

AGASSIZ AND DICKENS.

Something About the Mothers of These Two Famous Men. Concerning many of those women the world knows much, but of the majority it is ignorant. The mother of Agassiz, the scientist, was the wife of a Swiss Protestant clergyman, and lived to a good old age. Louis was her favorite son, and she trained him with the greatest care. When, in 1857, Professor Silliman, of Yale College, visited her, he found her at fourscore a "tall, erect and dignified woman, with animated address and cultivated manners." When she was assured by her guest that her son's adopted country loved him, and was proud of him, her strong frame was agitated, her voice trembled with emotion, and the flowing tears told the sad story of a mother's heart. The day that Professor Silliman left she walked a long way in the rain to bid him and his wife farewell. Presenting them with a little bouquet of pansies, she bade them tell her son her "pansies were all for him." Pansies, in French, means both pansies and thought. On the fiftieth birthday of Agassiz, the Saturday Club, of Boston, celebrated it with a dinner at which Longfellow, Holmes and Lowell read poems. In the poem of the former, allusion was made to the natural mother as mourning over the fact the great mother, Nature, had driven her son from the fireside, where she wished to keep him: And the mother at home says "Hark! For his voice I listen and yearn: It is growing late and dark, And my boy does not return." Agassiz' head was bent during the reading of the poem, but when the allusion to his mother was made his ruddy face flushed with restrained feeling, tears gathered in his eyes, and as the last line was uttered they dropped slowly down his cheeks, one after another. The childhood of Dickens was so shadowed by poverty, and his sensitive and imaginative mind was so keenly alive to his position, that it was hardly possible that he could draw an absolutely impartial picture of his parents. His mother had a keen appreciation of the droll and of the pathetic, and likewise considerable dramatic talent. She was a comely little woman, with handsome, bright eyes, and a genial, agreeable person. From her Dickens undoubtedly inherited his temperament and intellectual gifts. She possessed an extraordinary sense of the ludicrous, and her power of imitation was something astonishing. Her perception was quick, and she unconsciously noted everything that came under her observation. In describing ridiculous occurrences her tone and gesture would be inimitable, while her manner was of the quaintest. Dickens declared that to her he owed his first desire for knowledge, and his earliest passion for reading was awakened by his mother, who taught him not only the rudiments of English, but also a little Latin. Poverty saddened and darkened many years of her life, and her children were early compelled to leave her and earn their own living, but they all honored and loved her as she deserved. -Woman's Argosy.

FARM AND FIRESIDE.

