147, the uniform narcotic drug act passed at the request of federal authorities; H. R. 60, with the emergency clause, to outlaw suits brought against counties under township organization for the purpose of forcing a division of county road tax funds hitherto collected, and giving townships, villages and second class cities the right to share therein. A companion bill making the same provision as to cities of the first class is now before the senate. H. R. 60 means that hereafter counties under township organization and those having the commissioner system will all be on the same basis in regard to the expenditure of road funds for the benefit of all parts of the county, while in the meantime they are relieved of any burdens arising from past failure to divide the funds.

Passed by the house and now before the senate is a bill to discontinue after July 1, 1937, use of 10 per cent of fishing and hunting license fees for state park purposes. The house also adopted a resolution urging congress to establish a national park along the North Platte river from Bridgeport to Guernsey Lake in Wyoming.

The feeders' act giving caretakers of livestock a first lien on the stock to assure payments for accounts due, has been signed by the governor.

S. F. 10 which would transfer the care and custody of the capitol building and grounds from the state land commissioner to the governor, appears headed for certain passage. An amendment is being tacked on, however, which will allow Land Commissioner Leo N. Swanson to finish out his two-year term under the present setup.

The house killed a bill which would have empowered the governor to approve codes drawn up by business groups, or recognize existing national codes as state law. Advocates of a state NRA still have some hope left, however, as a bill similar to the one killed reposes in the senate labor committee.

Another bill to get the axe in the senate was one forbidding county boards to delegate supervision of relief of poor to any other person or group.

The house's "substitute" liquor control act has finally made its appearance, its chief characteristics being no state retailing, setting up of a saloon-type liquor store, and no cafe sales.

Chairman E. J. Dugan of the liquor committee says he is opposed to the measure and will ask the house to place the Wright bill intact upon the house general file instead of the substitute bill. Steele (R) of Kimball, a dry, and Havekost, classed as a moderate, did much of the work of framing the substitute bill.

The bill provides that no private dealer would be permitted to buy liquor except from the state liquor commission, thus requiring the commission to go into the wholesale business, with the optional privilege of manufacturing liquor. Restaurants would be refused a liquor license, and hotels would be allowed to take licenses only for saloon-type barrooms. No drinks could be sold anywhere except in duly licensed establishments (use of the word "saloon" is strictly prohibited) across the bar and with standing room only.

Packaged liquor might be sold only in liquor stores, and no licenses would be issued to grocery, drug or any other existing type of store. There would be no local option for one year, and after that option would be on the basis provided in the Wright bill. Only places recommended by local authorities could be licensed by the commission and fees would remain substantially as they are in the Wright bill.

Beer under the substitute bill would be left largely alone. The state as a wholesaler would not handle beer.

The house unicameral committee at the Lincoln hotel last week listened to and unofficially approved a 48-district plan presented by Prof. J. P. Senning of the state university. He had previously presented to the same committee a plan having 47 districts, but he declared that the new plan shapes the districts more favorably, especially in the west where they take cognizance of the main highways and would thus make campaigning easier for the candidates.

Senning stated that under his new plan there would be one representative for every 28,000 people. Eastern Nebraska would have 31 representatives and the western part of the state 17. The division point would be an imaginary line extending diagonally across the state from Cedar county and down thru Kearney county. The committee had taken no official action on the proposed plan early this week.

Working on the presumption that congress will pass President Roosevelt's $4,000,000,000 work relief bill from which Nebraska would get in the neighborhood of 35 million in the next 2 years, the state planning board has listed nearly 800 projects submitted by more than 400 governmental subdivisions, and has dispatched the listings to Washington. If all these projects were undertaken, the cost would be around $70,000,000.

The largest project submitted was the $25,000,000 Tri-county power and irrigation project which is already before PWA officials. The pending North Loup project also was presented. Among the other projects submitted at the Hastings and North Platte meetings were:

School improvements at Hastings for the public schools and for Hastings college, public library at Ord, improvement of electric system and park erection of a new American Legion hall at St. Paul, 40 miles of highway in Custer county, seven-mile pipe line to bring water to Nelson, 31 miles of highway in Howard county, $50,000 supplement to Whitney irrigation system, a $200,000 underpass and a $16,000 incinerator at North Platte, power plant and other improvement at Sidney to cost about $375,000, a $50,000 school auditorium at Scottsbluff, and $10,000 worth of new buildings for the state experimental farm near North Platte.

The planning board says that it has not assumed, at this early stage, to endorse any of the projects specifically, but rather it has listed them tentatively only as "appearing to qualify for consideration fully on their merits at the proper time, or as soon as the PWA takes under consideration projects for development in Nebraska." The main idea is to effect needed permanent benefits and at the same time relieve unemployment.

The board was in session eight days in the period of three weeks since it was established until Feb. 26, when the last hearing was held at North Platte.

