

CAUGHT AT LAST.

Tiller, the St. Louis Express Thief, Captured at Milwaukee and $80,000 Recovered. MILWAUKEE, March 14.—Prestis Tiller, the Pacific Express Company's agent at St. Louis, who decamped with nearly $100,000 a few days ago, was arrested at 10 o'clock yesterday morning by a Milwaukee detective and $80,000 of the money recovered. A young man looking like a tramp, with a small mustache, brown hair, of slight build and unobtrusive features, and of about 135 pounds weight, bought a trunk at the store of Carpeles Schram, and on Tuesday asked to have it shipped to G. H. Pachen, Detroit, Mich. He left a valise which he asked to have placed inside the trunk to save him the trouble of carrying it. When about to put the valise in the trunk the clerk dropped it and the contents rolled out upon the floor. In gathering up the bundles he found them wrapped in Pacific Express Company's labels, and a closer examination disclosed that every package contained a prize, the total amounting to nearly $90,000. The police were notified, and with a description of the man traced him to a cheap boarding house in the Third ward, but he was not at home. They found his trunk and seized it. As the boarding house people said the man was frequently out all night, the police continued searching the city, thinking he must be out on a spree. This morning he returned to the trunk store to ask about his valise, and was arrested. He had been at the Third Ward boarding house since March 8, but it is not known whether or not he boarded anywhere else before that. Besides the money there was a large amount of valuable jewelry in the valise. The money was placed in the Merchants Exchange Bank. The arrest of Prestis Tiller caused great crowds to gather at the Central Police Station, but the prisoner was carefully guarded and could be interviewed only very briefly. He was loud in saying he had no accomplice, but at the same time it remained for the company to prove who stole the money. He was very happy, and proposed that the police shut the front doors and charge the crowd an admission price to see him as a curiosity. He was identified by Chicago and St. Louis agents who were in the city, having been called from Chicago last night, when the money was found yesterday.

TILLER'S ACCOMPLICE. ST. LOUIS, March 14.—Inquiry of the Pacific Express Company officials here regarding the arrest of a man at Milwaukee supposed to be Tiller, throws very little light on the matter. They are very reticent, and little information can be obtained. It may be said, however, that officials and detectives here believe that after the robbery Tiller's accomplice took charge of the plunder which, being a stranger, was easily taken out of the city. The arrangement eventually was that the accomplice should divide the spoils and send Tiller to him by express to Milwaukee, addressing him, of course, in an assumed name. Tiller reached Milwaukee on the morning of the 8th, but there made the troublesome discovery that he had forgotten the name he was to assume in inquiring for his express package. In this emergency he telegraphed McFadden, at Sherman, Texas, asking what was the name the valise was to bear. The telegram was intercepted, and McFadden, who had already been located, was carefully watched to determine whether he sent an answer. He did not, and his arrest occurred a few hours later. Meanwhile express authorities here were notified, and on Tuesday evening a detective started from here for Milwaukee. It would appear that Tiller succeeded in recalling the name he was to use before the detective arrived; but met with a disaster a few hours afterward, through the trunk store episode which occurred at a time when it is said the whole detective force of Milwaukee was looking for him, knowing him to be in town.

A VIRGINIA HORROR.

Over One Hundred Miners Meet Death by an Explosion in a Coal Mine. PETERSBURG, Va., March 14.—Intelligence is just received of a terrible explosion in the coal mines of the Southwest Virginia Improvement Company at Pocahontas, Tazewell county, this State. It occurred at 1 o'clock yesterday morning, and over one hundred men are known to have been killed. These mines are owned by a joint stock company composed mostly of Northern capitalists. The work of destruction at the coal mine was horrible, and complete. There were one hundred and fifty men in the mine at the time of the explosion, not one of whom is believed to have escaped. Those not killed outright by the terrible force of the explosion, most likely perished from after-damp. A number of bodies discovered were horribly mangled, some of them with their heads torn from the trunks, and others with the limbs all gone, presenting an appalling spectacle. The work of destruction was not confined entirely to the interior of the mines, but houses two or three hundred feet removed from the mines were destroyed, and in several instances entirely demolished.

LATEST DETAILS.

