Some of the young dudes who make the night hideous by throwing corn at houses and putting tick-tacks on the windows should beware, as some of the victims of their jokes have decided to make it warm for them if caught. THE CHIEF wishes him success.

L. H. RUST the Red Cloud horticulturist has been surprising the natives of Blue Hill, Breverton and Red Cloud during the past ten days with an unexpectedly fine Spring delivery of fruit and ornamental trees and shrubs the finest ever brought to this county. THE Cantata of Queen Esther is being rehearsed in this city by our leading singers, and in a few days will be given to the public. The rendition of the cantata requires both skill and musical ability, and the leaders have selected the best singers in the city for the purpose. It is indeed an elegant thing and people should not fail to hear it.

THESE seems to be a difference of opinion as to whom the mantle of "Overseer of highways" for the Red Cloud district shall fall upon. Mr. M. S. Ballard holds the fort on one side and the city duds have appointed E. A. Watson, to hold the office in the new district. Mandamus proceedings have been instituted by the trustees to restrain the county treasurer from paying over any funds of the district that may come into his hands to Mr. Ballard.

THE county bastille weighed anchor on Tuesday, sailing in a southeasterly direction, in charge of Captain Baker and crew. The old hull is now safely moored near the shores of Crooked Creek and prepared for the reception of its beligerent guests as usual. THE Omaha capitalists have become spunky over the fact that Lincoln is to have the state fair and now propose to break up that institution if possible. The people of the state should take notice of their doings and give them a wide berth. It may be enterprising but it is the kind that is usually found in Nebraska. LAST of letters for the week ending April 27th 1885 C. T. Bege, Miss Flora Bear, Miss Estella May Beck, Cora B. Cline, Thomas Dodge, Levi DeHedt, C. E. Eaton, Rev. A. J. Eapen, Edward Garrett, Fay Gorbien, F. P. Gould, Nute Montgomery, J. B. Miller, T. Ryan, Robert Walker, J. B. Walters. These letters will be sent to the dead letter office May 25 1885 if not called for before. MR. E. STEWART of New York city is in Webster county, and will probably buy a stock farm near Red Cloud, and go into that business. He is very much pleased with Nebraska as compared with the cold climate of New York state, where farming has not yet commenced while farmers in the Republican valley have been plowing and doing other farm work for a month and a half. A BULLY TIME—On last Sunday F. N. Richardson and the Raster Bros had considerable fun in trying to lariat a ferocious bull which they wanted to take out of the corral, and had it not been for the close proximity of the fence the case would have been a serious one for Friz. Friz was making a bee line for the fence to get out of the way of the beast, but the infuriated animal could run faster than Friz, and overtook him, but by presence of mind Mr. Richardson dropped down and thereby threw the bull, and before it could gain its equilibrium Friz was safely housed on t'other side of the fence. Queen Esther, May 14. THE singers of Red Cloud are now busy in their preparations for Queen Esther. Already over sixty singers are enlisted. This will undoubtedly be the grandest musical treat Red Cloud has enjoyed for years. It is requested that everyone read the book of Esther to appreciate this cantata fully. The King and Queen, Haman, Scribe, High Priest, Jews and Persians in full Oriental costume, will be personated in solos, duets, quartets and choruses. Look out for the program next week.

Enterprising Merchants

The fact that the enterprising firm of Mohart & Fulton, hardware dealers, C. Weiner clothing merchant, and B. F. Mizer grocer and queensware dealer have decided to build new brick store rooms 100 feet deep and 25 feet wide, makes THE CHIEF feel jubilant from the fact that such evidences of prosperity leads us to believe that in a few short months the west side of the business portion of Webster street, from 3rd Avenue to 5th Avenue will be of solid brick buildings. The above gentlemen are paving the way, and it is only a question of time when other merchants must take the fever and build suitable store rooms to keep pace with the growing metropolis of the Republican valley. Messrs. Mohart & Fulton and B. F. Mizer will build a two story block each, the store room as designated in last weeks CHIEF and in addition will make the upstairs into an opera house which is really needed in Red Cloud. Mr. Weiner's building will be two stories high the first and second stories adapted exclusively to the needs of his trade. The north block will be built after the design of the Red Cloud National bank block when ever built. This will have the effect of making a handsome number of store rooms. Now who will be the next one to put up a brick building. Verily, Red Cloud is booming, there have been something like twenty new buildings built for since January 1st 1885, and contracts for several more have been let. Keep up the good work and make the city of our adoption grow and expand like the green bay tree.

