SERMON TO FARMERS.

Dr. Talmage Addresses the Agriculturista.

The Multitude Invited to Drink at the Gospel Well-All Classes Welcomed -Glorious Offering of Christ-Healing Worldly Sorrows.

In a sermon lately preached at the w York and Pennsylvania exposition Elmira, N. Y., Rev. T. DeWitt Talage took his text from Genesis xxix. "And they said, we cannot until all flocks be gathered together, and till they roll the stone from the well's mouth; then we water the sheep." After alluding to his early training on the farm and the appropriateness of his addressing an assembly of farmers and stock raisers, Dr. Talmage said: And now while the air of these fair grounds is filled with the bleating of sheep, and the neighing of horses, and the lowing of cattle, I cannot find a more appropriate text than the one I read. It is a scene in Mesopotamia, beautifully pastoral. A well of water of great value in that region. The fields around about it white with three flocks of sheep lying down waiting for the watering. I look off, and I see other flocks of sheep coming. Meanwhile Jacob, a stranger, on the interesting errand of lookinging for a wife, comes to the well. A beautiful shepherdess comes to the same well. I see her approaching, followed by her father's flock of sheep. It was a memorable meeting. Jacob married that shepherdess. The Bible account of it is: "Jacob kissed Rachel, and lifted up his voice and wept." It has always been a mystery to me what he found to cry about! But before that scene occurred, Jacob accosts the shepherds and asks them why they postpone the slaking of the thirst of these sheep, and why they did not immediately proceed to water them. The shepherds reply to the effect: "We are all good neighbors, and as a matter of courtesy we wait until all the sheep of the neighborhood come up. Besides that, this stone on the well's mouth is somewhat heavy, and several of us take hold of it and push it aside, and then the buckets and the troughs are filled, and the sheep are satisfied. We cannot, until all the flocks be gathered together, and till they roll the stone from the well's mouth; then we water the sheep."

O, this is a thirsty world! Hot for the head, and blistering for the feet, Long and tedious drought has dried up the world's ago, a Shepherd, with a crook in the shape of a cross, and feet cut to bleeding, explored the desert passages of this world, and one day came across a well a thousand feet deep, bubbling and bright, and opalescent, and looked to the north, and the south, and the east, and the west, and cried out with a voice strong and musical that rang through the ages: "Ho, evere one that thirsteth, come ve to the waters!" escaped. Compare your view of this Now a great flock of sheep to-day gather around this gospel well. There are a great many thirsty souls. I wonder why the flocks of all nations do not gather-why so many stay thirsty-and while I am wondering about it my text your hands, the one a sweet cup, the the well of eternal rapture, your the same line with formidable damage. breaks forth-in the explanation, saying: other a sour cup. A cup of joy and a children; and standing on the other A vehicle which is allowed to become "We cannot, until all the flocks be gathered together, and till they roll the stone from the well's mouth; then we you the more frequently partaken? water the sheep."

If a herd of swine come to a well they angrily jostle each other for the precedence; if a drove of cattle come a well, they hook each other back from the water, but when the flock of sheep come, though a hundred of them shall be disappointed, they only express it by sad bleating, they come together peacefully. We want a great multitude to come around the gospel well. I know there are those who do not like a crowd-they think a crowd is vulgar. If they are oppressed for room in church it makes them positively impatient and belligerent. Not so did these oriental shepherds. They waited until all the flocks were gathered, and the more flocks that came, the better they liked it. And so we ought to be anxious that all the people should come.

Go out into the highways and the hedges and compel them to come in. Go to the rich and tell them they are indigent without the gospel of Jesus. Go to the poor and tell them the affluence there is in Christ. Go to the blind and tell them of the touch that gives eternal illumination. Go to the lame and tell them of the joy that will make the lame man leap like a hart. Gather all the sheep off of all the mountains. None so torn of the dogs, none so sick, none so worried, none so dying, as to be omitted. When the fall elections come the whole land is scoured for voters, and if a man is too weak or sick to walk to the polls, a carriage is sent for him; but when the question is whether Christ or the devil shall rule this world, how few there are to come out and seek the sick, and the lost, and the suffering, and the bereft, and the lame, and induce their suffrages for the Lord Jesus. Why not gather a great flock? All America in a flock; all the world in a flock. This well of the gospel is deep enough to put out the burning thirst of the fourteen hundred millions of the race. Do not let the church, by a spirit of exclusiveness, keep the world out. Let down all the bars, swing open all the gates, scatter all the invitations: "Whosoever will, let him
