

THE RED CLOUD CHIEF.

A. C. HOSMER, - - Proprietor

FRIDAY, JUN 13, 1884.

National Republican Ticket.

For President,
James G. Blaine,
of Maine.
For Vice-President,
John A. Logan,
of Illinois.

JIM and Jack are good enough for us. They will make a team that will be hard to beat.

The next thing in order will be the democratic national convention at Chicago. Our democratic brethren are looking for this event, believing in their souls that Samuel J. Tilden will be the nominee of that convention and the savior of their party. The indications are that S. J. T. will be the nominee, but we are afraid that the old man's barrel will not be sufficient to get him there this time.

A Powerful Pair.

The Republican party has again placed its nominees for president and vice-president before the people. A wiser selection could not have been made by any party. The action of the Chicago convention will certainly have the effect of harmonizing the factions in the party, and bring it again to victory in November.

JAMES G. BLAINE.

The nominee for president, has been a life long and ardent republican, and for many years past has been prominently before the people in various capacities in public life, and has made for himself a great and glorious record. He was born at Indian Hill farm, Washington county, Penn., in 1830. "His great grandfather, Colonel Ephriam Blaine, was a friend of Washington and had charge of the commissariat of the revolutionary forces during the terrible winter which they passed at Valley Forge. At the age of twelve, Blaine was sent to school in Lancaster, Ohio, where he lived in the family of his relative, Hon. Thomas Ewing, then secretary of the treasury. One year later he entered Washington college, where he graduated at the head of a large class in 1847. In 1850 he went to Kentucky as a teacher in the military academy at Blue Lick Springs.

In 1862 Mr. Blaine was elected to congress. During his first term he gave himself up to study and observation, but in the next congress, the thirty-ninth, he gained some prominence, and from that time to the end of his career he occupied a foremost place among the republican leaders. During the period of southern reconstruction Blaine made many speeches that attracted much attention and spread his fame as an orator. In the forty-first, forty-second, and forty-third congresses he was elected speaker of the house. In this capacity he showed a ready knowledge of parliamentary usage and a fairness and impartiality in his rulings that won him general praise from both parties.

In June 1876, Blaine was elected to fill the seat in the senate vacated by Lot M. Morrill, who had been made secretary of the treasury, and in January, 1877, he was elected for the full term, ending March 4th, 1884. In all his labors, Mr. Blaine has striven to be with and by the people. Ambitious, it is true, he was; but ambitious to do his country great service and enhance the interests of the masses. His splendid oratory and his matchless magnetism made for him thousands of friends who were ready to go anywhere with him that honorable and brave men might go."

JOHN A. LOGAN

the soldier and statesman, was wisely selected for the second place on the ticket by the convention. His name will insure the party thousands of votes. Being always true to his friends, a brave and loyal man, the soldiers' friend, and many other noble attributes, has endeared him to the people. "When the union flag was assailed by enemies in arms, when the integrity of the union was imperilled by an organized treason, when the storm of war threatened the very life of this nation, this gallant son of the Prairie state resigned his seat in the congress of the United States, returned to his home, and was among the first of our citizens to raise a regiment and march to the front in defense of his country. Like Douglas, he believed that in time of war, men must be patriots or traitors, and he threw his mighty influence on the side of the union and Illinois, made a record second to none in the history of the states in the struggle to preserve this government. Among the large number of brave men, of brave soldiers of the late war, whose names are proudly written on the scroll of fame, none appear more grandly than the name of Logan." Such is the fame of John A. Logan, one of America's greatest statesmen. With these two gallant standard bearers, the republican party will go to victory in November. Let every republican lay aside all prejudices and rally around the flag."

ELM CREEK.

Fine corn weather. Corn is growing faster than the weeds. The boys were all sold one night last week. They gathered up a charivari party, and behold! they were not married—that is Sara and N were not. There are still some thieves on Elm Creek, or near, for the farmers are losing meat, corn, potatoes, molasses, butter, and in fact everything the thieves can get their hands on. We believe if they were filled with shot it would stop the stealing. TAW.