NEBRASKA NEWS OF STATE AFFAIRS

By James R. Lowell The legislature is experiencing a unique sensation as the result of criminal charges having been filed against one of its members for the first time in memory of old timers. The legislator in question is Dr. Joseph F. Kasper, state senator from Saunders county. He has pleaded not guilty to three counts of receiving stolen property and a fourth count of being "an accessory after the fact." The charges grew out of statements made to Omaha and Wahoo police by Ray J. Smith, bandit suspect taken by Omaha officers two weeks ago after a gun battle in which Smith's pal and a policeman were killed. Kasper is free on $20,000 bond.

Fearful of a halocaust in event of fire at the Hastings state insane hospital, the state board of control has asked the legislature to provide funds to fireproof the buildings. There are 700 patients crowded into one firetrap of a building, including 250 bedridden persons, it was stated. Governor Cochran indorsed virtually the whole amount asked for fireproofing at this institution.

The governor has appointed C. Y. Thompson, West Point, to the state board of conciliation between mortgage debtors and creditors.

Harmon-Huigens

A very simple marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. William Windop in the chapel of St. Ludger's Academy Tuesday morning at 6:30 when Grace M. Huigens became the bride of Emmet A. Harmon of O'Neill. They were attended by Dorothy Ann and Bernard Huigens, sister and brother of the bride. Only immediate relatives were present.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Huigens of this city. She is a graduate of St. Ludger's Academy and attended Midland business college at Fremont. For the past five years she has been engaged in stenographic work and was employed as a private secretary for L. C. Walling, superintendent of the Interstate Power company at O'Neill.

The groom is a prominent young attorney of O'Neill, Nebraska. Immediately after a three course wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, the newly weds left for a short wedding trip to Des Moines, Iowa, and will be at home to their friends at O'Neill, Nebraska, after March 15, 1935. —Creighton News.

W. railroad; also a strip of land 150 feet wide across said southwest quarter of said section immediately south of and abutting upon said right of way, also except beginning 370 feet west and 40 feet north of the southeast corner of the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter, thence west 250 feet, thence north 250 feet, thence east 250 feet thence south 250 feet to place of beginning; northwest quarter of northeast quarter, northeast quarter of northwest quarter, southeast quarter of southeast quarter of section 14; northeast quarter; west half of section 15; northeast quarter of section 28, north half; north half of southwest quarter of section 26, all in township 27, north of range 10, west of the 6th P. M., containing 2,175 acres more or less. In their petition they allege that the loan was made on November 18, 1925, and was to draw five and one-half per cent interest and was to be paid in semi-annual payments of $781.25 on the first of April and October of each year. They allege that they failed to pay the fifteenth semi-annual payment due on April 1, 1933, and that they have made no payments since. They allege that there is now due the sum of $25,540.68 with interest thereon from February 1, 1935 at 8 per cent. They ask the court to determine the amount due and if same is not sold within a reasonable time that the land be sold.

The Federal Land Bank of Omaha has brought suit against John McNulty, et al., on a note for $13,000 given on February 8, 1926, and seeks to foreclose the mortgage given on the following land: northwest quarter of the southwest quarter, south half of the southwest quarter of section 5; northwest quarter of southwest quarter; south half of the south half of section 6; north half of section 7; north half of section 8, all in township 31, north of range 12 west of the 6th P. M., containing 960 acres more or less. They allege that they failed to pay the ninth semi-annual payment on the note, which was due on July 1, 1930, and that they have made no payments since. That they also failed to pay the taxes due for the years 1929 to 1933 inclusive. They allege there is now due the sum of $16,716.68. They ask the court to determine the amount due and if same is not paid within a reasonable time that the land be sold.

In another suit the Federal Land Bank of Omaha seeks to foreclose a mortgage given by John McNulty for $5,000 on November 3, 1923, on the east half of southeast quarter of section 1, all of section 12, all in township 31 north, of range 13, west of the 6th P. M., containing 720 acres. They allege that the defendant failed to make the fourteenth semi-annual payment on the loan, due Sept. 1, 1930, and also failed to pay the taxes on the land for the years 1929 to 1933 inclusive, and that there is now due and unpaid the sum of $6,627.73. They ask the court to determine the amount due and if same is not paid within a reasonable time that the land be sold.

Theodore C. Medlin has filed suit for a divorce from Natella Medlin. In his petition he alleges that they were married at Lovell, Wyo., on August 27, 1924. He also alleges that he has been a bona fide resident of Lincoln, Lancaster county, for more than a year immediately preceding the filing of the petition. He further alleges that while living at Kearney the defendant left him and went to Provo, Utah, and that it was more than two years ago. He asks for a divorce and such other relief as the court may deem just and equitable.

Fred Martens has brought suit against Olive Feezer, et al., to foreclose a mortgage given on March 11, 1926, for $3,000 on lots 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6, in Block 3, in the original town of Atkinson, Nebr. He alleges that the note is long past due and he asks judgment for $3,000 with interest thereon at 6 per cent from the 11th day of September, 1931. In a second cause of action he asks judgment for $500 on a note for that amount given on August 10, 1926, on the same property. He asks the court to determine the amount due and that if same is not paid within a reasonable time that the property be sold.
