

OVER THE STATE

John Paulson, 35, of Emerson, is suffering from sleeping sickness. He complains of constant headache, throat paralysis and drooping eyelids.

Three Nebraska Camps of the civilian conservation corps will soon close for the winter and the fate of their 560 members is undecided, according to H. D. Cochran of the state forestry department. The camps to close are located at Benkelman, Fremont and Louisville. Nebraska has been assured of three all winter camps, located at Chadron, Valentine and Crawford.

Failure of the necessary equipment to arrive has caused the temporary postponement of the starting of work on the Missouri river at Nebraska City. According to plans announced last week more than 200 men were to have gone to work on the project last Monday. Engineers said, however, that the construction work will begin immediately when the equipment arrives.

Ted Metcalf, former lieutenant governor, is sounding out his friends with a view to entering the republican primary as a candidate for governor.

Paul Robinette, a Knox county farmer living near Bloomfield, died last week after drinking a quantity of alcohol, which he had purchased a couple of hours previously from a couple of Plainview men. Paul and his two brothers drank a quantity of the liquor in a hay field where they were working, and the three became ill almost immediately. One brother has recovered, but the other is still in a serious condition.

Former Governor Keith Neville, of North Platte, has written Governor Bryan asking him to call the legislature in special session and have them arrange for a special election to vote on the question of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The former governor says that national prohibition will soon be repealed and that under present arrangements Nebraska will have no opportunity to indicate its preference or participate in the new deal with reference to prohibition until 1934 and that in the meantime bootleggers and speakeasies will continue to flourish.

Burglars entered the salesroom of an Omaha auto company sometime between Saturday night and Monday morning and took a new sedan, valued at $740 and loaded it up with new parts, valued at $260, broke the lock on the front door and drove away.

The thermometer reached 95 at 3:15 last Monday setting a new record not surpassed since 1913, in Omaha, Monday was the fifty-fourth day that the temperature reached 90 or better, compared with 53 days in 1931. In 1913 Omaha had 59 such days.

Frank Brady, of Atkinson, former president of the Izaak Walton League severely criticized Governor Bryan for his political appointments on the state forestation and game commission, stating that such appointments were disrupting the work, at the annual convention of the league being held in Omaha this week.

Burglars entered the store of Joe George at Orchard Sunday night and got away with a truck load of goods which have been valued at $5,000. Over-coats, suits and haberdashery in dozen lots were stolen. The only clue to the robbery was the print of a truck tire.

Many men from several counties in Nebraska have been flocking to Omaha with the hope of getting employment on the river channel improvement work that has been started there. This influx of labor has caused George Hodge, state re-employment director, to warn the men not to come to Omaha looking for work. He said: "With 21,000 unemployed along the river and only 2,500 Nebraskans to be employed, it is obvious there'll be no work for persons from outside counties." The regulations provide that war veterans with dependents and citizen residents of the counties in which the work is to be performed get first pick at all the jobs on any public works contract. The same rule will apply to the Metropolitan Utilities district's contracts on its $1,000,000 public works program in which the government is granting $250,000.

The citizens of York voted to sell beer in that city, at a special election held there last week. York has never had a saloon in the city and has been one of the driest of the larger cities of the state. The majority for the sale of beer was over 500. This is an indication of how Nebraska will vote on the eighteenth amendment at the general election a year from now.

Lee Woods, barber, 68 years old, hung himself in the county jail at Hartington last Saturday night, where he had been placed for safe keeping. Wood was a barber at Laurel and he was taken to Hartington and placed in the county jail, following reports that a mob was forming at Laurel to attack him. He had been accused on a statutory charge against a 14-year old girl. He left a note to his wife and authorities admitting his guilt in the statutory case.

A Stanton pitcher, Hank Mousel, pitched a no-hit, no-run ball game at the Northeast Nebraska base ball tournament at Norfolk the latter part of last week, defeating Pierce with a score of 3 to 0. Only four men reached first, all of them by walks.

The O'Connor church and school, five miles southeast of Greeley, was considerably damaged by a severe wind and rain storm last Friday night. The wind broke seventeen windows in the church and two pieces of statuary were blown from their pedestals and broken. Half a dozen windmills were blown down and a few small buildings moved from their foundations. No persons or stock were hurt and the area hit was small.

Manager I. Shuler of the Omaha branch of the Home Owner's Loan Corporation said that the local office had granted $241,202.04 in loans to home owners since the office was opened.

The city clerk of Omaha estimates that the revenue from the sale of beer in that city has enriched the city school district between $65,000 and $70,000. The city has issued 750 permits. In preparing its annual budget the school board had estimated the beer revenue at $45,000 per year.

Elderly persons who deed their property to their children and then seek aid from county relief agencies will be given no further consideration from the officials of Platte county. The only exception to this rule will be cases where they deed their property to the county. This decision was reached after a conference with a welfare worker and the county board, during which the welfare worker informed them that in seven out of eight instances that elderly people who sought county aid previously had deeded their property to their children, who subsequently had refused to support them.

On account of a threatened epidemic of diphtheria school district No. 75 at Wisner has been ordered closed by the supervisors of education. Aletha Swartz, 7 years old, was taken ill a week ago while attending school and died of diphtheria.

