In another column of today's paper will be found the report of the First National bank, which speaks for itself. Its deposits have rapidly increased until they are in fine shape. We would not be afraid to wager that before the season is over that Lycurgus will make it in 2:29. He will continue to make the season here for a few weeks longer and those people who desire to breed to the best trotting horse in the state will do well to see Mr. Emigh before the season closes.

DECORATION DAY.

Today our people should all turn out and help properly to decorate the departed heroes who gave up their lives to defend this land of the free. Our citizens never ought to tire of showing their respect to the honored dead, the men who braved the hardships of many a battlefield only to lay down their lives upon their country's altar, a bleeding sacrifice. Let each and every one of us assist the surviving soldiers and the W. R. C. to carry out that pathetic poem of Will Carleton's, and "Cover them over with beautiful flowers, Those heroes of ours." and in the years to come we shall not regret it.

Wagon on a Log. Who is it that is holding Red Cloud back these days? They can be counted on your finger ends. Red Cloud is a unit on all enterprises but one or two bumps on a log are always trying to discourage genuine enterprises for fear that the city will grow and their business will be ruined. That is about the size of it. Red Cloud is the best city in the valley and before another year with its coming enterprises will be on a boom, and those fellows will be hollering "We did it." Some people can never be happy and see the city grow unless they have the say so. THE CHIEF likes to see people enterprising and always ready to help boost along genuine enterprises and Red Cloud has the people that can do it.

Red Cloud to Have a Wholesale Dry Goods House.

This week Mr. John M. Young returned from the east where he purchased a mammoth stock of dry goods for the firm of B. M. Young & Co., of this city, who have decided to open up a first class wholesale dry goods and notion house in this city. The firm are old hands in the business and have decided, and we think wisely, to locate a wholesale establishment in the city. Red Cloud by location is particularly adapted for the wholesale business and we hope that the firm will be greatly rewarded for their enterprise. They will probably go out of the retail business and enter exclusively upon the wholesale plan. The large room in the Moon block 32x100 has been secured and will be remodelled for the first installment of $30,000 worth of goods which will be here soon. Thus Red Cloud puts on metropolitan airs. No other city in the valley can boast of water works, street cars, electric lights, wholesale houses, and manufacturing, as can Red Cloud. Harrah for Red Cloud.

Memorial Day Proclamation. Mayor's Office, Red Cloud, Neb., May 29, 1896.

Witness my hand this 29th day of May, 1896. A. S. MANN, Mayor. T. J. WARD, City Clerk.

Memorial Service.

The Opera House was profusely decorated last Sabbath with flags and emblems peculiar to the observance of Memorial services of the dead heroes who gave up their lives for their country. The W. R. C. ladies and Garfield Post did the decorating jointly and it was beautiful. Rev. E. A. Randall preached the sermon, assisted by Rev. Taggart, and in his usual manner gave the audience a good sermon, bearing directly upon the occasion. The Red Cloud quartet did themselves nobly in the singing. Miss Igou presided at the organ. Mrs. G. W. Knight of Inavale spoke to the audience in regard to collection and $18.12 was raised for the W. R. C. It was one of the best meetings of the kind ever held in Red Cloud, there being full six hundred people present, if not more.

To show the efficacy of advertising in the Great Family Weekly we inserted the following advertisement in our last issue:

"Wanted a large quantity of rain at this office."

Before the paper had fairly been published to its thousands of readers the weather clerk, saw the notice and gave us one of the best rains of the season. Moral—Advertise in THE CHIEF. Everybody reads it.