A midnight telegram from Pocahontas is as follows: The night train went into the mines at the usual hour, 1:30 strong. A little after midnight the town was startled from its sleep by a report that sounded like the rumbling of an earthquake, followed by a clap of thunder. Soon a messenger came from the mines, three-fourths of a mile away, with information to the superintendent that there had been a terrible explosion there. The superintendent and others went to the mines at once. The scene was indescribable. Words could convey the faintest idea of the destruction wrought in a few short seconds. Signs of it were plainly visible on every hand. The entrance to the main shaft was entirely torn out and scattered pell-mell for hundreds of feet, and the little train track torn and twisted, and shrapnel timber and ties were hurled in confusion all around. Cars were taken up bodily, torn in twain and their iron wheels broken and shivered. They were thrown three and four hundred feet away. The ridge and timbers on the ridge opposite this drift were a blackened picture to the sun, and six hundred feet away. A searching party found a pair of shoes that had been blown to the summit of the ridge, and a mile was found at the same place, twisted into an indescribable shape, and the second entrance to the mine presented a similar appearance to the first.

Escaped Convicts Recaptured.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 14.—The whole party of convicts who escaped from the coal mines near Clarksville, have been captured. Among them were the Iron Mountain train robbers, Jack Callahan, a murderer from Hot Springs, and other desperate characters. They immediately seized several guns and pistols of the guards, which had been left convenient, and escaped, passing through the country they obtained several additional guns from farm houses, and moved in the direction of Spadra, where they encountered on the road, and keeping well together, were preparing for a vigorous campaign. A detachment of guards from the mines followed them.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

East St. Louis Has a Blaze and Losses of a Million. ST. LOUIS, March 12.—Probably the most destructive fire that ever occurred in East St. Louis took place last night. The flames first caught in a small barber shop in a row of old frame buildings on the river front, situated between the freight yards of the Chicago & Alton on the north and the Ohio & Mississippi on the south. There being no fire department in the place, surrounding property was entirely at the mercy of the flames, which spread with lightning rapidity and in a few minutes had enveloped not only the whole row of frames but spread to the transfer stables in the rear and then to Advance Elevator "A," still further to the east, and the entire property was destroyed. The elevator had a capacity of 500,000 bushels and said to have contained between 300,000 and 300,000 bushels of corn, about 50,000 bushels of oats and about 10,000 bushels of wheat. Leading west from this elevator was a long conveyer, connecting with Elevator "B," on the river bank, belonging to the same company. Part of the conveyer was burned, but the remainder was torn away. The elevator itself, which is a large new building of 750,000 bushels capacity, was saved. Extending northward the fire spread to the freight office of the Chicago & Alton road, and to the cars in the extensive yard of that company. The freight office, which was formerly the passenger depot, was totally destroyed, and a large number of empty and laden cars were burned. One train of six burning cars was pulled out of the yards to Conestoga, near the National Stock Yards, where the flames were extinguished to a long line of others on the siding, and all of them, said to number seventy-five or eighty, were destroyed. A number of cars in the Ohio & Mississippi yard on the South, and still others in the track near elevator A and in the Chicago & Alton yards were also burned. It is estimated that fully 140 cars were burned, perhaps one-third to half of which were laden with grain and merchandise. Two old repair shops of little value, and an axle shop in the rear of elevator A were also burned. The losses cannot be accurately stated to-night. Estimates at this writing are: Elevator building, $150,000 to $200,000; grain, $2,000,000; cars and freight, $4,000,000; damage to freight yards, railroad buildings, $40,000 to $50,000; a row of frame buildings, repair shops, stables, etc., $10,000, or perhaps a total of half a million. One fire engine and two hose reels were sent over from this city, but they did not reach there in time to do much service, and Senator Gibson made the first and longest speech, and was, of course, against the treaty on the ground it admits free sugar in competition the chief staples of his own State. Senators Jones, Carson, Edmunds and others spoke against the treaty, and Senators Coke, Miller, of California and one or two other Senators made short speeches in its support. During the day several amendments offered were voted upon and lost. Among them were two by Senator Jones, the first adding meat products, wheat and cotton, and the second adding cotton and cotton goods to the list of exportable articles, and one by Senator Morrill fixing a lower limit to grade sugar which might be imported.

THE MEXICAN TREATY.

