THE CHIEF.

M. L. THOMAS, EDITOR.
THURSDAY MARCH 11, 1880.

JUNIATA has had a 1,300 dollar fire.

THEODORE TILTON and his wife Libby, have become reconciled at last, and will go to housekeeping in Brooklyn, New York.

Our people will all regret to learn that the new depot at Alma, together with five empty freight cars, was burned up on last Tuesday. The carpenters were cleaning out the shavings and burning them, when a strong gust of wind blew the shavings and fire under the depot, and in a few moments the work of destruction was complete.—Neposian Insurer.

Last week a young man claiming to be a lawyer, went to Blue Hill from Minden. He talked of establishing a law office there and also a printing office, saying it was his intention for his brother to run the print shop. He was going to buy land on which to build; he assembled himself with a contractor to see what an office would cost, and with a lumber dealer to see what the material would cost. Then went and got drunk, and the next morning passed his watch for his hotel board. Selah—Hastings Gazette.

BOB INGERSOLL'S OATH.
Washington Correspondence to the Inter Ocean.
A few days ago, the eloquent unbeliever, Bob Ingersoll, had occasion to make oath to some document, and he went before Chief Justice Carter, of the district Supreme Court. Now, Judge Carter is a Presbyterian of the old-fashioned sort, and sincerely believes in a place that Ingersoll claims does not exist, and he thinks that "Bob" will find out the contrary some time by his own experience. So when Ingersoll came to him to be sworn, the Judge thought he would commit him as strongly as he could to an acknowledgment of the Supreme Being, and as Ingersoll held up his right hand, the Judge said:

"You do solemnly swear, in the presence of Almighty God, the searcher of all hearts, and these witnesses, that this in your signature, and that the facts herein stated are true to the best of your knowledge and belief, as you shall answer at the last day."

Ingersoll mumbled a little, and some of his friends were inclined to joke him about it; but he said it was the act and not the words that he was after, and it was no more to him than if Judge Carter had said "in the presence of all the pious, dead and living."

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.
WASHINGTON, D. C.
March 10th, 1880.

The appointment of the democratic National Convention at Cincinnati two weeks later than the republican convention at Chicago has much significance.
In the first place it indicates that one of the chief battle grounds of the coming campaign will be Ohio, and that probably one of the democratic candidates will come from that state. In the next place it shows that the democrats will watch their chance to take advantage of any republican mistakes that may be committed. Cincinnati is sufficiently central to the three states which will have a controlling influence, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, to satisfy all, and the time will allow them to arrange and discuss the local favorites after the republicans have laid out their programme. Should the republican nominate Grant and thus defy the popular prejudice against a third term, the democrats will probably nominate General Hancock, and thus have a strong hold upon Pennsylvania, and the present feeling against Grant, Cameron and the third term combined would give them a long start in the race.
There is no doubt that thousands of republicans would refuse to vote for Grant, handcuffed as he is by Cameron, and a popular man like Gen. Hancock would have a great advantage even in that usually strong republican state.
But the democrats perhaps are reckoning from false premises. It looks now as though the republicans, bearing the very emphatic denunciations of the effort to force Grant upon their party again, will learn wisdom long before the Chicago convention and drop the third term like a hot potato. However, the action of the democratic committee shows that the parties are closely watching each other, and will be ready to profit by blunders committed on either side.

The publication at this time of Senator Bayard's speech in 1861, mildly justifying the rebellion is supposed to be instigated by those democrats who are alarmed at the growth of the Bayard boom, and they fear that he would be a weak candidate. I do not think, however, that Bayard would be likely to receive the nomination under any circumstances.

STATE CLIPPING.

There is a big immigration to this state from Iowa.

Many brick buildings are projected in Central City.

Work on Bloomington's new mill progresses rapidly.

The cattle on Custer county ranges are looking well.

Albion sees the drug stores for violating the liquor license.

A Norfolk man's nine-months old shout tipped 370 pounds.

Timber claims have suffered from prairie fires in many counties.

Plum creek has raised $112, for the erection of a Presbyterian church.

A quantity of small bones were some times 50 feet below the surface in Sidney.

A school house just completed near Central City was destroyed by a prairie fire.

Woodmen, Lancaster county, has lost 37 head of sheep, some very valuable, from dogs.

Along the line of the B. & M. it is estimated that 3,500,000 bushels of corn are cribbed.

A beautiful swan, measuring 7 feet from tip to tip, was brought down at Waverly.

The A. & N. has put on 12 new engines within a year, made necessary by increased business.

The new Methodist church edifice at Leigh, Custer county, will be dedicated on the 7th.

A Congregational church will be organized at Bradshaw, York county, first township west to York.

Hastings has appointed a committee to labor for the establishment of a Presbyterian college there.

Teensuch merchants were busy purchasing corn last week, on an average of $1,500 daily was paid out.

John Schmidt, residing in Ord, has fallen heir to $25,000, by the death of a relative in "Fatherland."

From every quarter comes the report of the first waves of immigration and "yet there's more to follow."

Work on the Rising City Methodist church edifice will be begun upon soon, the material being at hand.

Jefferson county is not inclined to Mormonism; a missionary has been laboring there with no converts thus far.

Morrison Donahoe, the insane boy who killed his father near Nebraska City, was taken to the insane asylum March 1st.

A prairie fire ten miles southwest of Grand Island destroyed property of several settlers to the amount of $2,000 to $2,500.

Efforts are being made to have mail service between Fort Hartsuff and the new fort to be erected on the Niobrara this summer.

One of the best buildings in Hastings is to be occupied as a saloon, with a Good Temple's lodge room in the second story.
