EDITORIAL.

Congress convened on the 10th inst. Senator Saunders is 61 years of age, and Senator Paddock is 48.

B. F. Prescott has been nominated for governor of New Hampshire by the Republicans of that state.

A call has been issued for a nationa convention of the national party, meet at Toledo, O., on the 22nd February to devise propositions upon the financial questions of the day.

The following, in the telegraphic dispatches, sounds singular, to say the least:

"ROME, Jan. 9.-King Victor Emanuel received the consolidation of religion before his death."

It is said that the Illinois law in regard to doctors will send five hundred quacks out of that state. We have plenty of room in Nebraska, but none for such as those.

Victor Emanuel, King of Italy, died at 2:30 P. M., January 9th. Prince Humbert was proclaimed king in his stead, and the present ministers were confirmed in their places. Victor Emanuel did a noble work for the kingdom of Italy, giving his subjects freedom and unity. The proclamation of his son on taking the seat of government, is a grand enlogy upon his father's greatness, and a tender appeal to his subjects to continue in the Masonic Hall. > The law in regard to parties selling their homestead rights has, it seems to us, a very weak place in it-a loophole by which low-lived rascals take advantage of their neighbors. To explain. A man has lived on a homestead for a length of time, and desiring to sell his right, his papers have to be cancelled and the purchaser takes out new papers. Meantime some evil disposed person, lies in wait for the cancellation of the papers, and immediately on their return, if possible, files a homestead right in advance of the purchaser; thus stealing because there is no law to prevent him. It seems to us that there should be some protection of the rights of purchaser and seller, that when a ties may feel safe in their trade.

If what follows could have been done in New York, why can't it be done in other place:

The gambling fraternity is partieu-larly interested in a decision just made by the New York Court of Appeals, as it indicates the course likely to be pursued in complaints against them hereafter. Twe professional gamblers inveighed a stranger into a gambling den in New York, not long since, and fleeced him out of his money. Fol-lowing their arrest the District Attorney having found it almost impose to convict gamblers upon a specific charge of swindling in the practice of their nefarious profession, tried the experiment of indicting the prisoners for larceny. Upon their trial in the Court of General Sessions, their counsel contended that their offense was not larceny, the money having been voluntarily surrendered, and it mattered not how fraudulent may have been the intent, so long as there was no trespase The District Attorney