-Growing animals need more food in proportion to their weight than those that are full grown. -Spinach is one of the early greens. An application of a very fine manure will hasten them and give a larger crop. -Those who have experienced the misery of chilblains will be glad to try bathing the afflicted parts in a pint of vinegar containing five cents' worth of turpentine. -Golden Pudding: Mix well one-quarter of a pound each of flour, bread crumbs, sugar and finely minced meat; and the same quantity of orange marmalade and one egg; pour into a well-buttered mold and steam two and a half hours. -Vegetables with a strong flavor, such as onions and turnips, will be much improved by putting them to boil in cold water, renewing this from a kettle of boiling water as soon as it comes to a scald. -Good Cheer. -The only way to continue bearing apple trees healthy, vigorous and fruitful, is by giving them full possession of the land, good cultivation, and supplying a sufficient quantity of manure to keep up the fertility of the soil. The neglect to keep these requirements is the main cause of the premature decay of many of our old orchards. -The customary remedy for the black knot or blight on plum trees is to cut it out as fast as it appears and burn it. This is laborious and not always satisfactory. A Yankee fruit-grower reports that painting the diseased spots as soon as they appear with linsed oil, has been a sure preventive in his experience. -Farm and Home. -The very best thing for a sprain is to put the limb into a vessel of hot water immediately, then add boiling water as it can be borne. Keep the part immersed for twenty minutes, or until the pain subsides; then apply a tight bandage and order rest. Sometimes the joint can be used in twelve hours. If necessary use a silicate of sodium dressing. -Sausage Rolls: Take puff paste, roll out to an eighth of an inch in thickness; then cut in squares of four inches each, lay them on a board; have sausage meat ready, make in small rolls, and place one on each square of pastry. Wet the edges and bring them together. Work with beaten white of an egg, bake nice and brown. If properly made these rolls are very dainty. -Ham and Potatoes: Beat the yolks of two eggs into a little melted butter (about two ounces), cut some thin slices of cooked ham; dip them in it; butter a dish or pan, and lay in it a layer of cold boiled and sliced potatoes, sprinkle them with pepper and salt, then put a layer of the pieces of ham, another of potatoes, and so on till the dish be full, finishing with the potatoes. Pour over this half a pint of cream, stand the dish in the oven and bake quickly. -Yankee Blat. WATCH THE PIGS. How to Raise Healthy and Consequently Profitable Piggers. The best possible floor for a piggery is one of earth, provided this is of a kind that will not become too dusty. Hogs seem to be peculiarly sensitive to dust, or, rather, since they have their nostrils often and closer to the ground than any other domestic animal, they inhale more dust than any other. It is very injurious to them, causing snuffles, cough, influenza, thumps, etc. The occupation of one bed for a long time unchanged is a fruitful cause of disease; even the earth, which purifies all things, will itself become foul at last from the exhalations of the skin. Hogs seem to be peculiarly sensitive in their skins and the mucous membrane lining all the internal cavities. They suffer from a lack of cleanliness, and no animal will show it sooner in the toused and dead look of the hair; whereas a hog that is in good thrift will very soon give unmistakable evidence of it in the clean, soft, bright appearance of his hair and bristles. As above stated, an earth floor is the best every way, but this should not be allowed to become so dry as to yield excessive dust, nor so damp as to produce a steamy, reeking condition in the nest, which also is very productive of colds and cough. A floor of clay is good as against the first objection; it does not tend excessively to dust. It have bedded hogs on a layer of earth thrown on a tight board floor a foot or so above the ground, and this will prevent dampness, but is objectionable on account of the propensity of rats to harbor in it. Rats and unringed hogs are exceedingly destructive to a board floor. Every precaution should be adopted to exclude these odious vermin. Their constant running and squealing disturb hogs not a little, to say nothing of the thiereries they perpetrate. I have even suspected them of devouring very young pigs. If I were about to build a hog pen now, after years of experience, I should try at least one compartment of it with a brick or stone floor laid tight in cement, as a foundation for the layer of earth for them to rest in. This would prevent the foul and pernicious dampness that would arise by capillary attraction from the ground beneath, and it would exclude rats. Let me repeat: If the farmer will carefully watch his pigs and completely renovate their straw, once a week at the outside, he may with safety give it to them for nesting; otherwise not. With the best of intentions toward my swine, I never could bear it in mind to change their bedding often enough; and there is hardly anything more pernicious to them than a pile of evil-smelling, polluted straw. It is positive poison to them. -Stephen Powers, in Ohio Farmer.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

Reforms Advocated by a Committee of the New York Legislature. The report made to the Legislature of New York by Mr. Ellbridge T. Gerry and a number of other gentlemen, in relation to the proposed execution of criminals by electricity, contains a number of interesting facts. In their report they maintain that the effort to prevent the increase of crime by the indiscriminate application of capital punishment to various offenses involving different grades of moral turpitude, or, in other words, by increasing the list of offenses to which capital punishment is made applicable, has proved a failure; that any undue or peculiar severity in the mode of inflicting the death penalty neither operates to prevent the occurrence of the offense nor to produce a deterrent effect; that from the long catalogue of various methods of punishment adopted by various nations at different times only five are now practically resorted to by the civilized world. Accompanying the report is a long list of the different modes of capital punishment practiced in different countries. In Austria, Holland, Portugal, Russia, England and America the gallows is used; in Bavaria, Belgium, Denmark, France, Hanover and Saxony, the guillotine; in Brunswick, these; in China, a Italy and Prussia, the sword; in Ecuador and Oldenburg, the musket; in Spain, the garrote; and in Switzerland, in fifteen cantons the sword is used, and in four cantons the guillotine. In ninety per cent. of these countries the executions are public. The demoralizing effect of such exhibitions can not be estimated. The aim of these gentlemen is not only to have electricity introduced for the present mode, but to have laws passed so that where a criminal is to be executed none but the officers of the law shall be present. -Democrat's Monthly. Worshipping Buddha. Another way (to worship Buddha, in the temple at Kyoto) is to chew the prayer paper and when soft throw it in the form of a pellet at the god, through a wire screen. If it goes through and sticks on the god, the prayer will be answered. If it hits on the screen, it is no good. Some of the gods are thickly plastered with this school boy missile. When I saw this it suddenly came to me why I did that same thing when a boy at school, using another boy as a god. It was the outburst and overflowing of a devotional spirit. The other boy did not always see it in that light, and sometimes made irreligious remarks about it, but that was owing to his ignorance of my simple form of Buddhist worship, that's all. -Japan Cor. Hartford Courant. Helping the Monkey. "Dan," said a four-year-old, "give me five cents to buy a monkey." "We have one monkey in the house now," said the elder brother. "Who is it, Dan?" "You," was the reply. "Then give me five cents to buy the monkey some nuts." The brother could not resist. -Texas Siftings. An Escaping Defaulter, who was held up on his journey by train-robbers and relieved of his hard-won pile, complains that professional courtesy is dead in this brutal, grasping, modern world. -Puck. Shocking Accident. So read the headlines of many a newspaper column, and we peruse with palpitating interest the details of the catastrophe, and are deeply impressed by the sacrifice of human lives involved. Yet thousands of men and women are falling victims every year to that terrible disease, consumption (scrophulous of the lungs), and they and their friends are satisfied to believe the malady incurable. Now, there could be no greater mistake. No earthly power, of course, can restore a lung that is entirely wasted, but Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will rapidly and surely arrest the ravages of consumption, if taken in time. Do not, therefore, despair, until you have tried this wonderful remedy. "Ya-u-so CD in your dress?" asked the school-teacher of a tramp. "K Q no, man," replied he; "I drank 2 X's." -Pittsburgh Chronicle. EVERY lady should read advertisement of Nat'l Medical Dispensing Co., in this paper. The Funeral Month of March.

