OVER THE STATE

Unconscious for 360 hours, 7 year-old Bobby Hord, of Omaha, a motor victim, continued to battle for life in an Omaha hospital.

Writing a note bidding her son good bye and requesting that her body be given to a local medical school, Mrs. Mamie Wilson, 62, ended her life at her apartment in Omaha Monday with gas. Worry over financial affairs is said to be the cause of her act.

Carl Neitzke, of Norfolk, won the Madison county corn husking contest held north of Norfolk the first of the week. He husked 21.43 bushels in the allotted time, 80 minutes.

John Latenser, Jr., of Omaha, has been selected as public works engineer for the state of Nebraska, the appointment having been announced in Washington the first of the week.

According to State Game Warden O'Connell he has received reports indicating the arrest of twenty-five hunters who upon the opening of the pheasant season went hunting without a hunting license, some of them non-residents of the state. He estimated the first days kill was larger than usual because of a large number of hunters. High corn made it harder hunting despite an abundance of birds.

Rev. Frank A. High, for many years superintendent of the Nebraska Anti-Saloon league, has been appointed superintendent of the Iowa Anti-Saloon league. High resigned last spring from the Nebraska league and accepted a position as superintendent in Rhode Island, but resigned from that position a few weeks ago.

Eleven applications for a total of one and three quarter million dollars in federal funds will be reviewed by the Nebraska Public Works board at a hearing in Fremont today. The following applications have been made and with one exception they all ask for federal grants and loans: Omaha

Municipal University, $750,000; Omaha Iard Street sewer, $905,355; Broken Bow Water extension, $34,000; Beaver City water extension, $16,386; Beaver City municipal ice plant, $87,300; Holdrege sewage disposal system, $11,470; Oconto water works system, $12,827; Bridgeport water improvements, $14,012; Cook gravel streets, grant only requested, $3,756; Jackson water system, $6,000; South Sioux city library, $11,088.

Thirty-nine counties in Nebraska have been approved at the state wheat administration office to start signing wheat contracts. Holt county is listed among the number that have been approved.

George Carter, 22, of Rushville, was charged with manslaughter in the death of Theodore DeWitt, 75, who was killed last Sunday evening when struck by a car driven by Carter on a highway south of Rushville. Andrew Sando, 23, and Curtis Smith, 15, who were with Carter were held as material witnesses. Carter failed to stop after striking DeWitt and was later arrested at his home by Sheriff Sweeney.

John Johnson, 32, an employee of the American Beet Sugar Company who was in charge of the dump at Cozad, lost an arm in the hoisting machinery and died as a result of his injuries.

The Boone county corn husking championship contest was won by Albert Berg with a score of 19.97 bushels.

Former Governor Keith Neville, of North Platte, who was chairman of the NRA in Nebraska, last week tendered his resignation to the president because of his lack of sympathy with its program in agricultural territory. The next day Governor Bryan came out with a statement in which he said that the farmers throat was being "cut from both ears" by abandonment of anti-trust laws and declining farm prices. He strongly urged inflation instead of "pouring money in at the top."

Harry B. Coffee, of Chadron, a cattleman and real estate dealer of that city, has filed for the democratic nomination for congress from the Fifth district, now represented by Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff. Mr. Coffee is a native of western Nebraska, having been born in Sioux county and has extensive ranch and other interests in the western part of the state. He is a graduate of the state university, served in the World War and is now 43 years of age. He promises to be a formidable candidate, but there are a number of other democrats in the Fifth looking with longing eyes on a congressional seat and the chances are that there will be so many candidates that the renomination of Carpenter will be a certainty.

The state of Nebraska has filed suit against Cheyenne county to recover $1,607 with interest, being the amount of the state tax which the county has refused to pay on gasoline imported for its own use on construction and maintenance of highways. It is a friendly suit filed as an original action in the supreme court, with the permission of that court, upon an agreement with the attorneys on both sides. It is a test case and may settle the right of counties as well as cities to escape the state tax of four cents a gallon on gasoline or motor fuel used for purpose other than sale.

James Murphy, 70, Omaha, died the latter part of last week as the result of injuries received last Thursday night when he was struck with an automobile. As a result of the numerous car accidents, the Omaha police have put on a drive against reckless driving and as a result picked up sixty-three motorists on the charge of reckless driving the first day of the drive. The second day resulted in the arrest of twenty-three.

Thieves entered one of the stores at Neligh the latter part of last week and got away with $15 from the cash register. Entrance to the building was gained through a basement window.

Harry Brown, of Beemer, won the Cuming county corn husking contest at West Point by husking 22.51 bushels in the allotted time. Brown was the county champion in 1931. Martin Bucholz, of Beemer, was a close second husking 22.36 bushels.
