Poppy Day Here May 26

Saturday Americans all through the nation will pay tribute to their countrymen who have died in two great World Wars by wearing a red poppy.

In this city, as in every other city and town all over the country, the women of the American Legion Auxiliary will be on the streets with baskets full of poppies for sale. This large corps of volunteer workers, organized by Mrs. Stanley Soukup, poppy chairman, will see to it that every body in the city has an opportunity to buy a poppy.

Disabled war veterans—young ones from this war, older ones from the last—made these poppies at Lincoln in the Veterans Hospital there. These men have been working in the hospital during the winter and spring to have the little flowers all ready for Poppy Day have benefited not only financially, but mentally as well. To be able to earn money, to have a pleasant occupation has done a great deal to maintain their interest in life.

The memorial flowers have small intrinsic value, but the buyer can give for this symbol of the sacrifice made by some of his countrymen. All the money contributed goes into the Legion and Auxiliary rehabilitation and welfare funds and forms a large part of these funds which do so much to help the disabled veterans, their children and the children of the dead and disabled of both wars.

Last year the Auxiliary distributed more than 19,000,000 poppies and as another year of war drags along, as more soldiers are killed or disabled, as more families felt the personal tragedy of war, it is expected that the public's wish to wear the badge of honor and tribute will be greater than ever. The local Auxiliary Unit of Simonson Post No. 93 will make a poppy available to every citizen Saturday.

Desolate Saltee Islands To Become Pleasure Site

The Saltee islands, off the southeast coast of Eire, have been sold by the Irish land commission, with the announcement that they will be made into a pleasure resort after the war—a sort of British Monte Carlo. The islands, two in number, are less than five miles off Kilmore Quay.

The largest of the islands, South Saltee, is about a mile long and half as wide, says the National Geographic society. It was farmed for many years but, because the island afforded no amusement, farm laborers refused to remain there. Deserted, the islands soon were overrun by rats and rabbits, and a variety of birds nested in their rocky cliffs. They are on one of the great bird migration routes. Thirty-seven species of birds have been recorded there. Thirty breed there. Rabbit trappers occasionally visited the islands.

Gift with rocks and reefs, the islands rise in steep cliffs. The North Saltee's highest point is 114 feet above the sea; South Saltee's, 186 feet. Until marked by lighthouse and lightship the islands accounted for many shipwrecks. In the spring the Saltees are blue with fields of wild hyacinth. The white flowers of the bladder campion are much in evidence later, and sea pinks color the southern shores. The island's climate is moderate, summer and winter.

Vegetable Minerals Are Lost in Kitchen

Minerals of vegetables are lost in two ways—through discarding certain parts of the vegetable in its preparation and through the cooking process. The green portions of the vegetables we sometimes discard are rich in calcium and iron; also some minerals are lost if the vegetable is peeled and still greater losses occur if it is peeled and cut into small pieces before cooking. In cooking, losses occur through chemical changes or else nutrients are dissolved in the cooking liquid. Calcium, phosphorus and iron are not destroyed in the cooking process, but are dissolved out of the vegetables into the cooking water.

The smart vegetable cook will use these mineral-rich cooking waters in soups, gravies and dressings—thereby avoiding their waste and giving her family the benefit of all the vegetable minerals. Or better yet, she will form the habit of cooking vegetables in the minimum amount of water, and there will be little excess cooking water remaining when the vegetable is done.

Cleveland's Second Term

Grover Cleveland's second term (1893-97) proved a series of stormy events which brought constant disapproval on his head. Through sheer force of will he managed to have the Sherman Silver act repealed in a special session of congress. In 1894 he ordered federal troops to Chicago to clear up the Pullman strike. In an effort to reduce the tariff he revised tariff regulations but senate alterations so changed the bill that he refused to sign it and it became effective without his signature. His next move was to withdraw Harrison's Hawaiian treaty from the senate in an unsuccessful attempt to restore Hawaii's former government. However, his most startling act and one which caused international political circles to tremble was his famous December, 1895, message to congress in which he stated that Great Britain threatened infringement of the Monroe Doctrine in her boundary dispute between British Guiana and Venezuela and warned that the United States would go to war to protect the doctrine.

Rug Care

To refresh linoleums and waxed floors, remove old wax with a solvent such as turpentine or warm soapy water. Allow to dry and then apply a thin coat of paste wax. Wait for 30 minutes, then polish thoroughly. A coat of wax may be applied to painted floors to protect the finish and make them last longer. The best of care should be given hard-to-replace rugs. To make them look like new, vacuum or dust to remove all dirt and grit. Then give the rug a good shampoo, using a heavy soap lather. Rinse well and dry thoroughly. After the rug is dry, brush the nap with a stiff brush. For furniture that begins to look gray and dull at this time of year, a cleaner of warm water, linseed oil, and turpentine will make it look like new. Allow to dry and then remove with a clean soft cloth. It works wonders on varnished woodwork too.

Home Canning

An extensive preserving study has been carried on over a period of months to determine the best proportions of sugar and corn syrup to use in home canning. The study indicates that, with the addition of corn syrup to sugar, home-canned fruit will score high in texture, flavor, color and general appearance. Some of the fruits tested were sour cherries, peaches, apples, plums, blackberries and pears. The work began when a staff of home economists and a food chemist began to pack jars of fruits in specially arranged home kitchens in Westfield, N. J., using various proportions of sugar, and sugar and corn syrup.

New Drivers License Law Now In Force

Owen J. Boyles assistant director of the Motor Vehicle Division has today advised that Legislative Bill 185, recently passed by the 1945 Legislature, became effective May 10, 1945.

Under this law, Operators' Licenses which were valid as of May 10, 1945, and which will expire between that time and September 1, 1945, will be automatically extended until September 1, 1945, at which time the individual will be required to obtain a renewal. The renewal will expire on September 1, 1947. All licenses which do not expire between the above dates, but expire after September 1, 1945, will be valid until the expiration date indicated on such license. At the time renewal is obtained in such licenses, the individual will be required to pay a fee on the basis of 25c for the first six months or fraction thereof, and an additional 25c for each additional six months or fraction thereof which would elapse between the expiration of such license and September 1, 1947.

He further stated that all minors who desire to obtain a school permit must appear before a Patrolman-Examiner to demonstrate their ability to safely operate a motor vehicle. If they are qualified, an Examiner's Certificate will be issued, and this must be presented to the County Treasurer before the permit may be issued by the treasurer.

The law also provides that any new applicant under the age of 21 years, who is making application for his first license, must furnish proof of age, either by birth certificate or by an affidavit signed by one of his parents or guardian, and such proof must be presented to the Patrol-Examiner.

The law also provides that persons who have attained the age of 15 1/2 years may lawfully operate a motor vehicle over the highways of this State if he is, at all times, accompanied by a licensed operator who is at all times occupying the seat beside the driver.
