THE NEBRASKA SCENE

 itor refused it because of a longstanding friendship for Roy Cochran.
 Congressman Coffee of Chadron, may enter the fight for governor as a step in the direction of a senatorial campaign in 1940. Charles F. Barth of Seward, and Ed Dugan of Omaha are listed as possibilities. While the political ghost of Terry Carpenter stalks abroad in Western Nebraska.

The republican situation is now somewhat clarified. There is a whirlwind of rebellion against chronic candidates. Simmons, Griswold, et al., are considered out of it. Editor Griswold has given out a statement that indicates he will not try for the governorship again.
 Farmer Charles J. Warner of Waverly, held a formidable lead in the race for political leadership until he fought the abolition of the committee of the whole in the unicameral legislature. He is the author of the "double check" idea which has not pleased the new members who helped him put the deal across. During the last month Kenneth Wherry of Pawnee City, has gained in favor among the republicans. In the last campaign Wherry remained "regular." Some of his admirers like Clyde Milks and Sam Klaver, both of Omaha, insist that Wherry is unbeatable in 1938.

Karl Stefan, congressman from the Third, and Ora S. Spillman of Norfolk are both mentioned as candidates for the senate on the republican ticket in 1940.

In non-partisan circles, the big event in 1938 is the election of chief justice of the supreme court. Harry Palmer ran a neck and neck race with Chief Justice Goss five years ago. Now the younger set in legal circles are talking. Candidates mentioned are ex-United States District Attorney C. E. Sandall of York, and Legislator Charles Dafoe of Tecumseh.

Rural public power districts met in Lincoln last week and formed a state association, agreed on legislation, and tentatively considered spending 1 1/2 per cent of income with the weekly press after a certain period. Private companies have put on several thousand farmer customers in the last few months. The private power companies, always generous advertisers with the weeklies have increased their advertising budgets for 1937 under the stimulus of threatened competition from rurals.

The beautiful tower of the Nebraska state capitol is to be lighted at night, as was intended in the original plans, if the bill introduced by Senator John Comstock is passed, and it seems likely that it will be, as its author claims that fifteen senators have already given their endorsement to the measure. Provision is made in the bill for either a beacon light at the apex of the tower, or for flood lights, and an appropriation of $10,000 is asked for.

 "It would be a serious error, if not a fatal mistake, regarding these questions touching the integrity of the Constitution and the independence of the court as party questions or to seek to treat them as such. If these are not governmental questions of concern to all people regardless of party, then there are no such questions. There are always those whose minds rise no higher than the level of party advantage who may contend these matters may be made party questions. But I believe them to be small in number and far more diminutive in influence. To assume, or to undertake to make it appear, especially in the light of American history, that any political party is the keeper of these heirlooms of democracy is too egregious even for the credulity of a political campaign."

There will be attempts in this Congress, and probably successful ones, to re-enact in some modified form the NRA which was declared unconstitutional by a unanimous vote in the Supreme Court. Further efforts to assure its "constitutionality" and that of other laws of doubtful validity will be made by seeking to curtail the powers of the Supreme Court, requiring a two-thirds or unanimous vote of the court for declaring a law unconstitutional, increasing the number of judges on the court or in some other fashion.

The fundamental questions involved, as Senator Borah points out, are too serious for partisan consideration and should be viewed in the broad light of the future welfare of the American people.

After all, if our fundamental law is to be changed there is only one way to do this—by submitting the question to the people of the entire country in the form of a proposed amendment. Senator Borah did well to quote from Washington's farewell address: "If in the opinion of the people the distribution or modification of the constitutional power be in any particular wrong, let it be corrected by an amendment in the way the Constitution designates—but let there be no change by usurpation."

Economic Highlights

The average citizen has heard relatively little of foreign affairs lately. Events at home—the election, the convening of congress, the strikes, the unprecedented floods in the Middle West and South have taken all his attention.

Yet the foreign situation has grown steadily more menacing. In Spain, for example, a civil war is going on. Everyone knows that. What everyone doesn't know is that a general European war, on a small scale, is likewise going on in Spain. All the major nations have paid lip service to the cause of neutrality in Spanish affairs—but the fact remains, according to every fact-finding newspaperman who has returned from the Spanish battlefronts, that several European nations have troops actively engaged in Spanish battles, are supplying one side or the other with airplanes, rifles, cannon, ammunition and food. For instance, when the rebellion began, a rebel leader Franco had almost no tanks—now he has great numbers of the most up-to-date type. And the loyalists had no air force worthy of the name—now they have a considerable number of fairly modern, well-armed ships.

