairpins and a lavish expenditure of stiff pomade the hair was strained upward from the temples like a huge, flaming candle...

Popular Myth About Goats Was Exploded

Mt. Holly, N. J. — (UP) — The idea that goats eat tin cans, shoes and discarded newspapers is just "another myth" according to Evert S. Thornfeldt...

"A goat is the cheapest of all animals to feed," he said. "I used to keep cows but found that goats' milk was more nourishing, so I changed to goats."

"I can feed 12 goats on the same pasturage required for one cow. But don't you believe the stories you hear about goats eating cans and old papers."

Thornfeldt came to Ney Jersey from Minnesota where he used to be a dairy farmer.

Ship Barber Traveled 1,000,000 Miles on Ocean

San Francisco — (UP) — Gus Behrens has been shaving all the way from San Francisco to Honolulu and back again since February, 1910, and he isn't finished yet.

As barber for the Matson Steamship company, Behrens began his second million miles of barbering aboard boats of the line. He is starting his second million miles aboard the new $3,000,000 liner Lurline.

Behrens became the ship barber aboard the Matson liner Wilhelmina in 1910. In 1917, he transferred his shaving mug and razor to the liner Maui. Now that the Maui has been retired from service, Behrens has once more transferred his lather to a new ship.

Home-Made Beer Killed Pet Chipmunk

San Francisco — (UP) — The curse of drink has spelled tragedy for the pet chipmunk of Ray Strohmaier, local photographer.

Strohmaier captured the chipmunk last year while on a hunting trip. He brought it home and it became a household pet. The chipmunk's favorite spot for sunning himself was an open window on the second floor.

The other day, Strohmaier was bottling some home-made beer. The pet became interested, and drank a great deal of the foam. Then he made his way dizzily to his favorite window ledge fell off and was killed.

Re-Married Ex-Hubby

Discovering that the divorce they obtained last Fall was a "big mistake," Dorothy Hall (above), popular Broadway stage star, and Neal R. Andrews, wealthy Connecticut manufacturer, recently surprised their friends by eloping and remarrying. They had secured their divorce that they might be "better friends."

Plans Would Bring City Nearer to New York

Great Falls, Mont. — (UP) — Contemplated extension of the lines of Wyoming Air Service, Inc., from Denver, to Great Falls, Mont., would move Great Falls to within 18 hours' flying time of New York City.

Richard Lefrink, president of the Wyoming service, recently said in Great Falls prospects for completion of the extension were excellent. He also intimated the service eventually might be de-

Body Still Unclaimed After 24 Years

Marianna, Ark. — (UP) — Still unclaimed, the body of a man who died here in 1909 still is in the N. J. Williams funeral home here in a perfect state of preservation.

The man died of natural causes here while a member of a railway crew gravelling the roadbed in the summer of 1909. His name was believed to have been Tom Moon.

WAR SCHOONER IS RECOVERED

Penetang, Ont. — (UP) — One hundred and nineteen years after she was carried triumphantly in to Mackinac by her British captors, and a century after she was allowed to go to the bottom in the Penetanguishene harbor, the United States war schooner Tigress lies a trophy upon the town dock of Penetang.

She was placed there by the energetic efforts of the town council, who despatched an expedition which gathered up every loose plank and rib and nail of the Tigress.

The recovered remains consist of the white oak keel, seven and a half inches wide and twelve inches deep, with stem and stern posts attached; most of the floor timbers; many of the ribs; some planking and some ceiling.

The wreck is shattered, but is quite recognizable and can be restored to a likeness of its original self without much effort.

The wreck will be placed in the town skating rink before reassembly and restoration. Eventually it will be placed in the town park.

Ottawa has given Penetang a title to it.

Investigation Showed Gnat Has No Name

Davis, Cal. — (UP) — After lengthy investigation, Dr. S. B. Freeborn, associate professor of entomology at the University of California college of agriculture here, has discovered that a black gnat which infests this region has no name.

None of the Latin classifications fit the insect, and former classifications under which it has been described are inaccurate, according to Dr. Freeborn.

Although a nameless waif insofar as entomology goes, the gnat has earned a reputation for itself among residents of the Sacramento valley. Its bite causes a painful welt which lasts more than a week. No method of controlling it has been found.

Mark Twain Heroes To Sail River Again

Midland, Pa. — (UP) — "Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn" will sail the Mississippi again.

"Tom Sawyer," a $250,000 Diesel engine towboat, constructed for the United States government, was completed recently at the Midland Barge Company plant. Her sister-ship, the "Huck Finn," will be finished within a few weeks.

The two vessels will be used in transport service on the Mississippi.

Edict Made Seniors Attend Saturday Classes

Beeville, Tex. — (UP) — When only four members of the high school senior class of 60 reported in their classes on a recent Friday officials began an investigation.