NEW POINT.

We will try and give you some of the news from this part. Farmers are busy trying to keep ahead of the weeds. Crops of all kinds are looking well. Grass is growing and so are the weeds. Mr. Arnold contemplates building a new house with native Nebraska brick. Mr. F. Slatter is having a new well put down. Mr. Howe is doing the work. The young folks met at the Elm Creek school house, and organized a del. ing society with Mr. A. E. Thomas president, and C. Anderson, secretary.

There seems to be a lack of hands to shear sheep at least in this part of the county. Can not some one send a few.

WHISTLER.

THE CHIEF came to us this time on Sunday morning, delayed, we suppose to give us the news from the Chicago convention. The delay and suspense was fully compensated for when we read the result. I heard one happy republican saying "rofferblaine," or words to that effect, but I did not know what it meant. I suppose he had heard of the nomination and was trying to make known his approval of the ticket. I am very well suited with the ticket and think it a good one.

We had a rain last Saturday evening which did some good. Farmers are busy plowing corn. The main attraction here seems to be the lottery of glassware with coffee at Peak & Latta's. The people of Cowles are talking of home celebration on the fourth of July, but some are going to Red Cloud. Dr. G. E. McKeely, of Red Cloud, was in our town one day last week, accompanied by his wife. G. W. Ball and wife were in Cowles one day this week.

G. W. Wells has moved in his new house. C. W. Fuller has commenced a new office. Corn is still being shipped from here.

SCOTT.

A majestic rain showered its blessings on us Saturday evening. Mr. Frank Eastman has killed another wild cat. Will Kizer, the boy who explored the wolf hole the other day and started home rejoicing bringing in the sheep? He and his brotcer fired at three more at the den.

Some of our neighbors went to visit the Buffalo Creek Sunday-school in the Re-encrans neighborhood last Sunday. It is thriving. Bro. Allbaugh is a worthy go-ahead superintendent of the Buffalo and Walnut Creek Sunday-schools. We are greatly pleased to see one so interested in such a grand cause.

Mr. John Jones and wife are visiting old friends here. They are on their way to Sumner county, Kansas. Mr. John Robinson's brother-in-law has bought a farm of Mr. Thos Vaughn that was formerly owned by Mr. John Jones. We will soon have new neighbors there.

Mr. H. Conger, from Iowa, has bought a piece of railroad land west of W. D. McKinney's farm and moved thereon.

Mrs. Thos. Vaughn is very sick. Mrs. C. P. Rinker is slowly recovering.

Mr. Arnison and Mr. Vaughn are having a law suit. We hope both parties will be as peaceable as possible, and "let brotherly love continue" With kind thoughts toward all I close this article. BETA.

GUIDE ROCK.

Dr. Brown leaves to-night for Republic City, Kans, where he has located his practice.

Miss Garber is again able to take charge of her school, she having been on the sick list for several days.

A warrant is out for the arrest of a young man alleged to have made some demonstrations with a "pop."

Mr. Montgomery has a live pelican, and the noble bird is on free exhibition. Charlie Corwin has taken some fine views of residences in and around Guide Rock. He has become quite an expert.

Mrs. Clara E. Leber is visiting friends at Blue Springs, and is missed by her host of friends here.

Target shooting and base ball are the leading amusements for the season with an occasional horse race.

Mr. F. B. Smith is in town representing the interests of THE CHIEF, and is much pleased with our people, and the appearance of the thing generally. Our post office is being overhauled thoroughly by Mr. Brady, painter and paper hangers, and the effect upon the general appearance is very marked.

Mr. C. C. Bradford is not able for duty to-day, at the store of J. W. Cray, but it is hoped nothing serious will be the result of his present indisposition. No man in our village has endeared himself more to her people in so short a time than he has.

Political excitement we have none, expecting an occasional bout between some forlorn "anti-mop" and some one who has more time to discuss the dead issues than any live business man cares to consume. One might just as well devote his time and talents to a discussion of the Dred Scott decision and declare it an issue of the day, as to try to talk sense into a man who does not see that these are prosperous times.
