ROSOCOE K. STEVENS
Funeral services for Roscoe K. Stevens were held at the Methodist church in Page last Thursday afternoon, with Rev. Ivan Turner, pastor of the Gospel Mission church in charge. Roscoe Knapp Stevens, son of Consider T. and Harriet Stevens, was born at Dead River, Maine, September 12, 1855, and died Sunday, May 21, 1944, at the age of 88 years, 8 months and 9 days. Soon after the death of his father in 1864 he moved with his mother and brothers to Iowa, where they lived for a good many years near Independence. On August 31, 1878, he was married to Louisa J. Andrews, and in March, 1879, they journeyed by covered wagon to Knox county, Nebraska, where they homesteaded near Middlebranch. About 1893 they moved to Holt county, one and a half miles northwest of Middlebranch, where they lived until 1919. At that time he purchased the operated for four years, then moved to Page, where he resided until his death. About 1903 he became a member of the Baptist church at Middlebranch. He was preceded in death by his wife, just three years to the day as her death came on Sunday, May 18, 1941, and by two daughters, Jessie and Pearl. DO THEY REALLY?

"Ever a Virgin"? What Say the Gospels?

Mary, the Mother of Jesus Christ, was a virgin throughout her life.

This is an article of Faith which every Catholic must believe because it is one of God's truths revealed through Scripture and through Tradition. Now Tradition comes to us by word of mouth and by written word, i. e., the writings of the early fathers. As both are God's revelations, they cannot conflict.

But aren't there conflicts? Was, for instance, Mary always a virgin? "Yes," says the word-of-mouth tradition. But don't both Matthew and Mark contradict this when they tell us of the "brethren of the Lord"? Surely, but if this means blood-brothers, then how about other texts? For instance, the Scriptures plainly imply that these brethren were older than Jesus. If blood-brothers, then Mary must have had children before Jesus. Then Jesus was not born of a virgin. Then St. Luke's famous first chapter is entirely askew. Again, if Jesus had blood-brothers, why is He so frequently called the son of Mary—only He? If he had blood-brothers why did He not, when dying on the cross, confide to them His Blessed Mother, rather than to St. John who was the son of Zebedee and Salome?

And so we become entirely confused until the scholars show us that the Hebrew term for "brethren" did not necessarily mean blood-brothers. Here in brief is their explanation:

In the Hebrew and Aramaic in which our Lord spoke, there was no exclusive word for "cousin". The word "Ah" could, and often did, mean brother, cousin, uncle, nephew or even member of the same tribe, as so often used in the Old Testament. It's the translation of the word "Ah" as "brethren" and considered to mean blood-brothers that causes the seeming conflict. Take this to mean "cousins" or merely "relatives" and the Catholic dogma of the perpetual virginity of our Blessed Lady remains unscathed.

Remember that the Apostles preached and taught by word-of-mouth for at least six years before St. Matthew started to write the first gospel. Remember, that the civilized world of the day converted to Christianity before the Church had gathered together and declared inspired these writings now known as the New Testament. Remember that it was the great St. Augustine of Hippo, who wrote in the fifth century: "For myself, I would not believe the Gospel unless the authority of the Catholic Church moved me thereto."
