MURDER.

A Brooklyn Groceryman Slain By a Burgiar.

New York, Aug. 23 - Early yesterday morning three thieves attempted to rot the grocery store of Christopher W. Luca at Jay and High streets, Brooklyn. They were surprised by the proprietor and a hand-to-hand conflict took place, in which the grocer was stabbed to the heart. The police found one of the men running away. He said his name was McElwain and gave a description of his companions, who had escaped. Their names he gave as Hawthorn Benson and Thomas Quinian. In less than an hour Detective Barry had captured Benson, who, on being taken before Inspector Byrnes, was recognized as Martin Denin, a professional thief and ex-convict. He was surrendered to the Brooklyn officers. The other man is being hotly pursued. Before Denin was taken to Brooklyn he sent for Inspector Byrnes, to whom he said that neither he nor Quinlan knew what had happened in the store. They were both outside watching, while McElwain was in the store. Suddenly McE wain came running out covered with blood. The prisoner and Quinlan then fled

McE wain was arrested by Policeman Kennedy, who said he heard shouts of "murder," "police," and a few seconds later saw a man running toward him with his shoes in his band. He grabbed him and took him to the station. Mc-E wain had in his possession a big. wicked-looking knife, the blade of which was covered with blood. The prisoner confessed that it was he who stabbed

MORE WRECKS.

Fatal Collision on the Baltimore & Ohio Road in West Virginia-Barnum's Circus Wrecked-Killed on the Track.

PETROLEUM, W. Va., Aug. 24 - A terrible collision occurred about eleven o'clock yesterday morning on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad between here and Silver Run tunnel, about twenty-three miles east of Parkersburg, in which three men were instantly killed and many wounded. The accommodation train coming west, due at Parkersburg at twelve o'clock, crashed into a special train occupied by railroad magnates on a tour of inspection. The wreck is said to have been caused by conflicting telegrams. The one received by the accommodation train was to pass the special at Petroleum, while the special train, engineered by Captain C. Rowland, is said to have had telegraphic orders to pass the accommodation at Silver Run. The result of these misconstructions was to hurl into eternity four men at least and wound fifteen or twenty others.

The trains came together with a crash at the curve east of Petroleum and between that point and Silver Run. Both trains were running at a rapid speed, and when they collided with a crash the special train and the engine, tender and baggage car of the accommodation went over the cliff in one inconceivable mass.

James Layman, engineer of the accommodation, one of the oldest engineers in the employ of the Baltimore & Ohio road, was crushed to death.

Alexander Bailey, fireman for Layman on the accommodation, was also crushed in the wreck of the engines.

C. Rowland, also one of the old engineers of Parkersburg, was caught under the wreck and had one leg broken and received internal injuries from which he can not recover.

John Fletcher, fireman on the special, was also killed. Fletcher stuck to his engine, and with his helpmate preferred death to desertion of his post and went over the bank in the wreck. He was crushed to death. The special car, occupied by officials on an inspecting tour, was smashed into smithereens.

Roadmaster Hunter was badly injured, together with several others. George Douglass, in the same car, was also badly injured. In the accommodation train, there were many passengers, all of whom received a terrible shaking up, and fifteen or twenty of whom were more or less inwas bad!v injured. When the train bearing the bodies arrived in Parkersburg it was surrounded by thousands of people, many of whom were friends of the dead, while others had friends whom they believed to have been on the wrecked trains. As it was impossible to hear from their friends, and as rumors of the accident had grown into colossal dimensions, the anxiety increased until the crowd numbered thousands at the depot.

The following is a list of the casualties as far as can be obtained. A large number of the wounded were removed to their homes and no record kept:

Killed-James Layman, engineer, o Parkersburg; Alex. Bailey, fireman, of Grafton: W. A. Fletcher, of Grafton. Injured-Josephu: Rowland, engineer, BARNUM'S CIRCUS WRECKED. WATERTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 24 .- The second train of the Barnum & Bailey show was wrecked late Thursday night five and one-half miles east of Potsdam, while on the way over the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg road, from Gouverneur to Montreal. Six cars were derailed, and two were telescoped so that every thing in them was crushed.

