THE NEBRASKA SCENE

tential third party would be made up largely of farmers. "If farmers in the southwest and middle west could unite they could choose a president, and perhaps with a little luck control congress," he states. "As things stand now, 27 of the 48 states contain more farmers than city dwellers, and in some of the others the urban margin is slender."

The cleavage between the city and the country grows deeper daily, the educator believes, while the time has passed when farmers can dominate both parties.

Nebraska dries have been organizing to drive the opening wedge for their ultimate objective of restoration of prohibition in this state. A little more than three months after liquor had become legal in Nebraska following a 17-year dry era, reform factions began revealing their plans to strike the first blow at the repeal amendment.

A vote will come this year, by action of the Methodist church, for a statewide referendum for repeal of the drink sale provision in the liquor statute, if present plans materialize. Observers believe such an attack is directed at the most vulnerable section of the liquor law.

Governor Cochran is watching development of the new fight closely, but has given indications he will remain out of it. Admitting that the liquor control act is not perfect, the governor points to local option provisions as a protection for dry communities.

The prohibition party has begun preliminary operations to get a ticket on Nebraska's election ballot this year, and F. Scott McBride national superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, along with Herbert Ford, assistant state superintendent, have embarked upon a lecture tour of the state, to preach the gospel of prohibition.

Other recent political developments include the hint that another special session of the legislature may be called to enact farm-price stabilization legislation if the national congress puts thru the present plan for establishment of 4 state AAs; and the endorsement by the state central committee of the democratic party of re-election of President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner. The state convention has been awarded to Omaha and will be held May 7.

The promotion of Missouri river navigation to reduce costs of shipping for Nebraska farmers and manufacturers is going on apace, altho many Nebraskans have forgotten the arguments that were being advanced in the public press on the subject a few years ago.

This picture shows how the Jamestown Colonists exchanged tobacco for brides. They paid "120 pounds of the best leaf" for transportation of each future wife who came to the New World from England.

And here is a picture of the modern auction warehouse of today where the same type of leaf tobacco is sold on the open market to the highest bidder.

There is no substitute for mild, ripe tobacco to make a good cigarette—and there never will be ...and that is the kind we buy for Chesterfield Cigarettes.

In the tobacco buying season Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company buyers will be found at 75 markets where the Bright type of tobacco is sold, and 46 markets where Burley and other types of tobacco are sold.

All these tobacco men are trained in the tobacco business, and are schooled in the Liggett & Myers tradition that only mild, ripe tobacco is good enough for Chesterfield Cigarettes.
