The sentiment seems to be that Nebraska's somewhat exploited agricultural college could be padlocked with a probable 100 per cent of southwest Holt's farmers and ranchers never missing it. As a benefactor to this territory it is just about 000.

Edgar Nelson, the popular representative in this territory for the Atkinson creamery, while working off surplus energy in a scuffle the hottest day last week, cracked a rib, explaining he did it in a sudden effort to avoid cracking the other fellow's neck.

Cap Addison returned the first of the week from more than a 60-mile horse back ride, in which he had the opportunity to experience the thrill of the primitive mode of travel. He and Art Hazelbaker had gone by automobile to the home of Cap's father in northeast Holt after some horses which he brought in on the hoof.

The legions of Julius Caesar No. 2 may yet meet their downfall at the hands of the black battalions on the plains of Ethiopia. The Mussolinians pouncing upon a quiet little nation that molests no one, may not—for political reasons—evolve official action by other powers but it probably has increased disfavor of the Italian premier in public opinion.

When others of the neighborhood were cultivating knee-high corn and felt a little bit proud of the height of it at that, Jesse James was boasting to the neighbors of having corn up to his shoulders. Authentic investigation has disclosed that this particular field of prodigious corn consisted of four stalks which had been zealously planted in the back yard, cultivated and watered by the little grandson and granddad is now trying to claim the glory. When Jesse starts boasting about having roasting ears, ask him to bring you a dozen.

Since the supreme court has knocked the suff'n' out of many of the brain trust's fantastic notions, the modernists deluxe turn up their snoots at our constitution and would call an assembly of the wise to bring that revered document "up to date." The needs of humanity are the same now as when Patrick Henry proclaimed "Give me liberty or give me death," or as when Noah came out of the Ark. Of these needs none are more fundamental today than "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."