HONORING THE HERUES.

ing of a Corner Stone at Indianapolis-The President's Remarks. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 23.-The corner stone of the Indiana Soldiers' and and Sailors' Monument was laid yesterday afternoon with proper ceremony and in the presence of the President of the United States, many men of prominunce of the United States and thousands of veteran soldiers and sailors from all parts of the State. The city was aflame with color in bonor of the occasion, while on the scaffold of the monument in Circle Park, in every direction from the top, ropes stretched away to neighboring buildings or trees strung with pennants of innumerable shapes, from garrison flags thirty feet long to tiny embiems of freedom which were barely large enough to crowd three colors into. At the corners of the scaffold were 2,000 candle power electric lights.

The exercises of the day began at two o'clock when the parade formed and began its march through the principal streets. It was made up of the various posts of the G. A. R. from throughout the State, the State militia and local civic organizations. Fully 8,000 men were in line. It was nearly three o'clock when the head of the procession reached the monument. After the ceremonies attending the laying of the corner stone Governor Hovey and others spoke briefly, when President Harrison was introduced and spoke as follows:

Mr. President and Fellow Citizens: I did not expect to make an address on this occasion. It would have been pleasant if I could have found leisure to make such p eparations to have accepted the invitation of the committee having these exercises in charge to deliver an oration. I would have felt it an honor to associate my name with an occasion so great as this. [Cheers.] Public duties, however, prevented the acceptance of the invitation and I could only promise to be present with you to-day. It seemed to me most appropriate that I should take part with my fellow citizens of Indiana in this great ceremony.

There have been few occasions in the history of our State so full of interest, so magnificent, so inspiring as that which we now witness. [Cheers.] The suggestion that a monument should be builded to commemorate the valor and heroism of these soldiers of Indiana, who gave their lives for the flag, attracted my interest from the beginning. [Cheers.] Five years which had been worthily set up to our great Michael Flannagan, conductor; J. A. | war Governor, [cheers] I ventured to express the hope that near by it as a twin expression of one great sentiment there might be builded a noble shaft, not to any man, not to bear on any of its majestic fasces the name of a man, but a monument about which the sons of veterans. stately shaft say: "There is his monument." [Cheers.]

The hope expressed that ...y is realized now

[Cries of "Thank God," and cheers.] I congratulate the people of Indiana that our Legislature has generously met the expectations of our patriotic people. [Cheers.] I congratulate the commission having this great work in charge that they have secured a design which will not suffer under the criticism of the best artist- of the world. [Cheers.] I congratulate you that a monument so costly as to show that we value that which it commemorates. so artistic as to express the sentiment which evoked it, is to stand in the capital of Indiana. [Cheers] Does any one say there is wasteful-ness here? [Cries of No, No."] My countrymen, $200,000 has never passed and will never pass from the treasury of Indiana that will give better return than the expenditure for the erection of this monument. [Cheers]

As I have witnessed these ceremonies and listened to these patriotic hymns I have read in the faces of the men who stood about me that lifting up of the soul, that kindling of patriotic fire that has made me realize that on such occasions the Nation is laying deep and strong its future security. [Cheers.] This is a monument by Indiana to Indiana soldiers. But I beg you to remember that they were only soldiers of Indiana until the enlistment oath was taken, that from that hour until they came back to the generous State that had sent them forth they were soldiers of the Union. [Great appropriate that I should bring to you to-day sympathy and cheer of the loyal people of all the States. [Applause and freat cheering.] No American citizen need avoid it or pass it with unsympathetic eyes, for, my countrymen, it does not commemorate a war of subjugation. There is not in the United States to-day man who, if he realizes what has o curred since the time of the war and has opened his soul to the sight of that which is to come, who will not feel that it is good for all our people that victory crowned the cause which this monument commemorates. [Cries of "Amen" and applause.] I do ser ously believe that if we can measure among the States the benefit r sulting from the preservation of the Union the rebellious States have the larger share. [Apolause] It opened the way for a commercial life that if they will only embrace it and face the light means to them a development that shall rival the best attainments of the greatest of our States. [Applause] And now let me thank you for your pleasant greeting [Applause] I have felt lifted up by this occasion. It seems to me that our spirits have been borne up to meet those of the dead and glorified, and that from this place we shall go to our homes more resolutely set in our pur pose as citizens to conserve the peace and welfare of our neighborhoods, to hold up the dignity and honor of our free institutions and to see that no harm shall come to our country. whether from internal dissensions or from the aggressions of a foreign foe. [Great and prolonged applause.]

