A CLEAR CASE OF FUDGE.

The Pearson Case Not Indicative of Devotion to Civil-Service Reform.

cause it affords strong encouragement to be lieve that the President is determined to apply the principles of civil-service reform in cases not within the letter of existing law, so disconnected with the policy of the Administration that the political optinions of those who hold them are unimportant.

Looking at this matter without prejudice and with a disposition to do exact justice to the President, it must be said that the appointment of Pearson does not indicate that Mr. Cleveland "is determined to apply the principles of civil-service reform in cases not within the letter of existing law" for the reason that his case stands solitary and alone, while opposed to it are arrayed a number of removals of officials who are the peers of Mr. Pearson in every clement of experience, qualification, were "so disconnected with the policy of an Administration that the political will never will be worth fighting for ever will never the control of the market again for that commodity. This will reduce the value of the negroes so, much that they will never will be worth fighting for every will never the fight fight fin were "so disconnected with the policy of an Administration that the political opinions of those who hold them are

SELF-PRESERVATION THE FIRST LAW OF NATURE.

In these degenerate days when ennul or a morbid craving for excitement alternately depresses or enlivens the animal pulse of unfortunate humanity. a word, a blow, a pistol shot, too often ends the chapter of life and darkens with gloom and serrowing regret a murdefer's future. Truly "self-preservetion is the first low of nature," but this in its fullest and grandest sense should include a preservation of one's equanimity of temper, a preservation of a happy consciousness of living and doing right ly, a preservation of that disposition which shows a regard for the lives and feelings of others, all of which makes life endurable to our associates and enjoyable to ourselves. Again, a knowledge of that which promotes and that which impairs the harmonious action of natural bodily functions is essential to the best preservation of all there is in life worth living. To this end a judicious selection of remedial agents should unerringly be made when the wheels of perfect health tegin to run slow, when the stomach grows weak, when the liver feels sore, when the kidcause distress, and gloomy foreboding become constant companions. The wisest selection of a medicine for connteracting such evidences of ill health and restoring robust strength to all parts of the body is BR. GUYSOTT'S YELLOW DOCK AND SARSAPARILLA Remember this and do not let your druggists sell you in its place anything of a different name, for the writer, who was himself an invalid for years, knows this remedy to excel as a health restorative all other preparations.

A Man's Thanks.

A well-known business man of Wilmingon, N. C., writes to express his thanks for the benefit which his wife has derived from the use of Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. "It is with pleasure," he says, "that I write to express to you my gratitude for the relief and benefit your Vegeta ble Compound has been to my wife, who has been troubled with ulceration and a tumor weighing 2% lbs., so the doctor said. She has been under the treatment of the doctor for six years. Finally he said he could do nothing more for her, that she would die in 24 hours. Then I commenced using your Compound, as soon as she commenced to take it she commenced getting better and now she can attend to her donestic affairs as well as she ever could."