The Bridge Question.

Another meeting of our business men was held in Judge Yeiser's office on Saturday night to again discuss the bridge question, from a logical business standpoint, a civil engineer who has been making surveys and estimates, at the different points along the Republican needing bridges, presented some very interesting facts, figures relative to the motus operandi etc. of bridge building. It is a lamentable fact that Webster county is continually losing a large amount of trade that rightfully belongs to it, by reason of defective bridges and almost impassable roads, these serious drawbacks to the material prosperity of the county are not confined to the valley alone but is felt severely at the various trade centers throughout the entire county. It is estimated that about forty or fifty five thousand dollars will properly bridge the Republican with reliable and permanent bridges and some ten or fifteen thousand to bridge the streams and draws, elsewhere in the county and to improve the public roads so that the farmers may be able to reach the market with a full load of products at any and all times, they may so desire. The board of county commissioners meet Saturday and will consider the advisability of calling a special election of the people, to vote for or against the issuing of county bonds, to the amount of $55,000 to be used in improving the highways and bridges of Webster county as above stated. We believe the project a just one and trust that no motives of parsimonious economy may be allowed to retard these much needed and lasting improvements.

On Monday evening Charlie Kaley, Sam Garber, and Will Brakenfeld a noble trio of Red Cloud's energetic young men severed the social ties that bound them to this latter day Eden, bade farewell to home and mother and with the regulation artillery in a leather girdle about their loins started for the land of the Montezumas. Their present destination is Raton, New Mexico where they expect to carve Red skins and shoot the wild cactus over the plains, as all truly courageous cowboys have done, who have entered that land before them. THE CHIEF drops the silent tear of regret over their departure, trusts that "Old Prob." who tempests the wind to suit the convenience of the weather, will also care for the little Tenderfoot's and will carefully hope to see them return from their weary pilgrimage in due season, to the city of their first love and again resume their places in our midst as solid influential citizens.

A NEW LUMBER YARD.—We learn this week that Rev. Mr. Hawley formerly of Red Cloud and our old friend B. T. Reed have associated themselves together and will start a lumber yard and feed store on the lots just between the Commercial house and A. S. Marsh's residence and in front of W. D. Forrester's residence. These gentlemen are well known to the citizens of Red Cloud and Webster and adjacent counties, and we have no doubt but what they will be well repaid for the money they propose to invest in the lumber enterprise in our city. THE CHIEF welcomes these men into the active business circles and wishes them prosperity and success in every particular. This will make Red Cloud quite a lumber headquarters, there being now with Reed & Hawley four establishments. The new firm will put up a store room 20 by 26 for the flour and feed department.

DEED.—At the residence of W. L. Wilson, on April 23, his age 85 years, two months and eight days. She firmly believed the seventh day of the Sabbath, and died having a living faith that God would raise her up to be in His everlasting kingdom. Eld. Hoopes spoke from the text of her own choice, Jer. 14: 1-2.

66TH ANNIVERSARY

Of American Odd-Fellowship at Red Cloud.