General Rusk, Attorney-General Miller and others spoke briefly and the exercises closed amid cheers and the booming The monument will be built of light gray volitic limestone. It will be 268 feet high. The manument will be inscribed: "To Indiana's silent victors, by a grateful State."

Imposing Ceremonies Attending the Lay- An Important Pension Decision-Serious Defect in the Contract Labor Law-The State Department Puzzled-A Chinaman's Wife-An Old Consul Dead.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 - Assistant Secre tary Bussey has rendered a decision on the pension claim of Daniel B Kaufman, fornerly of Company A, Fortieth regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers, which was brought before him on a motion for reconsideration. In his decision he rescinda rule No. 135, made by Commissioner Black, September 4, 1885, and overruled the opinion of ex-Assistant Secretary Hawkins in the same case, that a 'dishonorable discharge" from the service operates as a "bar to pension." He also holds that rule No. 135 was an erroneous interpretation of the statutes granting pensions to the soldiers of the late war for disabilities incurred in the line of duty, and declares that the character of a soldier's discharge can not affect his claim for pension on account of such disabilities. He holds that a "dishonorable discharge" is a penalty for a specific offense against the service, for which the soldier may be punished, but that the penalty can not include or relate to a claim for pension based upon disability. The two things are held to be wholly distinct from each other, and are not governed by the same legal considerations. The opinion discusses the history of the pension system and the practice of the department from the organization of the system in support of the present ruling. The decision rendered by ex-Secretary Delaney in the case of Croy, June, 1885, is quoted to the effect that 'there is no statute which in terms imposes upon a dishonorably discharged soldier of the late rebellion a disability to receive a pension, provided he be disabled by disease contracted or wounds received while in the line of duty as a soldier. The act of July 4, 1862, grants a pension to any officer of the army who, since July 4, 1861, had been disabled while in the service and in the line of duty. Neither act or any subsequent act amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto contains any provision whatever by which a pension is denied to a disabled soldier of the war of 1861 because he was dishonorably discharged. The allowance and payment of pension to such a soldier is conditioned alone upon proof of disability incurred in the service and line of duty."

The Assistant Secretary holds that for the D-partment to impose upon a soldier the D-partment to impose upon a soldier to use, if you follow directions, than and the forfeiture of the right to even claim other soaps would be if given to you, for by pension because of a dishonorable discharge which may have been inflicted by a court martial for an offense of which the court had jurisdiction would be equivalent to punishing the soldier twice for the same offense. The opinion re-establishes the ruling of the department which prevailed through all administrations antedating the issuance of rule No. 135 by Commissioner Black.

A VITAL DEFECT. WASHINGTON, Aug. 21-The Treasury Department has discovered a serious defect in the law to prevent the importation of contract labor. To his knowledge there had been no communication of this character sent abroad and it is the opinion of the State Department that the English Government must have received it through some other source. Surgeon-General Hamilton, of the marine hospital service, was also seen. He stated that a resolution was adopted by the quarantine convention held in Montgomery, Ala., last March, requesting the State Department to take steps in this direction through its diplomatic channels. A similar resolution was adopted by the American Medical Association on June 28 last, but no action on the subject had been taken by the State Department to his knowledge.

A CHINAMAN'S WIFE. WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.-In answer to an inquiry from a Galveston man, the Treasury Department has decided that the wife of a Chinese merchant, who may himself be entitled to exemption from the provisions of the Chinese Restriction acts by reason of his residence in the United States, can not be admitted to the United States when coming for the first time alone, or with a returning husband, otherwise than by the production of a returning certificate provided by the act of July

He was appointed Consul at San Juan, Porto Rico, in 1809, and was fully eighty years old.
