Proprietor of the Red Cloud Drug Store, provided cover by Dr. Morton and Westover.

The new building and on the corner is the late one of W. H. Wood, the lower floor of which is filled with elegant furniture just received and for sale by him.

Going north we reach Mr. Lutz. Here Mrs. Lutz keeps a stock of Millinery and is the oldest house of the kind in town.

The next number of T. J. Mosher is a well known and well patronized one.

Continuing to S. C. Smith's residence on one of the Smith Bros. who are in the bank.

Opp. B. Holland's restaurant is the next new enterprise.

Next is the Burton's meat market, which is always well filled with choice cuts.

We now come to the largest hotel establishment in town owned by Mitchell & Moberg. They have by attention to business made for themselves a large trade.

Next we come to the new black and white shop of Hill & Overlies, a new one who are making pleasant arrangements.

Two schoolhouses adjoining where schools are provided over by J. F. Winters and Laura Ludlow.

A large Court House has been put up by H. B. Fulton, architect, during the past season.

A neat M. E. Church has also been erected by Smith & Maynard.

The great event of the year was the coming of the cars into the Republican Valley Division of the B. & M. R. R.

At the new and commodious depot are the grain house and residence of J. Wiggins & Son, also Stable and rented houses belonging to H. S. Kaley, as well as the grain house of Stewart, and the livery house of S. J. Ryan.

Among the new residences are those of J. L. Almer, Mitchell, Latu, War, Hamilton, Ed. Smith, Storey, Hooker, Levi, Moore and others, besides a great many smaller ones.

Among the improvements looked for are the one of Ex. Gov. Gilmer, S. C. Smith the banker, and others whose names are sufficient guarantee that what is done will be of no mean proportions.
