Some Memorable April Days.

A quarter of a century ago last Monday, April 12, is a day that will be long remembered by the entire civilized world, it being the day of the firing on Fort Sumpter, in Charleston harber, South Carolina, and the initial battle of the great war of the rebellion.

Last Friday, April 9, was the anniversary of the surrender of the Confederate army, and the virtual ending of the war in 1865. Twenty-one years ato Wednesday,
