The unicameral was proposed, they declare, to increase individual responsiblity and take power from the hands of a few. During Charlev Bryan's tenure of office seventeen members of the senate conference committee were vehemently denounced by Senator Norris during the unicameral amendment campaign of 1934.

Now a wheel within a wheel has been created, assert the attorneys. They declare that there is no authority for such an advisory body and that the payment of money for expenses of the legislative council can be successfully enjoined.

"The American taxpayer," declared Senator Strong, "is fed up on research and bureaus." He insists that the $15,000 appropriated by the unicameral for the expense of the council cannot be legally paid out by the auditor. He asked that a test suit be started to test the legality of the whole legislative setup.

When the expense claims of $5 for the first meeting of the council came to State Auditor Price, he refused to pay them for an opinion from the attorney general.

Among advocates of the unicameral there is a division of opinion. It is claimed by some that the standpatters control the council whereas Senator Norris and others planned the setup in order that a director might be appointed who would take the initiative in the investigation of progressive ideals.

At the first meeting of the council, the opinion of the members divided along progressive and -reactionary lines. Partisanship also appeared with traces of animosities growing out of the supreme court fight. Clerk Hugo Srb was made director for the time being. Some of the members of the council assert that the old line of division will be apparent at the next session. If this is true, the council will get nowhere.

Sisters At St. Mary's Academy Have Given

Much To Community St. Mary's Academy was built in 1900 and from that time to the present the school has been conducted by the Sisters of St. Francis. O'Neill citizens owe much to this order of nuns, who thru good times and bad times, have maintained a school of highest standards.

At present 325 children are enrolled in the academy. The school is open to children of all religious denominations although it is primarily a Catholic school.
