The month of January, 1935, will go down in history, at least as far as this county is concerned, as the month of fogs. There has been more foggy weather in this section of the state the past month than has ever been seen before. Even the "old timers," who are always willing to refer to some time in the past which exceeded present day times in about everything, are willing to concede that they have never seen anything like it in Nebraska before. Perhaps it is an indication that we are going to have lots of moisture during the summer of 1935.

The United States Senate voted down the United States entrance to the League Court last Tuesday, with a vote of 52 to 36, or seven less than the two thirds majority necessary to pass it. On this vote Senator Burke voted for entrance and Senator Norris against. Of the vote for entrance 42 were democrats and 9 republicans. In the vote against were 20 democrats, 14 republicans, one progressive, LaFollette, and one farmer-laborite, Shipstead. This was the first defeat the administration has had at the hands of the senate during its two years in office.