An observant metropolitan barber says that he can tell a man's physical condition of the state of the hair! The Bible tells us that with his hair gone Samson lost his strength. The Romans considered baldness a serious affliction and Julius Caesar was never quite satisfied with himself because his hair was bare. The face, however, is the open book and one can readily trace in its various expressions, lines, changes and complexion the state of the system. The eyes that are unusually bright and yet has a pallid brightness, the face upon whose cheeks nature paints a rose of singular beauty and flush, more marked in contrast with the alabaster appearance of the forehead and nose and lower part of the face, is one of those whom the skilled physician will tell you will some day dread the funeral month of March, because it is then that consumption rears its richest harvest. Consumption they tell us is caused by this, that and the other thing, by microbes in the air, by micro-organisms in the blood, by deficient nutrition, by a thousand and one things, but whatever the cause, decay begins with a cough and the remedy that will effectually stop the cause of that cough cures the disease of the lungs. That is all there is of it. The cough is an evidence of a wasting. To stop it effectually, a remedy must be used that will search out the cause, remove that and then heal the lung and do away with the cough. This is the power, special to itself, possessed alone by Warner's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption Remedy. This is no new-fangled notion of narcotics and poisons, but an old-fashioned preparation of balsams, roots and herbs, such as was used by our ancestors many years ago, the formula of which has been secured exclusively by the present manufacturers at great trouble and expense. It is not a mere cold drug. It is a system-searcher and upbuilder and a consumption expellant. Where others fail, it succeeds and it gets at the constitutional cause and removes it from the system. J. W. Henshaw of Greensboro, Pa., on Jan. 15, 1883, reported that "he had derived more real benefit for the length of time, from Warner's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption Remedy than he had for years from the best state physicians." "If you have a cough, night sweats, "positive assurance in your own mind that you, oh-you, have no consumption," and yet lose flesh, appetite, courage, as your lungs waste away, you may know that soon the funeral month of March will claim you, unless you promptly and faithfully use an article named "Log Cabin." If other remedies have failed try this one thoroughly. If others are offered, insist the more on trying this unequalled preparation. Some persons are prone to consumption and they should never allow the disease to become seated. "Tommy, my son, what is longed for?" "A telegraph wire, papa." "Pray it, my son." "Because it scratches from pole to pole." Disastrous Failure! We can mention no failure more disastrous than that of physical energy. It involves the partial suspension of the digestive and assimilative processes, and entails the retirement from business of the liver and kidneys, only to find that the system of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as the restoration of its former vigorous status be hoped for. When this aid has been secured, a resumption of activity in the stomach, liver and bowels may be upon. The Bitters conquers malaria and kidney troubles. "There were wreaths in the old elvialric days, or else how could a knight throw down the gauntlet? -Texas Siftings. Gentee Quacks. "Yes, it pays," said a big, fat physician, with a name which is known throughout the medical world. "I have a practice worth $40,000 a year. "Women!" "Yes, you've guessed it first time. They pay $10 every time they come into my office. When one gets on my list I tell you she stays!" and Dr. H. - laughed long and loud. This is quackery, gilt-edged, genteel quackery - to keep suffering women paying tribute year in and year out, and doing them no good.
