in the latter named state. A glance at the proposed route shows what a fine territory it has to draw from, and how feasible such a scheme as this is. This route would open up to Kansas and Nebraska the rich coal which is equal to the Pennsylvania anthracite; the yellow pine at rates that would be a god send to the residents of Kansas now compelled to purchase lumber from the pineries of the north. It would give us a direct market for our flour, corn, cattle and hogs, as it would give us a direct route to the Gulf by way of Ft. Smith and the Arkansas river, which is navigable

There has never been a road projected in the state of Kansas that is of such importance as this line, or one that will prove so beneficial in dollars and cents to every resident of the western part of the state. It is a line based upon a substantial foundation and backed by a wealthy company, and in these respects differs from the wildcat schemes that have drawn upon the tax payers of the state without giving or offering to give anything in return. To the counties through which it is to pass it will be of inestimable value and calls upon every citizen of said counintervenes and the strike proves worse ties for strong efforts to secure its advancement.
