State Officials Quarrel Over Placing of Million Dollars Gas Tax Funds

By the Lowell Service
State Treasurer Jensen has plumped $1,083,000 into the state assistance fund and has refused to transfer it back into the general fund to be used to cash state warrants and thereby avoid a technical overdraft. Both Governor Cochran and Attorney General Hunter have tried to persuade Jensen to use the cash, which is the proceeds of the gasoline tax law recently declared unconstitutional, for general purposes. The division of the gasoline tax money has caused bitter discussion at the state house. During the last session of the legislature a compromise was made whereby half of the one-cent gasoline tax money should go to assistance and one-half to the highway department. After the legislature had adjourned it was discovered that only four-tenths of one cent could be used for old age assistance.

Asserting that the order of Judge Broady directs that the gasoline tax money should go to the assistance fund, Treasurer Jensen promptly placed it there. Now it must be used for that purpose.

"The old age pensioners and the needy were demanding release of this money," said Jensen. "The matter was taken to court. I asked then that the entire amount be placed in the general fund, but the attorney general's office was against me, and representatives of the office asked that the $1,083,000 be set up specifically for assistance. The governor called me into his office and said that if that was not done, he might have to call a special session of the legislature. On these representations Judge Broady ordered me to credit the money to the assistance account."

"Now the general fund is depleted. They want me to go contrary to the court order and take this million dollars from the relief funds and use it for general state purposes. Neither the bond of the governor nor the bond of the attorney general covers this money. It is my bond and my responsibility. I feel that if the governor and the attorney general want this money used for other than assistance purposes, it is up to them to ask the court to modify its order—not to ask me to handle funds contrary to the court's instructions."

SOUTHWEST BREEZES

By Romaine Saunders

Mr. and Mrs. Young are navigating in a new "Chivy."

Mr. and Mrs. Bly spent most of the afternoon Sunday down at Willow Lake.

Most home talent performers have about the dramatic qualifications of a toad.

Raymond Bly bought a load of corn of Bernard Kennedy and carted it home Monday.

Thru the vagaries of Nebraska weather, last week's swimming holes were converted into skating ponds out this way Monday.

Grandpas on the federal and state sustentation, variously known as pension, old age assistance and whatever fancy suggests it be designated, will get a lot of satisfaction over that million being headed their way just as we face the winter.

Preachers of fanciful ideas catch the women, who are "ever learning but never able to come to the knowledge of the truth," while the gentlemen of the cloth with sane, practical teaching has empty pews.

Those in a position to know express the belief the needs to meet the relief situation in Holt county this winter are to exceed all previous requirements. This, notwithstanding the political preachments of better times.

The president calls on the "hated rich" to build something to give jobs to idle men. As example overshadows precept, you may look for Franklin D. and son Jimmie to call in the architects for a Roosevelt sky scraper at once.

I do not know as the lately formed rifle club at the county seat is to have a contest of marksmanship this Thanksgiving, but it is recalled such was an annual occasion in the days now long gone. The Thanksgiving turkey shoot was an institution. Gus Hanlon, "Old Buster," Jerry Kirwin, Del Akin, Walt Rathbone, Ed and Jake Hershiser, might miss breakfast that morning but not the turkey shoot. The heavy Winchester was used. Just off of Douglas street to the north at a point now known as Sixth street was all open country to the east. At a distance of 150 yards a mound of earth was thrown up and a box placed with several turkeys. One turkey head at a time stuck thru an opening and as it was taken off by a keen-eyed marksman's bullet another took its place. Various sorts of guns were popular those days so that the town had two gunsmiths. In this day of bespectacled citizens the red head of a turkey at 150 yards would look like an uncertain target.

Those whose only contact with God's great outdoors comes from walking to the street curb and stepping into the car cannot know the satisfying pleasure of coming in at the close of the day in the open. The warmth from the old living room heater, the smell of burning cottonwood, inticing odors from the quarters where an evening meal is cooking, heavy footwear and garments laid aside, a refreshing and cleansing dash of water, a healthy taste gratified by simple bounties and an evening in the easy indolence of one's fireside. The transcendent pleasures of home come with the long frosty evening. "The domestic man who loves no music so well as his own kitchen clock and the airs which the logs sing to him as they burn on the hearth, has solaces of which others never dream." Within for the night from dust and cold and labors of the day—

"Musing as I sit
By the firelight's cheerful blaze,
Listening to the busy kettle
Humming long-forgotten lays."

1938 Agricultural Conservation Program

Community committeemen met in O'Neill last Monday for instructions in field work on the 1938 agricultural conservation program and started to work this week. They will check every farm in Holt county to determine basic data for the 1938 program. This will include estimates as to erosion, productivity, slope and other factors, which affect farming conditions and in this way hope to set a basis for a sound soil improvement program. They hope to have the work completed by Dec. 18.