They found the other 56 enjoying a swimming party on a ranch. Superintendent W. E. Maddera issued the following edict:

"All seniors who did not attend school Friday must be here Saturday if they expect to graduate."

For the first time in 23 years the senior class attended school on a Saturday.

First Trump: My wealth was once countless. Second: I never had anything, either.

Williams was to give the man an inexpensive burial. But the undertaker was too busy the day of the man's death to bury him, so he partially embalmed the stranger. Then he learned that probably the family of Moon lived at Detroit, Mich. He decided to complete the embalming and try to locate the man's relatives. But the relatives still remain unlocated.

Williams says he has been offered as much as $1,000 for the well-preserved body, but he has refused all offers.

A Fowl Reply

Hayes looked thoughtful. "Tell me," he said, "is a chicken big enough to eat when it is two weeks old?"

His friend laughed. "Don't be absurd," he replied. "Of course it isn't."

Hayes gave him a friendly push. "Then how does it live?" he asked. "Tell me that."

A Fast Worker

Plutocrat (to young man asking for his daughter's hand)—And have you said anything about this to my daughter?

Would-be Suitor—Not yet, sir. You see, it was only last night that I heard you had a daughter.—London Opinion.

Real Effort

Farmer—Thought you said you had plowed the ten-acre field? Plowman—No, I only said I was thinking about it.

Farmer—Oh, I see; you've merely turned it over in your mind.

Where I Got It

Actor—When I play "Othello" the whole pit is bathed in tears. Explorer—That's nothing. My last wireless speech on my North pole trip was so realistic that most of the listeners are still in bed with colds.

ACCOMPLISHMENT

"Oh, no, I never talk scandal."

"Yes, my dear, but you are a good talker."

The Right Place

"I've come from the employment bureau, ma'am," said the girl. "They said you wanted a servant."

"But I do all the work myself," replied the lady of the house. "Then the place will just suit me."

Over the Radio

"Pardon me, but doesn't madam need the piano tuned?" "I'm afraid that's not ours you hear. You'd better call at the Broadcasting company!"—Humorist Magazine.

No Hope

"Have you said your prayers Dickie?" "Yes, Mummy. I prayed for you and Daddie, but not for Uncle Reg, because I heard Daddie say he was past praying for!"

And Then Some!

"Think o' poor old 'Arry bein' sent to jail! One o' the fastest working burglars in the game."

"Ah, well, he's takin' his time now."—Tit-Bit Magazine.

THREE AT A TIME

Unwed—I hear the stork has been making a trip to your house. Dadmoor—A trip! Triplets.

On the Go

Mother—Helen is getting prettier. Don't you think so? Father—Really, my dear, I can't say. I must get up early some morning and meet her as she comes in.

Will of Wheels

Freddie was giving his lady friend a long discourse on his family history. "My Grandfather," he said, "was just a poor, hard-working London clockmaker. When he died, a few years ago, he left all his estate, which consisted of 200 clocks, to my father."

The girl smiled. "How interesting!" she said. "It must have been real fun winding up his estate."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Her Complaint

"I'm going straight down to the post office to make a complaint," said Freda pertly.

"Oh, darling," said her young man, "I'll do it for you. What is it you want?"

"I want to find out why they haven't delivered that box of chocolates you promised you were going to send me," she replied.—Answers Magazine.

THE BOOB

The Stout One—Yes, I spent the entire evening telling him that he had a terrible reputation for kissing girls against their will.

The Thin one—And what did he do?

The Stout One—He sat there like a boob and denied it.

Big Things Doing

Maid—The furniture man is here, ma'am. Mistress—I'll see him in a minute. Tell him to take a chair.

Maid—I did, but he started with the piano.—Montreal Gazette.

Alibi

"Why is there never any cream on top of your milk?" "Well, we fill the bottles so full there ain't any room for cream."—Passing Show (London).

Explained

Antique Dealer—A rare piece. A revolver dating from Roman times. "The Romans had no revolvers."

"That is why it is so rare."—Stockholm Vart Hem.

Comeback

Owner of New Lawn-Mower (firmly)—I wouldn't lend it to my own father.

Would-Be Borrower—You're wise, I know the old chap.—Humorist Magazine.

WEAK LINK, TOO

"Jack has pretty big ears. Yes, they are so big that his head seems merely a connecting link between them."

Faces Red?

"Ave you eaten the sandwiches, mum?" "Yes."

"Then I'll 'ave to clean 'em shoes with cream cheese."—Everybody's.

A Wise Move

"I thought you always frequented good clubs? How is it I find you in this doubtful place?"

"My wife said that if I went to such places I could go alone."

Defending Him

"Why did you have to tell your mother I kissed you?" "She's always saying you haven't the nerve."—Louisville Courier-Journal.
