

SOUTHWEST BREEZES

eliminating drunken drivers.

A supernumary of animal husbandry stationed at Lincoln, cornered by a grizzled old cow man from Swan on a recent trip to the state capitol, became abusive and insulting. With a sneer of superiority and mental perfection he told the Holt county man he lacked intelligence. A toughened old fist closed for instant action but he thought better of it and closed the incident by declining further dealings with the insolent gentleman. The old timer from Swan was gifted with sufficient intelligence to acquire one of southwest Holt's fine ranches well stocked with Hereford's and it will become any state or federal job holder to indulge in insulting conduct in dealing with such as he.

Neighborhood improvements that were put across during the mild autumn days which this department should have taken account of before, but which has in no way lessened the pleasure to the householders, are those at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Withers. New foundations of cement, a large porch, interior decorations and painting absorbed considerable time and energy, not to mention expense. Mrs. Withers' sons, the Chapman boys, did much of the work and a good job of it, at that. At the L. W. Berry place, travelers over the township line observe that the traditional barn red has given place to clear white, establishing harmony of colors on house and barns.

MEEK AND VICINITY

The Normal Trainers of O'Neill and Superintendent Carroll and County Superintendent McClurg visited Miss Irene Bellar's school Thursday, December 12.

Some of the weather prophets out this way predict a mild winter. Their theories are based on light husks on the corn and also that the first ten days of December rule the winter.

The Snappy Mixers 4-H Club met at the Ralph Beckwith home Thursday evening for a business meeting to conclude the year's work. Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Reece, of O'Neill, assisted the leaders.

Members of the Club are: Grace Bellar, Oline Beckwith, Florence Winkler, Leona Winkler, Betty Ritts, Geneva Crawford, Gladys Schmohr, Margaret Babl and Helen Marie Mullen. Leaders are Irene Bellar and Edna Heeb. Visitors at the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. William Schmohr and Walter, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hoehne, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kloppenburg, Mrs. Joe Winkler, Miss Angela Pribil and Harold Baker. Lunch was served after the meeting.

Spirits of '35 From District No. 90.

Reporter, Margaret Babl. The meeting was brought to order December 9 by singing a song. The secretary called the roll and everyone was present. Next week we will answer the roll call by telling the name of some toy we want for Christmas. The vice president read the good and bad deeds. None had over five complaints so each colored his stone red for the castle. We are going to work on neatness this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Beckwith and Donald were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Frohardt Monday evening.

John Edwin Babl returned to school Monday after an absence of a week, while he was recovering from wounds and shock sustained when his horse ran away with a small cart and dragged the boy about the farm yard and over a woodpile. He was unconscious when his mother found him and suffered considerable for several days.