Two Members Of State Highway Patrol To Be Stationed At O'Neill

The members of the State Highway Patrol will enter upon their duties next Saturday, Nov. 20. Forty-four men have been appointed and they all begin work for the state on the above date. They have had headquarters established in several parts of the state, which were considered most available positions for their duties.

O'Neill has been selected as the headquarters for two members of the Patrol and E. L. Hailey of Stanton and H. F. Nash of Lincoln, have been selected as the patrolmen to be located here. Part of the members of the force will do patrol duty only, while the balance of the members will have patrol duty as well as looking after the license inspection of drivers. The men located here will have both duties to perform.

With a couple of the State Highway Patrol located here some of the auto drivers in this section of the state will have to be more careful in the future than they have been in the past, if they do not wish to run afoul of the law. Post yourselves on the rules and regulations as they apply to drivers and observe them and you need have no fear but what you will get along all right.

The Junior Class play, coached by Miss Collins, will be presented at 8 o'clock in the public school auditorium on Tuesday, November 23. A matinee will be held at 2:30 o'clock. The cast of characters is as follows: Robert Downing, Charles Yarnall; Jim Bradley, Junior Toy; Harry Collins, Hugh McKenna; Jerry Roebuck, Harold Hunt; Helen Norwood, Jane Jeffrey; Joan Sanford, Martha Switzer; Anne Hawkins, Lyda Wilkinson; Mrs. Matthews, Leone Belzer; Miss Odessa Henworthy, Dorothy Ross; Madame Du Pont, Wanda Spangler; Judson, Donald Mitchell; Louise, Miriam Kubiechek.
The class has been working hard and will appreciate your attendance.

The girls in the home economics classes have begun the study of foods and are learning some of the values of having regular and wholesome meals.

Kindergarten

It's so much more fun to walk down the middle of the street instead of down the sidewalk. On Armistice day it was the cars that had to look up, look down, then hurry across instead of the kindergartners. Yet, there were a few disadvantages. Because in a parade there was no time to enjoy standing on the "No U Turn" plate at the intersection. Then too, people were watching. Soon after reaching the pavement, a little girl was heard to say in dismay, "Oh, my new shoes is a dirty." She knew and applied the remedy.

If you should come to visit the Kindergarten, don't be surprised to see rabbits, foxes, lions and elephants skipping around the room. Of course, they do not look exactly like the pictures you see but music helps them to skip like book animals do.

First Grade

We are very sorry that Betty Jo Coutts has left our school. We hope she will be happy in her new home in Grand Island.

This week we are starting a study of the Pilgrims and the first Thanksgiving Day. One of our favorite stories is "the Soap-Making of Remember Biddie."

Second Grade

Care of the teeth, healthful drinks and food of children in other lands were studied last week. Health jingles were memorized and dramatized.

For art work we have begun a Thanksgiving frieze.

Third Grade

Mrs. Ruth Morgan, Mrs. Hazel Boatman and Mrs. F. Wyant visited in our room last week.

We are making Indian booklets this week. We will have in them about our Nebraska Indians, our original Indian stories and drawing of Indian blankets.

We are sorry to lose Robert Coutts from our class.

Fourth Grade

The "A" reading group is reading about people of the desert edge in correlation with geography. We are learning about the life of the Nomads, their clothing, the products of the desert and the camel, often called the "Ship of the Desert."

The "B" reading group is studying the life of the Pilgrims. We are discussing Pilgrim furniture and customs.

We welcome a new pupil to our room, Virginia Ball, who formally attended school at Neligh.

In correlation with our study of the Pilgrims we are learning about the Indians and their signlanguage. Several in the room are quite expert at carrying on a conversation.

We have had some very good art work in correlation with our Health lessons. Pictures of the healthy-O's along with Health Rymes are posted on our bulletin board.

Fifth Grade

Our "Alice in Wonderland" movie is progressing now. We hope to have Alice performing soon.

Billy Coutts moved to Grand Island, so we made up our own good bye to him in our own song with Miss Duffy's help.

Many of our mothers visited school the day of our flag pageant. We were very glad the sixth grade asked us to help them put on the pageant.

Second and last installment, the Mystery Unsolved. It is like this. One morning, when we came to school, all our leggy, whizzing beings were no longer leggy and whizzing but had curled up their toes and were still—on the top of the water. What demon could have killed them?—Maybe there was a war—, anyway they couldn't learn long division. So, out the window they went. The mystery ends still shrouded in mystery.

You should see how the multiplication has improved. Several of us can turn it at the rate of six or seven seconds.

We are learning the song for the operatta, "Smiling Sixpence." There are goblins and the man of the mountain smells blood "by his whiskers," instead of his nose.

Seventh Grade

Morris Kirkpatrick is making a clock shelf for our room. We are anxious to see it.

The class is busy on a product and industrial map of Australia. The class is working in groups, each group being responsible for a definite part of the map. We hope to have work that we can be proud of when it is completed as well as a better knowledge of the continent of Australia.

