SHIELDS

A committee of three quietly circulated an invitation to the neighbors of Albert Klinger, who was having a birthday anniversary on Monday, October 24, 1934. Apparently it was a real surprise as Mrs. Klinger was attending one of the local club affairs and failed to make her appearance until the melee was fairly well started. The evening was spent in dancing, card playing and singing and a variety of games were indulged in by the young folks.

Miss Lucille Klinger distributed cards with the names of various candidates for office, the intention being to have a straw vote. It was a little lop-sided at the end. Several attendants supplied a variety of good whole music from a piano down to a mouth organ. This seems to be necessary and customary at the parties these days, as finances has no consideration since the dollar was deflated. After several hours of intense excitement the participants indulged in a delicious stack of buns, with a slab of good fresh ham, that the farmers have been donating at fifteen cents per 60 pounds, also coffee and some cake.

After supper an hour was allotted to discuss general topics and it soon began to look like a national convention. There was not a thing on the calendar that escaped. Mr. Klinger told the boys about a dam he constructed several years ago and which was functioning just dandy and that he controls the overflow so that floods do not interfere with the dam. It carries about 10 feet of water and furnishes a paradise for jack snipe and wild ducks that covers its surface. Quite a few of these structures have been put in on a small scale and they are quite an inducement for the ducks to linger a while.

The merry-makers indulged in the light fantastic until about 2 o'clock and everyone that participated felt well repaid for coming out to help celebrate this annual event and none more so than Albert himself, who plainly showed by his beaming countenance and the hospitality extended that he meant it when he expressed the hope that we would all come back again. The guests departed for home after wishing Albert many happy returns of the day and many more anniversaries.

Edward S. Earley.

ALPHA CLUB

Alph Club members appreciate very much the community spirit that showed itself in response to the entertainment Wednesday night at the Joy school house. The only regret, that all who came were unable to get in and hear the program which consisted of two plays, "Not a Man In the House" and "Our Cousin From Sweden." Enjoyable special numbers between acts were vocal solos by Mrs. Vincent Simonson and Delores Clausen and tap dancing by Darline Wrede and Allen Martin.

Although only ten cents admission was charged adults, with children free, the Club realized over thirteen dollars and wish to thank the public for their patronage.

The next regular meeting of the Club will be November 14, at the home of Mrs. Clarence Wrede.

Progress of Philip Sheridan
When the Civil war broke out Philip H. Sheridan, a newly made captain, wrote this to a friend: "Who knows? Perhaps I may have a chance to earn a major's commission." He jumped clear over the ranks of major and lieutenant colonel to colonel, then brigadier general and major general and finally he was appointed general of the United States army. At the head of the cavalry he was to General Grant what Marshal Murat was to Napoleon.
