More than 1200 employees of Gamble Stores were recipients of bonus checks at Christmas time. It has been the policy of Gamble Stores each year to set aside 10% of their yearly profits for distribution among their employees at Christmas.

The many friends of Leo Deveaux, who was seriously in an automobile accident about a month ago, are pleased to see him around on the streets again. He says he is still a little sore, but getting along nicely.

The supreme court of the United States, in an opinion delivered last Monday, declared the Triple A unconstitutional. The next day hogs went up $1.50 per hundred on the Omaha market. Who was paying the processing tax?

J. P. Mann entertained five guests at a dinner party at his home last Saturday evening. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Froelich, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stout and Mrs. E. F. Gallagher. After dinner the guests and their host played bridge.

Frank Gallagher left Sunday for St. Louis, Mo., where he is finishing his medical course, after spending the holidays with the home folks. After graduation in June, Frank expects to spend a couple of years as interne in one of the large St. Louis hospitals.

The office of the county treasurer is one of the busiest places in the city these days, if not in the county. The office is crowded from the opening hour in the morning until closing time with automobile owners seeking to get new licenses for their cars. Owing to the new law they must pay their personal tax on their car before a new license is issued, so that it takes longer to issue a license than it did in former years.

Miss Eileen Enright was on her way up from Omaha last week for a visit here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Enright, and stopped in Norfolk to visit a friend and while there took sick. She had been suffering from a severe cold and when a physician was called he stated that she was suffering from pneumonia. Her parents were notified and Friday her mother went to Norfolk to be with her daughter during her illness.

tricts, $181,000; counties, $4,316,195; and precinct, drainage and irrigation districts, $4,416,908. The latter may be only about $2,000,000, according to Ayres, as state officials have found it impossible to obtain accurate reports.

Some communities are heavily burdened by indebtedness, the state auditor points out, because the governmental subdivisions have failed to levy a tax as they should have to retire bonds. In a number of instances the amount of the original issue has been paid for more than twice over in interest because of this shortcoming. On the other hand many communities are entirely free from debt. Seward county, for example, has no bonded indebtedness, either school, village or county.

From Jan. 1, 1935 to Dec. 30, 1935, cities and villages and school districts issued original bonds to (Continued on page 8, column 6.)