Eighth Grade

The seventh and eighth grades, the class in normal training and some outside visitors were pleasantly entertained at an Armistice Day program by the fifth and sixth grades last Wednesday afternoon in the auditorium. The program, which was very appropriate, consisted of three numbers: First, history of the flag, a pageant of fifth and sixth grade girls; second, reading, "In Flanders Fields" by Shirley Clausen; third, selection by High School Glee Club.

Everyone greatly enjoyed the program and much credit should be given to the teachers, Miss Kvam, Miss Jones, Miss Duffy and Miss Nadine Kilpatrick, assistant.

Holt County Is Not In Corn Loan Area

Latest information relative to corn loans is that none will be available in Holt county because this county was not in a corn limit area in 1937.

The community committee of the agricultural conservation program in session Monday passed a resolution unanimously requesting that Holt county be put in the corn limit area in 1938 and that corn loans be made to producers cooperating in ACP for the corn they raised in 1937. This request was sent to the state chairman of the agricultural conservation program who is in charge of corn loans for Nebraska. The action of the state committee will be reported as soon as it reaches the county office.

Stuart Woman Has Excellent Turkey Flock

Mrs. Charlotte Keidel of Stuart, recently had fifty of her best turkey hens leg banded with the Nebraska Poultry Improvement association bands. By so doing Mrs. Keidel will be able to sell her eggs to much better advantage and be in a position to sell high quality breeding stock in her surrounding territory. Her flock was inspected and banded by J. R. Redditt from the poultry department of the University of Nebraska who stated that her flock was well above the average in quality and with continued improvement may become one of the best known flocks in Holt county.

O'Neill Market Shows A Good Horse Demand; Butcher Hogs Steady

Good colts met a good demand at steady prices at the auction in O'Neill Monday at the O'Neill Livestock Market. Cattle prices were steady on calves, yearlings, bulls, weaners and the good quality younger stock, with prices lower on canners and cutters and poorer grades of livestock.

Horses sold better than two weeks ago, horses with age and flesh good enough for shipment being in good demand. Common and poor horses sold locally.

Steer calves 6.00 to 7.45
Heifer calves 5.00 to 6.75
Weaners at 7.85
Heavy 2-yr. steers 5.50 to 6.65
Beef cows 4.25 to 6.40
Canners and cutters 3.35 to 4.25
Bulls 4.90 to 6.00

The hog run was extra large and good prices were obtained for most of the better grades. Top on butcher hogs was 8.10, with most of them going at 7.75 to 7.25. There was quite a demand for breeding boars. Shoats and pigs at 8.50 to 10.40 per hundred.

Lions Club Conducting A Membership Drive; District Governor Here

The O'Neill Lions club held their regular meeting last Thursday evening at the Golden hotel. Father B. H. Teves, district governor of district 38A of Nebraska, was at the meeting. Father Teves lives at Platte Center and was elected to the office of district governor at the state convention of the Lions Club held in Lincoln last spring. He has been very active in promoting Lionism during the past eight years. All present enjoyed the informal remarks made by the district governor.

There was a good attendance at this meeting, and among those recently taken in as members was Mayor Kersenbrock. A membership drive and attendance contest was launched at this meeting by dividing the members into two teams, one headed by Irving Johnson and the other by Harry Clausen.

Plans are being completed for the annual Charter Night celebration which will be held Dec. 8. Plans call for the invitation of neighboring clubs and the district governor will be present to address the meeting. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Nov. 23 at 6:30 in the evening.

Cornhuskers Fail To Overthrow Panthers

The Nebraska Cornhuskers were defeated in Pittsburg last Saturday but they were not disgraced. Considering the standing of the Pittsburg team in the national football hall of fame, they being classed as the best aggregation of gridiron warriors in the United States, a defeat by them of Nebraska with a score of 13 to 7 was really a victory for Nebraska, and the team has been congratulated on all sides for the great battle they put up.

Nebraska was first to score. In the third quarter Andrews received a Pittsburg punt on his own 40 yard line, ran with the ball toward the right side of the field and passed the ball to Jack Dodd who cut back to the left side, running 55 yards down the sideline for a touchdown. English kicked the extra point, putting the Huskers in front 7 to 0. They held Pittsburg until the last quarter when they made a touchdown and missed the kick, so that after this Nebraska was still leading 7 to 6.

A couple of fumbles enabled Pittsburg to secure possession of the ball on Nebraska's 33 yard line a few moments afterward, with less than five minutes left of the game, and the Panthers scored another touchdown and kicked the extra point. If—what a big word it is—Nebraska had not made those two fumbles at that particular time the chances are that they would have come home with the Pitt scalp in their belts, with a score of 7 to 6.

All sports writers give the Nebraska team credit for playing a splendid game against, what was figured before the game, as a set-up for Pittsburg, so we are of the opinion, as well as many others, that Nebraska won quite a victory even if they got the short end of the score.

The Huskers play Iowa on the home grounds next Saturday and this promises to be a swell game, but the Hawkeys, we do not think are in a class with the Nebraska team of 1937.