One of the most interesting events that has transpired for a number of years in the way of celebrations took place in Red Cloud last Monday, April 27, and was the occasion of the 66th Anniversary of American Odd-Fellowship. Red Cloud Lodge No. 64, I. O. O. F. of this city, had been for several weeks engaged in perfecting arrangements to entertain the large number that were expected to be present from the Valley and adjacent territory, and succeeded admirably. The order is one of the [most] flourishing of the many benevolent institutions of modern times, and from one lodge started in Baltimore 66 years ago they are now numbered by the thousands, and its membership by the hundreds of thousands, not only in our own land but its tenets of Friendship, Love and Truth are taught in all civilized nations of the earth, and the great work of alleviating the sufferings of mankind, caring for the widows and orphans of deceased members, helping the poor and elevating the human race to a higher plane of usefulness, is being constantly pressed onward, and many a weary heart has found solace in this order when the world had seemed a vast wilderness, and all hope had fled in a rough road to Jericho, but sooner or later it must be traveled by all, and at such times when affliction and trouble comes "is well to have a friend, to succor you, for "A friend in need is a friend indeed," and especially is this true in regard to Odd-fellowship. They who know can speak. It is not surprising then that the organization flourishes, and that all over the broad land the brethren come together to celebrate and renew their vows of friendship. On Monday morning the various lodges from over the Valley came in on the early trains and were met by a delegation of Red Cloud lodge and carried up town, led by the Red Cloud cornet band. The first lodge to make its appearance was from Blue Hill which was accompanied by their cornet band, and numbered thirty-nine or forty members. The next delegations came in from the west headed by the Franklin cornet band, and later on in the day Salem Lodge to the number of fifteen or twenty came over in wagons and the festivities were then commenced, and were occasionally enlivened by the "sweet strains of music" floating upon the air from the various cornet bands that were in the city. In fact it was a grand holiday, not only for Odd Fellows but was joined in by most of our citizens and quite a number from the outlying precincts. At 12:30 p. m. in accordance with the program the Red Cloud Lodge met at their hall to the number of about fifty and at one o'clock marched to the rink, headed by the Red Cloud band, where they were joined by the visiting brethren and the grand march commenced. At 1:30 p. m. in the order was given by Grand Marshal Bayha for the column to move, which they did in the following manner: From the rink the column marched north to 7th Avenue thence west to Cedar st., again north to 9th Avenue and west to Seward st., and south to 2nd Avenue and east on 2nd Avenue to Webster st., and thence north to the rink.

AT THE RINK. The following program was fully carried out by the lodges, and was of a very interesting nature. About two o'clock A. J. Means, acting Noble Grand, called the meeting to order, and prayer was offered by the Rev. Geo. W. Hummell, after which the singing of the "opening ode" by all Odd-fellows took place. A J. Kenney acted as grand marshal and on behalf of the Red Cloud Lodge delivered an able and appreciative address of welcome to the visiting brethren and their ladies, which was heartily applauded from time to time as the speaker progressed. After singing, E. A. Fletcher, of Franklin, in a very few well chosen remarks responded on behalf of the visiting members. Mr. Fletcher is an enthusiastic brother and his address was most highly appreciated by the brethren and attentively listened to, after which the choir, composed of J. P. Bayha, Prof. Elwang, Thomas Poyner, and Miss Fva Bayha, with Mrs. J. P. Bayha as organist, gave the audience their attention to the singing of the grand exercises commenced. The proclamations from the Grand Sire having been read by the secretary of Blue Hill lodge, the Noble Grand and Vice Grand recited the principal objects of, and the causes which lead to the foundation of the order. After prayer and singing the Rev. E. A. Cornet, grand chaplain of the grand lodge of Nebraska, was introduced, and for the space of thirty minutes kept the audience in a pleasant humor by one of the most able addresses that it has been our pleasure to listen to for some time. The good brother is a thorough Odd-fellow, and was loudly applauded all through his discourse. A J. Kenney, who has given his speech in full, but have not the space to spare. After closing the anniversary addresses a vote of thanks was tendered to Bros. Cornet, Kenney and Fletcher, for the parts which they took in the exercises and also to the bands which had volunteered the music, and to the most Mr. Cleaver, of the Orleans Press moved a vote of thanks to Red Cloud for the kind treatment that the visiting members had received. Rev. E. A. Cornet moved that the next meeting of the association be held at Orleans. On the question being put to the lodge it was carried unanimously. Bro. Ward, of Franklin, on invitation, sang a come song entitled "My Thomas Cat" which was very amusing and created a great deal of merriment. At the next meeting in Orleans the question of making a permanent Valley Association will be discussed. After prayer the exercises closed for the afternoon, and in the evening a grand ball was given at the rink which was largely attended, and participated in until the small hours appeared, when the "mazy waltzing" ceased and the merry makers returned to their various homes vowing that it was one of the most enjoyable events in the history of Odd-fellowship in the Valley. Too much praise can not be bestowed upon the committee on arrangements for their untiring efforts to make the exercises pleasant and profitable to all. Everything was systematized and consequently passed off harmoniously. It was certainly a most pleasant event and enjoyed by all who took part in the days' exercises.

THE FOOLS NOT ALL DEAD.

A Young Man From Illinois the Victim of Confidence Men.