The Senate Finally Ratifies the Mexican Treaty after an Interesting Debate. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 13.—After four hours consideration in secret session, the Senate ratified the Mexican treaty. The vote was 41 to 21. The division is believed to have been as follows: Yeas—Allison, Bayard, Beck, Blair, Brown, Camden, Cameron, of Wisconsin, Cockrell, Cox, Cullom, Dawes, Dolph, Edmunds, Fair, Farley, Frye, George, Goome, Harris, Harrison, Hill, Hoar, Ingalls, Jackson, Lamar, Logan, McMillan, McPherson, Manderson, Maxey, Miller, of California, Miller of New York, Morgan, Pike, Pugh, Sabin, Salisbury, Sawyer, Slater, Vest and Wilson. Total, 41. Nays—Aldrich, Brown, Call, Conger, Gibson, Gorman, Hampton, Hawley, Jones, Jones of Florida, Kennan, Mahone, Mitchell, Morrill, Palmer, Platt, Sewell, Sherman, Vance and Williams; total, 20. The debate which preceded the vote is described as devoid of incident. Senator Gibson made the first and longest speech, and was, of course, against the treaty on the ground it admits free sugar in competition the chief staples of his own State. Senators Jones, Carson, Edmunds and others spoke against the treaty, and Senators Coke, Miller, of California and one or two other Senators made short speeches in its support. During the day several amendments offered were voted upon and lost. Among them were two by Senator Jones, the first adding meat products, wheat and cotton, and the second adding cotton and cotton goods to the list of exportable articles, and one by Senator Morrill fixing a lower limit to grade sugar which might be imported.

Train Robbers Break Jail.

DENVER, Col., March 12.—A Santa Fe special says: Particulars are just received here of the escape from Silver City jail of Kit Joy, Mike Lee, Frank Taggart, Carlos Chavez, Charles Spencer and a negro, George Cleveland, six of the most desperate criminals of the Southwest. While exercising in the jail yard the prisoners fell on the guards, from whom they took revolvers and keys, with which to unlock their shackles. Proceeding to the office jail, where they secured a supply of arms, they boldly walked out into the street, proceeded to the lively stable, mounted and rode away. A posse of citizens was soon in pursuit. Five miles out they came to the body of Cleveland, riddled with bullets. Farther on the band was overtaken and a pitched battle ensued. Lee and Taggart were captured, the balance escaped. During the fight a citizen, Joseph Laffers, was killed. Lee and Taggart were dragged to a tree on the roadside and strung up. The party then proceeded to town, carrying the three bodies. Lee, Taggart, Joy and Cleveland robbed the Union Pacific train on November 24, killing the engineer. Cravez murdered Chapman at Fort Bayard and was sentenced to be hung. Spencer was a horse thief and murderer.

Another Account.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 12.—A special from Silver City, N. M., says: Information has arrived from the scene of the conflict with the escaped train robbers, which states that Frank Taggart and Mike Lee were hanged to a tree by the posse in pursuit of them. The negro (Washington) had his head shot off, Mexican Chavez was shot dead. Joe Laffers, one of the posse was killed by Kit Joy. The latter made his escape, and Taggart, Joe de la Rivera, he will certainly be taken, dead or alive, within ten hours. Mike Lee confessed having killed Webster, the engineer of the train.

"THE THIRD HOUSE."

Its Good and Bad Members—The Remarkable Experiences of a Close Observer of Its Workings During a Long Residence at Washington.

(Correspondence Rochester Democrat.)

No city upon the American continent has a larger floating population than Washington. It is estimated that during the sessions of Congress twenty-five thousand people, whose homes are in various parts of this and other countries, make this city their place of residence. Some come here, attracted by the advantages the city offers for making the acquaintance of public men; others have various claims which they wish to present, while the great majority gather here, as the crows flock to the carrion, for the sole purpose of getting a morsel at the public crib. The latter class, as a general thing, originate the schemes which terminate in vicious bills, all of which are either directed at the public treasury, or toward that revenue which the black-mailing of corporations or private enterprises may attempt to force.

While walking down Pennsylvania avenue the other day I met Mr. William M. Ashley, formerly of your city, whose long residence here has made him unusually well acquainted with the operations of the lobby. Having made my wants in this particular direction known, in answer to an interrogative, Mr. Ashley said: "Yes, during my residence here I have become well acquainted with the workings of the 'Third House,' as it is termed, and could tell you of numerous jobs, which, like the 'Hundred Chinese,' are peculiar."

"You do not regard the lobby, as a body, vicious, do you?" "Not necessarily so; there are good and bad men comprising that body, and there have been times when it must be admitted that the combined power of the 'Third House' has overridden the will of the people. The bad influence of the lobby can be seen in the numerous bills that are introduced at every session."

"But how can these be discovered?" "Easily enough, to the person who has made it a regular study. I can detect them at a glance."

"Tell me, to what bill do you refer?" "Well, take the annual gas bill, for instance. They are introduced for the purpose of leading the Washington Gas Light Company. They usually result in an investigating committee which never amounts to anything more than a draft upon the treasury. The bill of the investigation. Another scheme is the obnoxious bill, as they are called. These, of course, are fought by the butchers and market-men. The first attempt to pass a bill of this description was in 1877, when a prominent Washington politician offered a fabulous sum for the franchise."

"Anything else in this line that you think Mr. Ashley?" "Yes, there's the job to reclaim the Potomac flats, which had it become a law, would have resulted in an enormous steal. The work is now being done by the Government itself, and will rid the place of that malarial atmosphere of which we hear so much outside the city."

"During your residence here have you experienced the bad results of living in this climate?" "Well, while I have not at all times enjoyed good health, I am certain that the climate which laid me up so long was not malarial. It was something that had troubled me for years. A shooting, stinging pain that at times attacked different parts of my body. One day my right arm and neck were so affected that I was unable to do my work. The next day the left arm and leg would be similarly affected, and it would last for some particular part of my body and produce a tenderness which would well nigh drive me frantic. There would be weeks at a time that I would be unable to do any interesting kind of work that would come on every afternoon and leave me comparatively free from suffering during the balance of the twenty-four hours. The attacks were so terrible that systems of pain coming on at any time during the day or night when I would be obliged to lie upon my back for hours and keep as motionless as possible. Every time I attempted to move a chilly sensation would pass over my body, and I would faint from hot flashes. I suffered from a spasmodic contraction of the muscles and a soreness of the back and neck, and even my eyeballs became sore and distressed me greatly whenever I wiped my face. I became ill-tempered, peevish, fretful, irritable and desperately dependent."

"Of course you consulted the doctors regarding your difficulty?" "Consulted them? Well I should say I did. Some of the ones I had consulted, others I had not. I had inflammatory rheumatism, for which there was no cure, that I would be afflicted all my life, and that time alone would mitigate my sufferings."

"Did they try to relieve your miseries?" "Yes, they vomited and physicked me, blistered and bled me, pias-ered and oiled me, sweat, steamed and everything but froze me, but without avail."

"How did you finally recover?" "I had a friend living in Michigan who had been afflicted in a similar way and had been cured. He wrote me regarding his recovery and advised me to try the remedy which cured him. I procured a bottle and commenced its use, taking a tablespoonful after each meal and at bed time. I had used it about a week when I noticed a decrease of the soreness of the joints and a general feeling of relief. I persevered in its use and finally got so I could move around with ease. I happened to read in the paper that it was Warner's Safe Rheumatic Cure that had put me on my feet."

"And do you regard your cure as permanent?" "Certainly! I haven't been so well in years as I am now, and although I have been subjected to frequent and severe changes of weather this winter, I have not felt the least intimation of the return of my rheumatic trouble."

"Do you object to the publication of this interview, Mr. Ashley?" "No, I look upon it as a duty I owe my fellow-creature to alleviate their sufferings so far as I am able, and any communication regarding my symptoms and cure that may be sent to me by the afflicted will receive my prompt and careful attention."

"Judging from your recital, Mr. Ashley, there must be wonderful curative properties about this medicine?" "Indeed there is, sir, for no man suffered more nor longer than I did before this remedy gave me relief."

"To go back to the original subject, Mr. Ashley, I suppose you see the same familiar faces about the lobby session after session?" "No, not so much as you might think. New men are constantly seen and the old ones disappear. The strain upon lobbyists is necessarily very great, and when you add to this the demoralizing effect of late hours and intemperance habits, and the fact that they are after found out in their steals, their disappearance can easily be accounted for."

"What proportion of these blood-bills are successful?" "A very small percentage, sir. Notwithstanding the power and influence of the lobby, but few of these vicious measures pass. Were they successful it would be a commentary upon our system of government, and would virtually annihilate one branch of it. The great majority of them are either reported adversely or otherwise, commended or rejected, by the wisdom and loyalty of our Congressmen."