Principal participating nations are Russia, Germany, Italy and France. Germany and Italy side with the rebels, who are Fascist in tendency and purpose. Russia and France side with the loyalists, who include Communists, Socialists, Syndicalists and Republicans.

To what extent are these foreign nations taking an active interest in Spain? Vivid answer is supplied by Major Al Williams, famous racing pilot, who recently made a European tour for the purpose of evaluating Europe's air armadas. According to Major Williams, "One pilot, who had served in the rebel army, told me it was getting tough for a native to find something to do in that civil war. Russia, Germany, Italy and France had all but taken it over for a warming-up session of their new war machines."

Finally, why are these nations mixing in a civil war that, theoretically, is none of their business? The answer to that is two fold. First, there is a good chance that a loyalist victory would result in the establishment of a communist regime in Spain. Italy and Germany, leading fascist powers, are determined to do everything possible to prevent that—it would threaten their hopes for the gradual extension of fascism thru all Europe. By the same token, a rebel victory would be followed by a fascist Spanish government, as General Franco has said. And France and Russia feel that if that happened, they would be put in great danger, inasmuch as they would be surrounded by unfriendly nations.

The second phase of the answer is given by intimation in the quotation from Major Williams. The chatter of diplomats to the contrary, it is a reasonable assumption that Europe would be at war now if the antagonistic powers were not held back by fear of each other's possible strength. It is no secret that Germany would attack France tomorrow, if she were confident she could win—and that France would do the same thing, given the same assurance. Civil war in Spain is providing these powers with a chance to try out their fighting equipment—and General Staffs are watching with unabated interest.

This "international civil war" has killed thousands of Spaniards. It has laid Spain waste. And it is perhaps preparing the way toward the most sanguinary general conflict in world history. Today all Europe is an armed camp—and its weapons are infinitely greater both in number and potential destructiveness than before the World War. It is very possible that if one of the powers becomes satisfied that the "tests" made in Spain show it to be superior to a neighboring unfriendly power, the blow-off will come with breath-taking suddenness.

So far as America is concerned, the State Department obviously realizes the dangers in Europe—is seeking to formulate an equitable and workable neutrality policy. There is a great deal of debate going on among those with different views. It seems certain that the President will be given wide discretionary powers in dealing with foreign crises. It also seems certain that the old doctrine, dramatized by Wilson, of "freedom of the seas" will be dropped, in the hope of keeping us out of conflict.

THE 25-MILLIONTH

HAS JUST BEEN BUILT

It HAS never occurred before in automobile history that 25 million cars of one make, bearing one name, have been manufactured under one management. The 25,000,000th Ford car rolled off the Ford Rouge Plant production line on January 18, 1937.

25 million cars since 1903... more than one-third of all the cars ever built... enough cars to transport the entire population of the United States.

The figures represent a remarkable contribution to the social welfare, the industrial stability and the general progress of our country.

People respect Ford efficiency. They know Ford uses fine materials, the best workmanship at good wages, the most exact precision measurements. They know these things are passed along to purchasers in the form of extra value. Naturally, they like to do business with such a company. That is the only reason it has been required to produce 25 million cars.

Naturally, too, they expect more of a Ford car, more this year than last year—more each year than the year before. They have every right to. The experience gained in building 25,000,000 cars enables Ford to produce today a really superb motor car at a really low price—with the Beauty, Comfort, Safety and Performance of much more expensive cars.

The 1937 Ford V-8 combines advanced design, all-steel construction, extra body room, and brilliant brakes with a choice of two V-type 8-cylinder engines—the most modern type of power-plant on land, sea, or in the air.

The 85-horsepower engine provides top performance with unusually good economy for its high power.

The 60-horsepower engine gives good performance with the greatest gasoline mileage ever built into a Ford car—and wears the lowest Ford price tag in years.

People expect more of a Ford car because it's a Ford—and they get more, for the same reason. It is undeniably the quality car in the low-price field.
