A DREAM FROM AMBOY.
Meandering around the eddies of Amboy with hook and line, I had a good chance to see and think. My tackle well set for a bull head, my chief occupation was the study of public improvements, which suggested these practical and non-expensive thoughts: Amboy needs a bridge. Looking over the "water" the home of the "bull heads" I discovered a splendid bridge site, and I have no doubt but there are two more bridge sites, one above and one below town, if this be so, no doubt by a little maneuvering county bonds will be voted for one bridge. Precinct bonds can then be voted to build another, and if the commissioners locate one above and one below town the business houses could build one south of the switch. This would throw trade to this point, and be a big thing for us, if it would flatten out both Guide Rock and Red Cloud.

At this point I thought I had a "bull head," but it was only a nibble. So, disgusted, I wended my way home, wondering why Webster county voters, especially those in the north part of the county, can not see the necessity of putting a bridge at every good bridge site on the Republican. I hope THE CHIEF will battle for three bridges, good substantial and solid bridges, and if we can't have them here at this important railroad center, put one at Inavale, one at Red Cloud, and one at Guide Rock. Amboy has a patient, self-sacrificing people, and if this be done we will fish for "bull heads" and wait, without grumbling.

Red Cloud, Neb., June 18th 1885.
J. L. Miller, John McCallum and I. B. Hampton, board of equalization met pursuant to adjournment June 10th and commenced their examination of assessment books and schedule books, preparatory to equalization of assessments, and continued the business of equalization, adjourning from June 10th 1885, to June 11th, 12th, 13th, 15th, 16th, 17th and 18th, during which time the board ordered summons issued for resident taxpayers to appear before them to show cause why their assessment should not be raised, also, hearing complaints on assessments in the different precincts, receiving and filing affidavits relative to individual assessments, also notice of omission of certain lands from tax list for 1884, which were ordered placed on 1884 tax list. All of which is on record in county commissioners Record of proceedings in county Clerk's office.
Board now on the 18th day of June 1884, adjourned to June 19th 1885, to complete the equalization, and order all levies to be made for 1885.
