Judge Dickson Has All the Qualifications for the Bench

Judge Harrington, in his appeal for support for the office of district judge says that he feels that the office of district judge should be an honest, fair and dignified one, inferring that he possesses these qualifications and that Judge Dickson does not. Judge Dickson has been on the bench here for many years, and by his conduct on the bench in the trial of cases, and in everyday life, people know that he possesses all the qualifications necessary, including a thorough knowledge of the law. His record in the district court and in the supreme court is not excelled by an district judge in the state.

The town of Primrose dedicated a beautiful new auditorium on Thursday, the fifteenth of October. The cost of the building was $17,295 and the government grant amounted to $7,236. The bond issue was $10,000 and the election carried by a vote of 80 to 14. This fine auditorium is to be used for public entertainment of all kinds, and because Primrose people are good town boosters, it is expected to increase the population of that beautiful town.

The country between Albion and Cedar Rapids is very dry and dusty. The small grain is coming up slowly. Russian thistle is thick in the fields, and when looking over a field it looks as though the thistle had been planted in long rows. Some of the farmers are feeding this to livestock. The thistle is turning red this year.

At Boone, Nebr., Charles Grapes has one of the finest collections of Indian relics in the United States. He is building a museum, and expects to show relics which are mostly of stone and used by the Indians many years ago. That is, relics that were left behind by the Indians many years ago in Boone, Nance and Platte counties. Hundreds of people come to visit Mr. Grapes' Indian museum.

Farmers who are forced to sell chickens these days are complaining about the market. Nine cents was the average price during this week. However, the dockage for chickens with crooked breast bones or deformed feet or legs is high, amounting to three cents a pound. Farmers say feeding chickens at the present prices is not profitable. The same complaint comes from butterfat, which is bringing 28 cents in most of the cream stations during the past few days. This is quite a drop compared to thirty-five cents some months ago. The cream station operators seem united with the farmer in complaining over the low prices for cream. In face of the facts, the price to feed milk cows is going up rapidly. One explanation is the importation of foreign butter, vegetable fats and oils. That is having something to do with the lower price of American butterfat. The imports of vegetable oil in six months of 1936 amounted to 202,107,000 pounds.

At Petersburg, Mrs. Criss will celebrate her 91st birthday this year. Mrs. Criss, in spite of her advanced age, reads most of the daily papers, and takes an active part in the affairs of these busy times.

Henry Faust, ninety-year old Civil War veteran, passed away at Schuyler, one of the last. He had a great record of service to our country, and he is survived by a large number of fine men and women.

The house by the side of the road near Hooper still stands on the old highway, and attracts just as much attention as ever.

Fish applications continue to come in daily. We still have a few blank forms of applications on hand. If you want fish for streams in your community, let us know and application blanks for government fish will be sent to you.

Among the many invalids in our district is Mrs. Hattie Hancock, of Pender. She tells us that she is slowly losing her eyesight. She is unable to leave her bed, but remains one of the most cheerful persons in the Third district.

STATE HOUSE WEEK IN REVIEW: The board of control is turning back to the treasury $30,000 of $35,000 appropriated by the 1935 legislature for improvements; $26,000 appropriated for a building to house criminal insane at the penitentiary, the amount being found inadequate for the purpose; $5,000 appropriated for a new boiler at the Kearney tuberculosis hospital; and $2,997 of a previous appropriation not needed at Milford soldiers' home. The state ended the past biennium with a total balance in all treasury funds of $6,533,945, a gain over the $4,899,753 with which the biennium was begun, according to the biennial report of the treasury. Taxpayers paid $8,814,062 into the state general fund during the two years, compared with $9,779,061 in 1933-34, a decrease of $965,099. Expenditures from the general fund totalled $12,067,862, or $395,042 under the previous two-year period.

Considerable talk is being heard of formation of a state publicity department. The last such venture was made under the regime of Adam McMullen and Joe Alden, York newspaper editor, was in charge. The proposition will be put before the next legislature.

Construction is to start soon on a sewage disposal plant at the Ingelside state hospital at Hastings. It is to be a PWA project costing $49,329, and the contract has been finally approved.

KARL STEFAN
CONGRESSMAN
30 DIST. NEBRASKA

Norfolk, Nebraska,
October 29, 1936.

To My Friends:

Two years ago you honored me by sending me to Washington as your Congressman. At that time I promised to give the people of this District vigorous and conscientious representation. Since then I have been doing my best to make good my promise.

There are many now who need the services of my office and this work must come first. It is impossible to see many of my friends personally, much as I would enjoy that. So I am using this means to express my gratitude to each of you.

May I assure you that, whether or not you re-hire me as your Congressman, my first interest will always be the welfare of the people of Northeast Nebraska.

Sincerely yours,

Karl Stefan