On last Saturday a young man from Illinois giving his name as L. Heller, landed in Red Cloud and registered at the Gardner House. He was wearing the tames of B. F. Ford and B. F. Egleson alias Johnson, who are not unknown to our police, having operated their schemes in this city during last fall, when a number of people were fleeced out of several hundred dollars and especially one of our worthy farmers who sadly mourns the loss of something like $300 for a few minutes experience and a great deal of glorious anticipation, and for this and other causes these said traveling sharks one morning had a fond adieu to our peaceful village and "fitted" for a more congenial field of labor and more perfect obscurity from the prying eyes of detectives, who were in search of them, so the story goes. The young man in question had some $50 in his possession and the confidence operators discovering the fact, very politely invited him into their room to spend the evening, letting on to the Illinois youth that they were in search of land, and a few minutes later they were quietly seated in the said apartments. A little later one of the sharpers very carefully drew from his pocket a bunch of envelopes containing cards with numbers on them. The operator of the scheme then produced a chart with numbers on it corresponding with those in the envelopes. The figures on the chart specify the amount of money to be drawn by the numbers, out of which draw worthless prizes. While the operator is shuffling the envelopes he purposely exposes a number in one of the envelopes. The victim is deceived in the number, and thinking to draw a prize falls readily into the scheme. The victim pays his money and the operator gives him his envelopes containing the numbers, but upon opening them he finds they contain nothing but worthless prizes. The "Sucker Boy" dropped a little matter of $50 before realizing that he was being swindled. The capper then wrote out a check and offered it to his companion, which he refused, and both soon afterwards hurried from the room to catch the outgoing east bound train. In the meantime their victim had notified Deputy Sheriff Ball, who with his usual promptness arrested the guilty parties at the depot just as the train was pulling out. It is strange after the oft repeated warnings of the press, that any person possessing common horse sense can be so easily victimized. Hardly a day passes that the people are not warned, and indeed THE CHIEF has called the attention of the people to these swindlers more than once within the last eighteen months. The people should beware all such schemes of designing men, whose only purpose is to rob the unsuspecting and thereby gain a living without work. On Monday the parties arrested were before a legal tribunal, and after the evidence had been produced in the case, they were fined fifty dollars and costs.

AT WELLS.

The Beautiful Little Village Visited by The Chief. On last Tuesday in company with our friend F. E. Goble, of the Nebraska Lumber Company, THE CHIEF took a trip overland to the village of Wells, situated in the north part of Webster, some twenty miles distant from the metropolis of the state of Webster. The drive to Wells from Red Cloud takes a person through some of the grandest rolling prairie to be found in the West. All along the way and as far as the eye could see, there could be observed well improved farms, good frame houses, barns, fine groves, and in fact one would think that Webster county had been settled nearer fifty years than fifteen. The farmers are thrifty and enterprising, and indeed McQuilkin farm north the land grows more level as you leave the river and advance to the west and north, and the traveler sees before him one vast stretch of fine farming country dotted thickly with farm houses, barns, etc. The farmers on the divide apparently turn their attention more to direct farming than stock raising, as nearly every farm is planted to small cereals. About two o'clock we arrived in Wells, our friend Goble and THE CHIEF rambled around the village for the purpose of taking in the sights. THE TOWN OF WELLS is situated in a little valley, and is skirted on the north, west and east by quite a growth of timber that grows along the banks of the Little Blue. The location of the village could not have been better selected if the originators had tried the county over. The business of the village is represented by the following firms, all of whom are doing a splendid business: G. Aultz hotel and blacksmith; A. Alexander & Doyle, general merchandise; Mrs. Lockhart, groceries; Jno. D. Storey, drugs; Mohart & Fulton, hardware; John Ramsell, blacksmith; S. Alexander, livery stable; O. G. Roberts, harness and saddlery hardware; Mr. Simpson, billiard hall; Mr. Hoffman, general merchant; and A. L. Funk, agricultural implement. Several new dwellings have been erected this season, and several others are being completed. The Grand Army Post have erected a nice hall for themselves. The town has two physicians Drs. Monroe and Kohler, and both gentlemen have a fine practice. The village is certainly in a most prosperous condition, and THE CHIEF wishes its citizens success, prosperity and riches.
