A NATIONAL LOSS.
In the firmament there are many stars, and they differ from one another in brightness and beauty, so in nations, there are men who regardless of circumstances or rank in life, will rise and outshine their fellows in greatness and renown, and when they pass away, the nation mourns.
Last Monday, all that was mortal of Hon. Oliver P. Morton, was borne to its last resting place, amid the grief of his friends, personal and national.
He was born in Wayne Co. Ind.
Aug. 14, 1823. He graduated from Miami University, Ohio, and was admitted to the bar in 1847. In 1856 he entered political life, and was nominated for Republican Governor of Indiana. He was defeated, but he did not nobly work for his party. He was however elected Governor in 1860, and was the first state executive to offer troops for saving the nation in 1861.
He was re-elected, and during those dark days, when to be an efficient state executive, required all the nerves and patriotism which man can muster, Gov. Morton stood side by side with President Lincoln, and bravely did his duty in quelling the rebellion. In 1867 he was elected U. S. Senator and held the office until his death, which took place Nov. 1st inst. He had been ill since last August, and his friends hoped against hope that he would recover.
His remains lay in state Saturday and Sunday, and vast throngs took their last look at the noble Senator.
He was a Past Grand Master of the I. O. O. F. and that society took charge of his remains at the church and conveyed it to the grave.
Congress adjourned when he heard of his death, and letters of condolence are received from all parts of the country, addressed to the bereaved family.
Thus the "statesman" went calmly forth, mourned sincerely, lamented deeply, regretted almost universally.

MAPPE GROVE FARM.
Webster Co. Neb.
Nov. 3d. 1877.
Mr. Ed.—Dear Sir, having a few leisure moments, and the evenings being long I will drop you a few lines from this part of the country.
Things are running along as usual in a prosperous condition, the farmers and neighbors are all happy at the results of their past six month's labor, as some of them have commenced to husk their corn and the yield is very good. Corn will average from fifty to seventy five bushels to the acre, and is good, sound and well matured, although potatoes do not turn out so well as was expected, but are better than last year. The late rains have put the ground in good condition for plowing and the farmers are improving the opportunity in preparing their farms for early spring sowing by fall plowing. This is one thing every farmer should be well to, as early fall plowing is just the thing for small grain, the earlier and the deeper plowing the better crops of small grain may be expected. I have about 75 acres now ready for spring sowing and it is all well plowed. Average depth six inches. By close observation I find of late years the farmers in this part of the country are doing a better "job" of farming than in former years and they see the results, as the yield is better and a better quality of grain is raised.

A short time ago I met a man from Iowa looking for land, and was somewhat amused at his expressions, said he, "I have been all over this whole country south-west clear to the Solomon River and I can't find any such land as we have in Iowa." "Why" said I, "you have not got the grass on your prairie that we have." "Said I, it is not grass that we are raising, it is vegetables and grain &c."
"Yes," said he "there is something beats me" (pointing to Uncle Jack Rennecker's corn field, which will go about 75 bushels to the acre) "how in the h—ll you can raise such corn as that and the grass along side the field three inches high." And said he, "I never saw such corn as I have seen in Nebraska on this trip." This is the way a great many of the eastern people talk but still some of them are satisfied to stay there and rent land and give from one half to three fifths of all they raise rather than come to Nebraska and get all they can raise besides getting a farm for nothing. I would say to all those who are not the owners already of a farm, come to Nebraska and get one before they are all taken up. There is room for several yet.
It has become a settled fact that the land in this section of country is very fertile and will produce large crops if well cultivated and if sufficient rain is had. In the last three years there has been good crops and I have never known an entire failure during my thirteen years experience in Nebraska. I have seen the grasshoppers here twice during that time and neither time did they devastate all our crops; left us plenty to live on until we could raise another crop. And drouth has not affected us materially.
In my next I will give you my report on threshing and will give an average of small grain raised in Webster Co.
Nothing more.
YOURS &c. D. S. HELVER.
Hon. John Welsh, who has been nominated as minister to England, is a rich sugar importer and never held office, except local office in Philadelphia, in his life. He was president of the Committee on finance during the Centennial exhibition. It is said he very reluctantly, after mature deliberation accepted the important office.
Senator Blaine's daughter shot herself in the head with a pistol a few days since. The ball entered her head between her eyes, and passed upward. It has not been taken out, though the physicians have probed for it carefully. She suffers terribly from the wound, but the surgeons have hope of her recovery.
—The Ladies' Missionary Association of Nebraska, met at Cre, on 27th ult., and their meeting was one of deep interest to the members. Among the officers for the ensuing year, we notice the name Mrs. Maxwell of Red Cloud as a Vice Presid. Next year the meeting will be held at Fremont.
