He amped clear of the ground and took a salf-circle around the woman, pulling her over on her side. No one offered a any assistance, and when the coming car forced her to take a new position she scrambled up and got a neck-hold fairy to her bine-eyed chure, "I'm just on the calf. He at first broke down and began to bawl, but suddenly took heart and made a run for the sidewalk, dragging her along. The crowd advised her to pinch his care, throw rim down, call for the police. Show was silent and grim. She had a firm hold of his neck and pulled him back into the street ir spite of his bucking. To the casual observer he was a gone calf, but as she stooped to the her shoe a boy stuck a pin into him and i e sailed right over her and brought such a strain on the rope as to fling her down again, It was now a question as to whether she would pull his neck off or he would draw her across the street, but when the strain had continued for fifteen seconds the rope broke and the call went off like a deer. A policeman who had arrived too late to be of assistance thought to offer some consolation, but the woman made a pass at his nose with one of her dirt-beameared hands and snapped out:
