

PERSONAL
George Eliot has cleared £40,000 on "Dawn" Beronda.
Rear Admiral Murray will be placed on the retired list.
Queen Victoria is about to make an addition to her Balmoral estate at a cost of $48,000.
Ramble refuses to work, and the Jolly of prison officials are trying the starvation treatment.
Mr. Spurgeon smokes cigars and enjoys life at Mentone, and writes weekly epistles to his flock, after the style of the ancient apostles.

A Paris dispatch of March 23d, says: The questions which France demanded should be settled from the Congress were those relating to the holy places, as introducing needless complication, and touching Syria, because Syria might have been offered her as compensation for the English occupation of Egypt, and because she considers that the two-fold question of Syria and Egypt might impair good understanding with England. Men and journals of all parties commend England's attitude in insisting on the right of the Congress to discuss the whole treaty of San Stefano, and England's firm adherence to her conditions is deemed the surest means of insuring that the Congress will result in a desirable peace.

Under our greatest troubles often lie our greatest treasures.

A Suggestion to the Traveling Public.
Tourists, emigrants and mariners find that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a medicinal safeguard against unwholesome influences, upon which they are implicitly relied, since it prevents the effects that an unhealthy climate, vitiated atmosphere, unaccustomed or unwholesome diet, bad water, or other conditions unfavorable to health would otherwise produce. On long voyages, or journeys by land, in latitudes adjacent to the equator, it is especially useful as a preventive of the febrile complaints and disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, which are apt to attack natives of the temperate zone, and some emigrants or travelers in such regions, and it is an excellent protection against the influence of extreme cold, sudden changes of temperature, exposure to damp, or extreme fatigue. It not only prevents intermittent and remittent fever, and other diseases of a malarial type, but eradicates them, a fact which has been notorious for years past in North and South America, Mexico, the West Indies, Australia and other countries.

A Flourishing Home Institution.
America is essentially the great manufacturing centre of the universe, and after years of bitter rivalry, Great Britain and the European continent are compelled to acknowledge that in every class of machine, especially those devoted to agricultural pursuits, the United States leads the van. The Iowa Plow Works of Morrison Brothers, Iowa, in 1865, and very rapidly took its place as one of the leading agricultural factories of this young and flourishing manufacturing State. Starting with limited capital, a small frame shop and machinery, this plant has steadily advanced in improvements, until today they have the largest Plow Works west of the Mississippi, with all the latest improved machinery and the most skilled labor. This has all been attained only by putting upon the market plows of more than ordinary merit, which upon every field trial at the Iowa State Agricultural Fairs has never failed to carry off the premium. None but the best tempered steel rollers into the mould board and shares, the potato double being fitted with patent wrought iron and cast steel land slides, while the timber used is the best selected white oak. All the plows made by this company have extra light mould boards and under breast, thus insuring a clean furrow. Their facilities are now larger than ever before, and their list embraces styles suitable for every Western State, and the universal demand for them has given wherever tried that no dealer in agricultural implements can be said to have a complete stock unless it contains samples of the wood and iron plows of Morrison Brothers, Iowa. Their plows for 1878 are unsurpassed for beauty of finish and the material. Farmers who have used the implements turned out by these works will use no other, and their dealers will only keep them on hand to secure a lucrative trade in so indispensable an article for the farmer.

Hysterical Females.
Young men these days seriously consider a girl's health. If she is a hysteric, they find it out, and say she is unfit for a wife. If she is sick, feeble and emaciated, or suffers from sick headache or palpitation, or any of the female troubles, the young men think the facts speak for themselves, and they will not marry. If you decide that she won't do to marry, if you wish to secure a healthy and strong wife, you will restore your health, vigor and strength; you will restore your health, vigor and strength; you will impart color to your cheeks, add roundness to your limbs and give you a manly appearance in every respect. A CAMPAIGN ISLANDER.
When Dr. R. V. Pierce was a candidate for State Senator, his political opponents published a pretended article of his regarding moral reform, hoping thereby to prejudice the people against him. His election by an overwhelming majority severely rebuked his traducers, who sought to impeach his business integrity. Another would have been taken of these campaign lies were it not that some of his enemies and every successful business man has his full quota of envious rivals; are republishing these bogus analyses. Numerous and most authentic testimonials have been published, testifying to come from high authority, and it is a significant fact that two have been at all times conclusively proving the dishonesty of their authors.

The following is from the Buffalo Commercial of Oct. 23d, 1877:
"Hardly a dozen years ago he (Dr. Pierce) came here, a young and unknown man, almost friendless, with no capital except a few dollars, and with no other resources than his own head, which, however, he had cultivated to a high degree, and his own hands, which he had trained to a high degree of skill. He had studied medicine and been regularly licensed to practice as a physician. But he was still a student of the art of investigation and experiment. He discovered, or invented, important remedial agencies or compounds. Not choosing to wait wearily for the sick and suffering to find out without anxiety to tell them that he could save them, he advertised his medicines and invited the whole profession, of every school, to examine and pronounce judgment upon his formulas. He advertised liberally, profusely, but with extraordinary shrewdness, and with a method which he has since applied to all who seek business by that perfectly legitimate means. His success has been something marvellous—so great indeed that it must be due to intrinsic merit in the articles he sold, and to his unparalleled skill in the use of the printer's ink. The present writer once asked a distinguished dispensing druggist to explain the secret of the almost universal demand for Dr. Pierce's medicines. He said they were in fact genuine medicines—such compounds as every good physician would prescribe for the diseases which they were advertised to cure. Of course they cost less than any druggist would charge for the same articles supplied in a physician's prescription, and besides there was the doctor's fee saved. Moreover, buying the drugs in such enormous quantities, having perfect apparatus for purifying and compounding the mixture, he could not only get the best of the first place, but present the medicine in better form and cheaper than the same mixture could possibly be obtained from any other source.

It is not to be thought that all this having reference to Dr. Pierce's private business has to do with the public interest. It is to be thought that the proper qualifications for a candidate for the Senate. Perhaps that it is the best; and it will be for a fortnight more, with sundry journals, to make energetic allusions to this very matter. After that brief period they will be quite ready to go on doing his work as before, and as always before, to speak of him as a great public benefactor.

Whisperers.
The most wonderful and marvellous success, in cases where persons are sick or pining away from a condition of miserableness, that no one knows what ails them, (profitable patients for doctors), is obtained by the use of Hop Bitters. See "Truths" and "Proverbs" in another column.
