The proprietors of the Opposition Weekly, the new paper at the north-end of town, got out their first issue last Saturday. No one, not even the proprietors seem to know what the politics of the sheet will be.
The new census compendium shows a large increase since 1870, in the number of illots throughout the country.—Exchange.
Just so. Since we come to think of it, there is one more in this county, that we know of. He publishes an alleged newspaper in the south part of town.
Senator Taber, of Colorado, who was elected to fill an unexpired term of thirty days in the United States senate, was married on the 2nd inst., in Washington, to Mrs. McCourt, of Oshkosh, Wisconsin. One of the Senator's presents to the bride was a diamond necklace valued at $75,000.
Last Friday a boy climbed into a wagon where there was a loaded gun and recklessly pointing it down the street, fired. Fortunately no one was hit, but two small boys who were standing close together had a narrow escape, as the ball from the rifle passed between them. There is a number of boys in this town who ought to be in the reform school.
When the august personage who presides over the destiny of our public school can again so far lower his dignity as to permit his most gracious majesty to condescend to hand in to our poor little "devil" the monthly report of the school, we will gladly publish it. On second thought it occurs to us that possibly there has been no report made out for some time, and that while meaning well enough, the professor will be unavoidably a little irregular with his mouthpieces.
The following from the Deutsche Express will apply to this town with a good deal of force.
One of Kearney's newspapers, the Nonpareil, has been swallowed up by the Journal, of the same city. The example is a good one for numerous other newspapers throughout the state that are starting in towns overcrowded with papers. Taken at the best, Nebraska county papers have the poorest support given the papers of any western state or territory, and the only present remedy is to reduce the number of papers to a bread and butter footing.

The First Comet of the Year A little before seven o'clock on Friday evening last, while Prof. Lewis Swift, director of the Warner Observatory, Rochester, New York, was scanning the western sky, he discovered a brilliant comet located in the constellation of Pegasus near the star Beta.
The new comet is moving eastward and is very bright. This is the first comet discovered during the present year and also the first discovery made by means of the new telescope of the Warner Observatory, which is the largest private telescope in the world.
Lincoln was a rail splitter. Garfield was a canal boy. Andrew Johnson was a tailor. Governor Cleveland sold newspapers. The present governor of Texas was a hostler. The governor of Kansas drove oxen. The present governor of California was a sailor, and afterwards swept out a store in Orville for board. A. T. Stewart taught school and sold tape by the penny worth.
Fred Gedhardt's grand father picked up junk in the streets of New York.
Jay Gould sold mouse traps. Jim Keene kept a livery stable. Rufus Hat-h was a locomotive fireman, and this editor was a—was a—well, a homesteader.

An exchange says that "hangs on a girl gives her an unruly appearance, like a cow with a board over her face." Just so; you take the gentlest cow in the world and turn her out in a pasture with a board fastened to her horns and she gets the name of being unruly, and you would swear she would jump fences, and raise merry hades, and you wouldn't give much for her only for beef. It is so with a girl. If she wears her hair high on her forehead, or brushed back or even has frizzes, and has a good look, you will go your bottom dollar on her, and you feel as though she was as good as gold, and when she tells her young man she loves him there is no discount on it, and no giggling back; but take the same girl with her front hair banged, and when she looks at you you feel just as though she would hook, you can't trust her. The banging of a girl's hair changes the whole nature of the little wretch, and she becomes as a gun that is not loaded. You take a picture of "Evangeline" and bang her hair and she would look as if she would "run at people." How would Mrs. Van Cott, the alleged female preacher look with her hair banged?
It is just so with boys. Take a nice pious Sunday school boy who can repeat 300 verses in the new Testament, cut his hair with a clipper, and he looks like the—like the—like the—Crete Nurseries are daily receiving their trade this spring will be much larger than ever before. They have a large stock on hand and feel independent of high water and delays of freight. Our readers will remember that two years ago, long delay and heavy loss was occasioned by the high water of the Missouri, rendering it impossible for planters to secure trees from the east in season to plant.

How she saved her family.
"I shall not feel so nervous again about baby's teething," writes a grateful mother. "We almost lost our darling from cholera infantum, but happily heard of Parker's Ginger tonic in time. A few spoonfuls soon cured baby, and an occasional dose keeps us in good health."—Brooklyn Mother.