The Arcadia public school building was destroyed by fire last Friday morning. The only thing salvaged from the burning building was nineteen typewriters. The building was erected in 1910 at a cost of $25,000. The school board had $20,000 insurance on the building.

Frank Heenan, of Spencer, who was appointed Federal Parole officer by Judge Donohoe about four months ago, resigned his position and Dr. J. P. Connolly, of Omaha, former city welfare board superintendent, has been appointed to the position and took the oath of office last Saturday.

Nine public works projects, to be finished in whole or in part by federal aid, were approved by the state advisory board at a meeting at Fremont last Friday. These projects call for the expenditure of $508,324. Of this amount approximately $152,000 would be furnished in outright grants of federal funds. The following projects were approved by the board: Chadron State Teachers college, $42,000 grant and $98,000 loan for construction of men's dormitory; Dodge, $12,000 loan and $5,142 grant for water system improvement; Hartington, $14,280 loan and $6,120 grant for sewage disposal system; Scottsbluff, $70,900 in loans and grants for paving projects; Lincoln, $204,000 in loans and grants for water system extension and improvement; Louisville, 30 per cent grant to apply on a $9,000 water system improvement; Crawford, 30 per cent grant to apply on a $10,000 water works dam project; Dodge county, 30 per cent grant to apply on an $11,500 paving project and Fremont, 30 per cent grant for construction of a $26,232 system of electroliers.

Director Biart of the state relief committee was advised the first of the week that the government had allotted 270,000 pounds of pork to the needy of Nebraska, the first consignment of which will be received October 7 and the next on November 1st. No method of distribution was specified, this being up to the state committee of which Mr. Biart is the head.

Two public works projects, entailing the expenditure of about $77,000, will be voted upon by the electors of York on October 3. Their approval would provide a storm sewer system, at an estimated expense of $22,000 and a sewage disposal plant costing $55,000. Engineers estimate that they would provide about 44,000 man hours of labor.

According to the state superintendent Boyd county has one district in which no school is being held this year, because of the financial condition of the district. According to County Superintendent McCartney, of Butte, the warrants of the district are ten years back and no teacher will accept a position with the school. There are two children in the school district.

The citizens of Hartington are preparing to entertain 10,000 visitors Thursday when they celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the city. Sport tournaments, a historical parade and barbecue will be features of the celebration.

The First and Trinity Methodist churches of Grand Island are preparing to merge, preliminary steps for the merger having been taken by the boards of the two churches. Economic difficulties were given as the reason for the merger.

FORTIETH BIRTHDAY

During the last forty years, more than 3,400 children have become legal wards of the Nebraska Children's Home Society, and over 10,000 more have received aid and attention. This is a daily average of more than 200 under supervision and from 50 to 60 receiving complete daily support and care.

In 1932 the wards of the Society received 77,612 days' care. Somebody contributed 232,836 meals. Add to this the clothing, medical attention, schooling, general care, etc., for just one year and then multiply this by forty and you will have a fair picture of the general scope and magnitude of the work.

Every county in Nebraska is included in the field of activity and no child is refused because of color or creed.

The increase in the number of dependent families has greatly added to the number of children needing complete care. Also it is more difficult to obtain the necessary support under the present economic conditions.

The fortieth anniversary of the founding of the Nebraska Children's Home Society will be commemorated by the Society in making a special, personal, direct appeal for help during the last week of this month, September 23rd to 30th inclusive.

In consideration of the past record and also in the interest of the children, both of the present and of the future, we solicit your aid and co-operation. The space in this column is being donated to the dependent children of Nebraska and we confidently hope that all who read will send Birthday Gifts. The situation is serious. Immediate help is necessary. Will you not send a check, money order, cash or other gift? If sent now it will be sure to be on time. Kindly give your name and address and mark—"Birthday Gift." The address is, The Nebraska Children's Home Society, 3549 Fontenelle Boulevard, Omaha, Nebraska.

NOAH DIDN'T WAIT UNTIL IT RAINED TO BUILD THE ARK

WITHOUT A TELEPHONE
 Early Tuesday morning of last week the members of the finest farm family in Saunders County awakened to find their beautiful modern structure ablaze. News dispatches from Fremont and Waterloo state the owner and occupant of the farm had recently had his telephone removed, so he was obliged to drive to Union to summon the fire help and by the time help arrived the house, with all its contents, was doomed. It was totally destroyed. The loss from this farm fire is said to have been from $12,500 to $17,000 partially covered by insurance.

NO TELEPHONE — BUILDINGS BURN
 BARGENT, Neb., March 29 (AP)—A horse kicked over a lantern near here yesterday and set the barn on fire. A high wind carried the flames to the house and other buildings which were destroyed. There was no telephone so help could not be summoned.

4 Lives Lost in Algona Fire: No Telephone to Help
 ALGONA, March 25.—The tragic death of Mark Sarsel, former Kosuth county treasurer, his wife, Jerry Morrison, a grand son and Tom Miller, a hired man, who were burned to death when fire destroyed their home near here, might have been averted had a telephone been available. Algona folks are saying.

For the few cents a day the telephone costs, you can't afford to be unprepared and run hazards which may lead to tragic results such as reported in these newspaper stories.
