SAYS:

"KNOWLEDGE OF THE
LAW AND ITS OBSERV-
ANCE IS ESSENTIAL
IN BEER RETAILING"

This Committee holds frequent meetings with beer retailers, informing them of the provisions of the Nebraska law regulating the sale of beer and impressing upon them the civic and social obligations imposed by their licenses. Our interest is to strive for the sale of beer under wholesome and law-abiding conditions -- everywhere -- and at all times. The brewing industry wants only good retailers -- and in Nebraska it has few who are not.

For U. S. O.

U.S.O. operates 3,000 clubs and units in the Western Hemisphere, from Alaska to Brazil, from Newfoundland to Hawaii. These clubs and units provide recreation and home comforts for service men and women in their off-duty hours. U.S.O. Camp Shows provide professional entertainment for our fighting forces in every combat zone, in hospitals, where they help convalescents recover from battle wounds, and in camps and stations in the Western Hemisphere. U.S.O. Camp Shows bring the boon of entertainment to more than 2,000,000 men monthly. Approximately 90 of these shows are touring in all theatres of war.

For Prisoners of War

"Stalag Fag", they call it, the empty boredom that comes to war prisoners behind enemy barbed wire. There are thousands of these prisoners, and they need books and recreation. War Prisoners' Aid furnishes them with sports equipment and musical instruments so they can get recreation . . . textbooks so that they may keep up with their studies and take their degrees in American schools when the war is over.

For Aid to Merchant Seamen

Men engaged in the job of helping to transport supplies and equipment to the fighting front frequently return with convy nerves". United Seamen's service in conjunction with the War Shipping Administration provides these men with rest and recreation homes for rehabilitation and "psychological first aid". In addition, in ports all around the world merchant seamen find relaxation and recreation in U.S.S. clubs that have a "back home" atmosphere. U.S.S. operates 94 of these clubs on six continents.

For Food for Starving Allies

Five thousand Greek children have no homes except the canteens in Athens where they are fed once a day by Greek War Relief, which is financed through the National War Fund. Many of the hungry in other lands—heroic peoples who fought the oppressor long before we were stabbed in the back—also get a chance at life through the generosity of the American people.

For Seeds for the Scorched Earth

In China, and in other countries, the devastated land is ready to grow food again. This food can help banish the specter of starvation but, to grow it the farmers need seeds. They have been so busy fighting that they have had no chance to raise seeds. A part of what they need can be supplied by your contribution to the United War Fund.

For Medicines

Anti-malarial tablets were flown across the Atlantic to aid the stricken people of Yugoslavia. More medicines will be needed to fight typhus, tuberculosis, and all other dread plagues that follow the wake of war. Funds raised for the United War Fund will help supply these medicines, vitamins, and surgical instruments.

For Clothing

In many countries where there has been no great production of civilian clothing for years, the need is acute. This coming Winter can be a killing Winter if greater supplies of clothing are not sent abroad. Money given for the United War Fund will help make this possible.