The Noble Red Man's Speech.
Where is the school boy of a quarter century ago who does not recollect reading Logan's speech. Logan, who was reputed to be "a friend of the white man." We have read it and wondered if the old aradine did really make that speech. It was recently our good fortune to listen to a speech by Kih-e-ka-rus-oo-kah-wah, chief of the Omahas.
Mr. Kih-e-ka-rus-oo-kah-wah and a remnant of his tribe have spent a good share of the winter trapping on the Republican river, and just prior to pulling out for the reservation he invited a number of the prominent citizens of Red Cloud to visit him at his camp and listen to a speech he wished to make. When the company were seated around the fire, and the pipe of peace had been passed from one to another according to the time honored custom of the red man, the chief arose and spoke as follows:
MR. CHAIRMAN AND GENTLEMEN OF THE CONVENTION.—Logan was a friend of the white man, and so is Kih-e-ka-rus-oo-kah-wah. I have dwelt among you, and my people have begged from you, in these many moons.
But now we leave you, to return to our reservation and enjoy that much needed rest and recreation which can only be attained under the balmy shade of our own vine and fig tree, watching our squaws hoe the corn and battle with the festive potato bug of the white man.
Kih-e-ka-rus-oo-kah-wah and his tribe was once respected and powerful, now we are weak and dirty.
Kih-e-ka-rus-oo-kah-wah once had squaws as the leaves of the forest, now they are few and scattering.
Civilization does not agree with the daughters of the forest, and the "corn juice" sold by the pale face cutteth them down as with a scythe.
You see that aged and infirm squaw scratching her spinal column against that stunted cottonwood tree.
She was once the flower of my family.
You see that sore eyed, leper on the right, wrapped in melancholy and an old army blanket. She was once a favorite squaw, but now she is an expenditure.
Those uninviting specimens are all that is left to Kih-e-ka-rus-oo-kahwah.
But I have many children to bless the name of Kih-e-ka-rus-oo-kahwah.
You see that horde of ragged and dirty papooses playing at mumble the peg, over on the sand bar. They are supposed to be the children of Kih-e-ka-rus-oo-kah-wah.
Gentlemen, the red man is passing away. Once we were as numerous as the wild sunflower on a rental farm, but now we are as scarce as honest revenue collectors. The graves of my people adorn every hilltop in this vicinity, and their bones are scattered by human vultures, who dig 'em up in search of relics, on every hand.
Your oldest settlers will recollect Poly-gran-da-ha, daughter of Medicine Horse, chief of the Otoes. She died near your town, in the laudable effort to add one more to the numbers of the Otoe tribe, and they buried her on the hillside south of the river.
Many moons subsequently a doctor, of the little pill variety dug her up, and her bones now keep company with the other skeleton in his closet. Friends this is not right. When the paleface dies, he is buried for keeps, but the Indian has not where to lay his defunct carcass in peace.
I am done. We must now hasten away to the reservation and draw our rations from the government, for when the grass grows our young men will want to be ready for the war path and the paleface scalps. Adieu.

Educational Notes.
CHAS. W. SPRINGER, CO. SUPT.
Dist. No. 35.—The school in this district is being taught by W. H. Rosecrans. He is a young man of vigor and ambition, who passed a good examination, and we understand he is doing good work. The scholars in this district need a higher aim, and a little more thirst for knowledge and then this may become a good school.
Dist. No. 36.—Miss Ida Matthias is teaching school here. School will close November 23d. The house is uncomfortable in cold weather, and the fuel that is provided is poor. She has twenty three pupils. The district furnishes some apparatus, and commendable progress is being made.
Dist. No. 37.—Here J. J. Shelton has taught from November to February.
The school has done very good work several pupils here advanced well in arithmetic and two study United States history. There are not enough text books of any kind in the school, which is a serious drawback to the improvement of the school. There were sixteen pupils in attendance.
Dist. No. 27.—W. D. Gillitt is teaching the winter term here. He has sixteen pupils, three of them over sixteen years of age. The scholars are studious and obedient and interested in their studies. Three study U. S. History. On account of poor blackboards not so much is being done as desirable, but under the circumstances, fair progress is being done.

Good Advice.
You will prevent and cure the greater part of the ills that afflict mankind in this or any section, if you keep your stomach, liver and kidneys in perfect working order. There is no medicine known that does this as surely as Parker's Ginger Tonic. It will keep your blood rich and pure, and give you good health at little cost.
