WHAT CONCERNS US MOST. We have arranged for a regular corespondence from Washington, and also from Paris. We trust our selections from these letters, or if we copy the letters in full, will prove of interest and profit to our readers. The Paris letter last week treats on the subject of religious thought, in a way that shows conclusively that the editor of the CHIEF is not the only person whose mind is engaged, or interested seem to the writer, that the mind that cannot discern that the greatest and most important concern of men is that that "the proper study of man is man" and the eternal man, being of vastly more consequeene than the temporal man, his eternal nature, and mission, wisely claims our first and highest consideration.

Red Coud's Manufactoring Chances. We understand there is talk of organizing a manufacturing company here, by several of our leading business men. Such a movement as that we consider would be one of the most sensible, and practical steps that could be taken by the individuals who engage in it, and at the same time the most important to the interest of our town at large. Our business men are selling thousands of dollars worth of sition of the senate, they will be com- to buy a fire steamer. manufactures which might just as well be made here as anywhere, and thus

Our new prospective foundery, by one our newly arrived, and energetic townsman, Mr. Daney, who has already nearly completed a temporary, or winter work shop is a big step in this site, and will erect in the spring a foun dry on it, between the creamery and Mrs. Kaley's residence. We understand by those who claim to know whoreof they speak, that Mr. D. is a workman well skilled in his chosen arts. Besides being a foundryman and molder, he is an experienced and practical gunsmith and general machinist. Not the least shadow of a doubt but that both he and our entire community will be largely, and mutually benefitted by his location among us. The other enterprise to which we first alluded will doubtless take more tangible form within the next thirty or sixty days. We do not claim the ionor of originating this movement, but we do take to ourselves the credit of having suggested the feasibility of the thing some time ago, and shall watch with a large share of interest the future progress of its develop-OUR WASHINGTON LETTER. WARHINGTON, DEC. 18, 1882.

He said he believed that a change in the offices once in awhile from top to bottom purified the public service; he would not keep any trained hand of officials in office, but would muster them out by brigades. He felt confident that the democratic party contained plenty of men and women competent so fill the offices. He quoted the examples of presidents Jefferson and Jackson, and contended that they were perfectly right in turning out men from office who would neet their positions against the policy.

were before the elections such ardent followers of George William Cartis, the Pioneer Civil Service Reformer. On the Republican side of the question, was tersely stated by Senator Hawley, of connecticut, when he said he want ed a law that would relieve persons in government service of the necessity of running around every time a change was made in the head of a department or bureau to seek influence in keeping them in office. The house has had under consideration for several days the Post Office Appropriation Bill, in which the clause relating to the reduction of postage is developing some opposition. But discussion on the bill will be ended to-day when probably the bill will be pas-ed Last session the Senate openly blamed the house for the long session for the reason, as it said that the house purposely held back the appropriation in the subject of religion. And it does bills, and the speeches made in the senate on this subject were circulated as campaign documents by the democrats. So, in view of this accusation which pertains to his eternal nature, the house has left the subjects of civil rather than those things which effect service reform and reduction of taxaonly his present, temporal, apparent tion for the senate to debate over, and interest. We can but concur in the sideration in the House, and a great will be expressed. There is considerable difference of > opinion in the two halls of Congress relative to the holliday recess question. It has been the custom to adjourn from the 23rd, to the first week in January, but the Senate this year opposes such a long recess, and many sensior, say that Congress can adjourn over Christmas and New Year's day, and this will be enough. But the members of the house and especially those who were "left" at the late elections and who are consequently now "disin this "enough," as many of them have made preparations to visit their h unes and if both houses agree to the propopelled to stay in Washington unti they are released by the adjournment of Congress on the 4th of March.
